EMPIRES MINE NORSE COAST

ACT TO BLOCK GERMAN USE OF ORE SHIP LANE

Explosives Sown in Three Areas.

LONDON, April 8, Monday (AP).—The British and French governments announced early today that three areas off the Norwegian coast had been mined in their first move to deny Germany the use of territorial waters for the shipment of vital Scandinavian iron ore to Germany.

The governments, in a broadcast statement, warned that ships entering these territorial waters of Norway did so at their peril, but that the mine laying would not interfere with the free access by Norwegian ships to their own harbors.

The areas mined are off Stadtlandet peninsula, Bud, and West Fjord. The mined areas, the statement said, are being patroled for 48 hours following the laying of the first mine, to prevent Norwegian or other ships from inadvertently entering the danger zones.

Claim Rights Within Law.

The British said their action was in reprisal, in accordance with recognized rules of international law, for Germany's so-called brutal and illegal campaign against shipping of all nations in which it was said 150 neutral vessels and nearly 1,000 neutral lives have been lost. Germany's campaign also affected Anglo-French shipping, the statement said, and even included attacks against nearly 200 fishing boats, and some lightships.

Both Bud and Stadtlandet peninsula are on the west coast of Norway, and both are south of Narvik, Norwegian port for the loading of Swedish ore. The mines, therefore, presumably would block German ore ships from using the waters close inshore for passage to the Reich. Stadtlandet is about 120 miles north of Bergen, farthest point south in Northern Europe at which United States ships are now allowed to call under the neutrality act.

Retaliation by Germans.

This Anglo-French move to cut off Germany from a vital source of its war supplies gave immediacy to the question of what Germany might do in retaliation. German officials repeatedly have threatened that they would meet any British-French move in the northern sector with an adequate countermove.

Mining of the waters also gave emphasis to recent Anglo-French declarations that they intended to pursue a more vigorous policy toward neutrals in order to tighten the economic blockade of Germany. The declarations have included threats that German ships would not find a haven in Scandinavian territorial waters.

As justification for the laying of mines in neutral waters, the British statement said German submarine and airplane attacks on neutral and British shipping were "pure terrorism" and were carried out in "defiance of recognized rules of war."

"International law always has recognized the right of a belligerent when its enemy systematically has resorted to illegal practices, to take action appropriate to the situation created by the illegalities of the enemy," the statement said. "Such action is generally recognized to become lawful in view of the other belligerent's violation of the law."

Norway Given Notice.

Norway had been given notice, it was said, of the empires' intention to take action to deny Germany access to resources or facilities in Norway.

"The allied governments have observed that the heavy proportion of losses inflicted upon neutral countries, both of human life and in material, has fallen upon the Norwegian mercantile marine."

The British said altho Norway had suffered heavily, Germany had continued to demand the use of Norwegian territorial waters and Norway had even felt obliged to provide armed escorts for German ships.

"Whatever may be the actual policy which the Norwegian government by German threats and pressure is compelled to follow, the allied governments can no longer afford to acquiesce to the present state of affairs by which Germany obtains resources vital to her prosecution of the war and obtains from Norway facilities which place the allies at a dangerous disadvantage."

Deputy Has His Pants Shot Off in Wild Battle

Kenosha, Wis., April 7 [Special].—A deputy sheriff had his trousers shot off today while scores of villagers looked on from behind drawn shades. The scene was the village of New Munster, 25 miles west of Kenosha. The officer's assailant was a 23 year old farm hand who ran amuck with a shotgun.

Sheriff Leo Schend said his office received a call to come to New Munster because "trouble was brewing."

Deputies Leland Chartier and Frank Adar were assigned by radio. When they arrived, Mrs. William Bienemann, 60, told the deputies her son, John, was in her house, acting queerly. She warned that he had a shotgun and had threatened to kill the first deputy who came in. Chartier radioed back for reënforcements, and Sheriff Schend, Undersheriff William Dielmann, and Deputy Milton Laviollette came out.

A Council of War.

They held a council of war outside shotgun range. The sheriff could see Bienemann at the front window, so he went around to the rear, entered thru a woodshed, and crept into the house. He surprised Bienemann from behind and lunged for him. He grabbed the young man's left arm, but the shirt sleeve gave way and Bienemann broke free, punching the sheriff on the ear and knocking his hat off. Bienemann rushed into the bedroom, and the sheriff rushed out the back door.

Another council of war was held, and the officers debated whether to throw tear gas bombs into the house. Suddenly the front door opened, and Bienemann appeared with the gun in one hand and the sheriff's hat in the other.

Bienemann called out to the sheriff to come and get his hat. Mrs. Bienemann then emerged from the house, grabbed the gun, and ran. Bienemann chased her and, as the deputies closed in, seized the gun and aimed it at Deputy Laviollette.

Then—a Flying Tackle.

Deputy Chartier felled Bienemann with a flying tackle just as he was taking aim. In an instant all five officers were on top of the young man but his finger was still on the trigger. Chartier got the muzzle of the gun between his legs, and Bienemann pulled the trigger.

The shot shattered the seat of Chartier's pants, but he was not scratched.

When the officers finally overpowered Bienemann they led him to the jail hospital, locked him up, and demanded an explanation.

Bienemann said the house was full of alligators and wild animals.

MAN, THAR'S VITAMINS IN DRIED GRASS; EAT IT, SCIENCE ADVISES

Cincinnati, O., April 7 (AP).—Man can eat grass and get more vitamins from it than from all the other plants and the fruits put together.

Twelve pounds, dried, of the stuff that flies from the lawnmower contains more vitamins than 340 pounds of fruits and vegetables—more fruits and vegetables than the average person eats in a year.

This scientific discovery, along with methods to make grass powder palatable in pancakes, breakfast foods, bread, cookies, desserts, and candy, was made public tonight by the American Chemical society, which, tomorrow, begins a five day meeting with 3,500 chemists present. The man-eats-grass report came from W. R. Graham, G. O. Kohler, and C. F. Schnable of Kansas City, Mo.

If man could eat green grass he would get all the vitamins except D. Raw grass is not palatable, however, and when sun dried, it loses vitamins. But in recent years scientists have discovered that quick drying preserves most of the vitamin content.

Trying this for a human food, the Kansas City chemists dried the grass in a flash high temperature. Then they powdered it and found that if it is sealed in containers filled with nitrogen, the vitamins last unimpaired for two years.

Sam Forgets His Burglar Shooter Till It Shoots Him

Macon, Ga., April 7 (AP).—Sam Edwards' henhouse burglar alarm works. He found out for sure when it shot him today. He had rigged up a shotgun at the door to his poultry yard here in the hope of nabbing a chicken thief. Today, police reported, he rose early and went out to feed his fowls, forgetting to let down the hammer on the weapon. As he opened the door the shotgun fired and he received a full load of No. 7 shot in his right arm and chest. He was in fair condition tonight in the Macon hospital.

3 Million Dogs Give Germany Food Problem

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 7.—Dog lovers were worried today when they read the warning of Herbert Backe, secretary of state in the food ministry, that "in this war it cannot be permitted that 3 million dogs consume 100,000 tons of bread each year. We say nothing against the necessity of having watch dogs for the blind and dogs for the Red Cross and army hunting dogs."

But mere canines evidently are frowned upon. In view of the difficulty of feeding dogs, the number of pets in cities has decreased considerably. The statement today was made in connection with a general warning that the population must save on bread and flour. The warning presumably was issued because experts fear crops will be much smaller this year than last because of the hard winter.

Save on Potatoes.

Backe said that potatoes have not been rationed and that the authorities do not expect to ration them. Nevertheless, consumers have been told to save on potatoes, heretofore the backbone of German menus.

Sugar must not be used for sweetening tea or coffee, Backe said. For that a synthetic sweetener can be used, he asserted, thus making the sugar saved available for the canning season.

Altho Germany always has produced more beet sugar than she could consume, last year farmers did not succeed in harvesting their crops in time. The Germans now are trying to compel Czech sugar refineries to use beets of last year's crop, which were frozen. This the Czechs refuse to do, declaring that such beets would ruin their costly machinery.

Clothing Prices Up.

In the clothing line, prices have gone up even for articles that are rationed. Manufacturers are trying to provide work for their employés and satisfy buyers' needs by manufacturing beach clogs for city wear for women. These clogs may be bought without ration cards.

The cheapest variety, with mere strips of goods nailed to a wooden sole, cost more than $3 a pair. Those with leather straps and leather heels cost more than $7.

M'NUTT MACHINE SHAKEN BY U. S. 'PAY UP' ORDER

Levy Threatened on Party Kick-In.

The scandal brewing for six months over the Indiana Democratic organization's 2 Per Cent club, created by Paul V. McNutt while governor, boiled over yesterday.

The club is an organization which openly collects 2 per cent of the state employés salaries. Its take has been estimated currently at $11,000 to $12,000 a month.

It has been charged, in addition, that the funds have been swelled tremendously by contributions from contractors and other recipients of state favors.

Report Claim Is $235,000.

Bowman Elder, who recently resigned as treasurer of the Hoosier slush fund organization, was reported to have received notification that the internal revenue bureau intends to proceed against him with a claim for federal income taxes on his collections for the organization. The claim was reported to be $235,000.

Elder is second only to Democratic National Committeeman Frank McHale in command of the McNutt forces. He is an Indianapolis real estate dealer and for several years was a receiver for Indiana traction lines.

There was anxious speculation in Indiana Democratic circles on the possibility that the government's move might blast into oblivion McNutt's presidential aspirations. McNutt is now federal security administrator and an avowed candidate for the presidential nomination if President Roosevelt does not seek a third term.

Concerned Over Two Points.

Indiana Democratic political leaders were reported concerned as to these two points: Is the government merely trying to collect taxes on the hundreds of thousands of dollars which the 2 Per Cent club has shaken down from the salaries of Indiana political pay rollers and contractors? Or is it the government's intention to bring criminal prosecution against high Democratic leaders for violating the corrupt practices act?

Illinois Democratic leaders, like Indiana's, were reported stirred by the tax collection action. They were wondering if the government might move also against Samuel L. Nudelman, Illinois finance director, and others responsible for the Horner administration's $200,000 slush fund.

It has been rumored in Indianapolis for some time that the Indiana Democratic leaders had chosen several of their lieutenants to take the blame for the shakedown in event of federal investigation and that these men would have to face prosecution.

Denies Receiving Notice.

Elder denied at his home in Indianapolis last night that he had received any official notification, but said such notification might be in the mail. He said he had learned steps were being taken by the internal revenue men, however, and declined to comment while the government's action was in what he called the preliminary stage.

The developments centered in Chicago because Elder said he would be represented in case of a legal battle by Harry B. Sutter, Chicago attorney who specializes in tax matters. Elder said Sutter was McHale's college roommate.

Sutter explained that the government had not actually filed a claim against Elder, but had notified him by letters of its intention of making the claim.

Sutter said he understood the maximum sought was approximately $235,000.

Expects a Conference.

"One thing is certain," the attorney added. "This claim will be met in contest wherever it may be necessary to go. We feel that the action is extremely unwarranted, that it is an attempt to make a political matter of the situation.

"The government has asked us to show cause why the claim should not be made. The next step will be a conference with the government, probably in Indianapolis."

Sutter said he did not know whether the Democratic organization would pay the claim for Elder if payment becomes necessary. The attorney said his understanding is that the

Stelle on Way to Call Extra Session Today

Lieut. Gov. John Stelle was on his way to Springfield last night for the avowed purpose of issuing a call today for a special session of the state legislature.

This will be the latest development in a situation without precedent in Illinois. A call issued by Stelle would be legal only if he were recognized as acting governor. A call over the signature of Gov. Horner, who Stelle asserts is disqualified to serve because of physical disability, was issued Saturday. Which of the calls is the legal one, and which official will be the legal ruler of the state, probably will not be determined until the legislature convenes April 30, the date set by Horner.

Constitutional Grounds Cited.

Stelle's call will bring to a close a hectic Democratic primary campaign. Stelle, who is a candidate for governor on the insurgent Democratic ticket, has charged that the state is being ruled by an illegal regency during Horner's illness. Stelle claims authority for his procedure in the provision of the state constitution that the lieutenant governor shall take over the duties of governor in the event of disability or failure of the governor to perform the duties of his offices.

Regular Democrats opposing Stelle and his insurgent running-mates—Benjamin S. Adamowski, candidate for United States senator, and State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, who is seeking reëlection—assert that Horner is fully able to discharge his duties as governor.

First Test Expected Today.

The first test of the validity of the two calls is expected today, when they will be presented to Secretary of State Hughes to be stamped with the state's official seal. M. P. Akers, Gov. Horner's publicity man, said the governor's call will be taken to Hughes' office this morning. Akers predicted Hughes would refuse to affix the seal to Stelle's call.

Hughes was unavailable last night, but it was reported in Springfield that he had told friends he would affix the seal to both calls and let the legislature determine which is legal.

Stelle said last night that his call also will summon the special session for April 30. This, he said, is to cover the Horner call and make it legal. Stelle said his action will insure the validity of any legislation passed by the special assembly.

When Stelle arrives in Springfield he will go to the state house to issue the call. He said the Horner call is of doubtful legality not only because the governor is disabled but also because the call did not originate in the state house. It was issued from the executive mansion.

Adamowski Questions Legality.

Adamowski also attacked the legality of Horner's call because it had been issued in the governor's mansion instead of in the capitol. Adamowski said the law provides that such a call must be issued in the capitol building. Altho the text of the call bore the words "Done at the capitol," the call was signed by Horner in his bedroom in the executive mansion.

Stelle said his call will include all the legislative subjects mentioned in Horner's call. In addition, he said he would ask the enactment of relief legislation sought by Chicago and would call for an investigation of the Democratic machine's slush fund scandals.

Plans Effort to See Horner.

Stelle said last night that immediately after his call is issued he will go to the executive mansion and attempt to see Gov. Horner. Since he has failed in such missions in the past—and has blamed the bedside regency for the failure—a clash between Stelle and the regency may develop.

The lieutenant governor said it is his desire to protect Horner's health.

"The men who are keeping Gov. Horner a prisoner are doing him serious harm," he said. "Mr. Horner's physicians have advised him to leave the state, but the regency won't permit it. They fear the disclosure of their misdeeds if he should leave."

Stelle said that one of the first acts of the special session will be to determine Horner's physical condition. Hugh W. Cross, house speaker, repeated yesterday that a legislative committee will be appointed to determine whether Horner is able to perform his duties.

CAPITAL AWAITS NEBRASKA AND ILLINOIS POLLS

Outcome May Affect Presidential Race.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—Everybody in official Washington is waiting for the returns from the Illinois and Nebraska primaries next Tuesday to find out which way the political wind is blowing. Those primaries may not settle anything definitely but they probably will affect profoundly the course of the battle for the presidency.

The Wisconsin primary last Tuesday went a long way toward settling a couple of highly controverted questions. The three to one vote in favor of the President in the Democratic party demonstrated that Mr. Roosevelt can get himself renominated for a third term, without even asking for it, tho probably not unanimously.

For the first time in our history a major political party is willing to renominate a President in defiance of the unwritten law limiting the tenure of his office to eight years.

Split Menaces Third Term.

On the other hand the 25 per cent of the Democratic vote in the Wisconsin primary received by Vice President Garner indicates a split in the Democratic party on the third term that might prove fatal to Mr. Roosevelt as a third term candidate in the November election.

The second disputed point was settled in the Republican primary in Wisconsin. The two to one defeat of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York indicated pretty conclusively that Mr. Dewey's youth and inexperience in national affairs do not weigh heavily against him in the popular judgment.

In fact it leaves room for the interpretation that, compared with the maturity and experience of Messrs. Vandenberg, Roosevelt, and Garner, the youth and inexperience of Mr. Dewey are popularly regarded a distinct advantage.

Dewey Unopposed in Illinois.

In the Republican primary in Illinois on Tuesday Dewey is unopposed. Both of his rivals, Senators Vandenberg and Robert A. Taft of Ohio, warily shunned trial by ballot in Illinois. So, Dewey will win the presidential preference vote by default. Under the law the 8 delegates at large and the 50 district delegates will be advised to vote for Dewey on the first ballot at least in the Republican national convention.

The real interest pertaining to Dewey will be the size of his vote compared with the vote cast for President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner in the Democratic primary. If Dewey's vote should top Mr. Roosevelt's, and particularly if it should exceed the combined vote of both Democratic candidates, the 38 year old New York prosecutor's prestige as a vote getter would be enormously enhanced and Illinois would be adjudged ripe for reclamation by the Republicans in November.

Dewey vs. Vandenberg.

In the Nebraska primary on the same day Dewey again is pitted against Vandenberg. Because of his leadership of the fight against repeal of the arms embargo and of other opposition to the policies and doctrines of the internationalists Vandenberg appeals strongly to the Nebraska electorate and if he should win the primary the effect of his defeat in Wisconsin would be considerably counteracted. He would still remain a serious contender for the nomination.

If on top of his victory in Wisconsin Dewey, however, should win Nebraska and make an impressive showing in Illinois his political stock would go sky high and Vandenberg's would be correspondingly depreciated. The Dewey candidacy would attain a momentum which it would be exceedingly difficult for his rivals to check. His candidacy might easily become the bandwagon movement that Gov. Landon's became in the spring of 1936.

Eyes on New York.

Dewey's cause is being aided immensely by Mr. Roosevelt's third term ambitions. If the President is to be the Democratic candidate it will be more important than ever for the Republicans to choose a nominee who can carry New York, a state essential to Republican victory. Dewey demonstrated his strength in New York by failing to carry it in 1938 by only 60,000 votes. But for the communist vote he would have defeated Gov. Lehman.

That is the reason the President fears Dewey more than any other potential Republican nominee, the reason the administration has belittled Dewey, obstructed Dewey's prosecution of gangsters, staged federal prosecutions in an effort to outdo Dewey's record and is even now preparing an undertaking to smear Dewey before the Republican convention.

Taft Gets Southern Backing.

Notwithstanding his spectacular run up to date Dewey, however, is facing formidable opposition. Senator Taft, who will not participate in any primary except that in Ohio, where he has no opposition, is exceedingly active in proselyting for delegates in other states and is reported to have been extraordinarily successful, particularly in southern states where the Republican party is largely a paper organization and delegations are easily manipulated.

The votes of southern delegates carried in the vest pockets of Republican leaders frequently have determined the Republican nomination. Such votes enabled Senator Taft's father to defeat Theodore Roosevelt in the 1912 convention.

Pew Opposes Dewey.

Senator Taft is reputed to have rounded up 300 or more delegates; predicts he will lead the field on the first roll call. Unless a runaway bandwagon movement for Dewey develops, probably no candidate will have a majority on the first ballot. Pennsylvania, under the leadership of Joseph Pew Jr., will be nominally for Gov. Arthur H. James, but will be maneuvering to beat Dewey, whom Pew regards unfitted for the presidency. Pew already has enlisted considerable support for this stop Dewey movement in various parts of the country.

Alf Landon will head the Kansas delegation and is already starting war on Pew and other bosses. He is demanding the nomination of an unbossed liberal and apparently regards both Vandenberg and Dewey as acceptable.

DEWEY PREDICTS NEBRASKA WILL SCORN NEW DEAL

Lincoln, Neb., April 7 (AP).—Intensified campaigning in the Republican presidential preference race drew a prediction from District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York today that Nebraska's primary vote Tuesday will be a "rebuke to the New Deal administration."

Dewey telegraphed his Nebraska campaign managers in a new bid for the farm vote after three western senators endorsed the candidacy of his opponent in the preferential race, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich].

"I emphasize that we cannot have a prosperous America with a prostrate agriculture," Dewey's telegram said.

He charged "sound economic leadership, . . . policies that will encourage the expansion of industry, . . . and a constructive program for agriculture that will insure fair prices and create new farm purchasing power" could not be expected from the New Deal.

TAFT MAKES BID FOR VERMONT; TO GIVE 2 SPEECHES

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] put in a bid today for Vermont's support for the Republican presidential nomination.

Announcing two speaking engagements in Vermont and an intention to visit the birthplace of his grandfather, Alphonso, at West Townsend, Vt., Taft said he hoped to be the state's favorite grandson at the Republican national convention.

The Ohio senator will go to Vermont May 4. He is to speak at a massmeeting in Brattleboro and at a convention of young Republicans in Montpelier. Vermont's nine delegates to the Republican convention will be chosen at a state convention May 23.

SOCIALISTS NAME KRUEGER TO RUN WITH N. THOMAS

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—The Socialist party today acclaimed Norman Thomas its 1940 presidential candidate, to run on a platform emphasizing socialization of essential industries and nonparticipation in the European war.

For second place on the ticket the party chose Maynard C. Krueger, youthful professor of economics at the University of Chicago, who yesterday delivered the convention's keynote address.

Puerto Rico's Democrats Give Delegates to Farley

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, April 7 (AP).—Puerto Rican Democrats today placed the island's six votes in the national convention at the disposal of Postmaster General James A. Farley. The party convention expressed the hope that Farley would be the party's nominee and pledged its votes to him or whomever he directs. The convention directed the delegation to seek a Puerto Rican statehood plank in the Democratic platform.

RIVAL DEMOCRAT FORCES CLASH IN 21ST WARD ROW

Police Pressure Charged by Stelle Group.

BY LLOYD WENDT.

Insurgent Democrats led by Lieut. Gov. John Stelle accused their Kelly-Nash opponents of vandalism and police pressure last night. Opposing Democratic workers clashed in front of the Stelle-Adamowski-Barrett headquarters at 1715 South Ashland avenue, in the 21st ward, and the insurgents charged that four of their workers distributing handbills were molested by police and hoodlums.

The 21st ward clash occurred when three workers, said to be from the headquarters of Congressman A. J. Sabath, who is seeking reëlection and is a candidate for ward committeeman on the regular ticket, sought to cover a Stelle headquarters sign, almost two floors high, with a huge American flag.

Police Squads Restore Order.

Insurgent workers, led by Andy Hustava, 966 19th street, and Henry Burns of Lyons, pushed the Sabath men away and prevented them from raising ladders to hang the flag. A call to the Maxwell street police station brought two squads who quieted the workers. A 21st ward regular Democratic organization sound truck, which was in operation in front of the Stelle headquarters, drove off after the police arrived, and the men with the flag left with it.

An hour later the flag bearers returned. Stelle workers, who said they were advised by the police not to interfere, permitted the flag to be hung, obscuring their sign.

"It was a cowardly trick," Hustava said. "They're certainly showing no honor to the flag when they use it in such a shoddy manner. They'll find, too, that the trick is a boomerang. The people will resent such practices."

Handbills Reported Seized.

The insurgents accused police and hoodlums of taking handbills from their workers at four points during the day. They said the workers were sent out after it had been determined they were acting legally. They reported the numbers of the policemen in three instances and the number of a squad car in the fourth.

Efforts to identify the policemen accused were unsuccessful. Department records were locked up over the week-end, and officials with access to them were not available.

The insurgent candidates spoke during the day at four large rallies.

Adamowski Asks G. O. P. Aid.

Benjamin S. Adamowski, candidate for United States senator, called on the 150,000 Cook county Republicans who entered the Democratic primary in the 1939 mayoralty campaign, and who must take a Democratic ballot if they vote tomorrow, to support the insurgent ticket.

"Last year I joined in an appeal to all independent and conscientious Republicans to vote in the primary election and register a protest against Boss Kelly and his practices by voting for his opponent," Adamowski said. "Thousands of citizens responded, and, under the law, are now able to continue their protest by voting in the Democratic primary next Tuesday.

"The same machine is involved. The same issue presents itself—shall the people rule, or shall the machine prevail? A failure to vote is a vote for the machine."

CITY PARK BOATS SOLD ON LAND IN A DRIVING RAIN

In spite of a driving rain, two or three hundred persons who bought rowboats at auction yesterday weren't able to row them home. The auction was held at 4627 Diversey avenue in an open lot. The boats, which included 350 wooden rowboats and 38 propellor-driven metal craft, formerly were used in park district lagoons by concessionaires. They were auctioned by Norman Levy and Jack Gordon. Prices ranged from $10 to $30 per boat for the wooden ones, with the metal boats going for about $50 each. Oars brought $1 a pair. Most of the buyers were resort owners and bid in from 1 to 15 boats.

Primary Candidates Sprint 135,000 Miles in Vote Derby

Candidates for major offices in the primary tomorrow have traveled approximately 135,000 miles and addressed more than 1,500 meetings in their election campaigns, a survey showed yesterday.

Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for the senatorial nomination, has addressed 360 rallies since Feb. 1, often making 11 and 12 speeches a day. He made eight yesterday. His office estimated he has traveled 27,500 miles during the campaign and has addressed 140,000 persons.

Congressman Ralph E. Church, Brooks' opponent, is the only candidate who has made fewer than 125 speeches. His office said he has made nine [not including radio talks], five of them yesterday. Church remained at his desk in Washington thruout most of the campaign, altho he made 12 round trips from the capital for a total of 18,960 miles.

Green Leads in Mileage.

Dwight H. Green, a Republican candidate for nomination for governor, leads in mileage. He has traveled 40,000 miles since Jan. 27, his office said. "And I don't know how far we traveled before that," a spokesman said. Green's office said he made about six speeches a day for 90 days.

"Green has spoken to all ages," the spokesman said. "One time he spoke in the back of a harness shop to a group of whist players, the youngest 74 years old and the oldest 84."

Richard J. Lyons, Green's opponent for the nomination for governor, has traveled 18,000 miles since Jan. 1, and has appeared at 316 meetings [156 downstate and 160 in Cook county] and has addressed an estimated 270,000 persons.

A 9,400 Mile Race.

The Stelle-Adamowski-Barrett triumvirate, heading the insurgent Democratic ticket, estimated 136 meetings—80 downstate in 21 days and 56 in Cook county in the last two weeks. The three put their travel log at 9,400 miles, 3,800 of them downstate. They have spoken to at least 50,000 persons, they said.

James M. Slattery, regular Democratic candidate for the senatorial nomination, has covered Illinois by caravan with Harry B. Hershey, Democratic candidate for governor. They spoke before 102 downstate meetings, traveling 5,000 miles. In the last six weeks they have addressed 121 meetings in Chicago.

G. O. P. VICTORY YEAR IS HAILED BY DITCHBURNE

Select Candidates Carefully, He Urges.

Harry S. Ditchburne, Republican candidate for nomination for state's attorney, yesterday called this a "victory year" for his party, but warned that victory would be won only by a careful selection of candidates at Tuesday's primary. Ditchburne spoke at several ward meetings and made a radio speech.

Ditchburne repeated his pledge to wipe out dishonest elections, protected and syndicated crime, graft, racketeers, and gangs if elected state's attorney. He said the separation of crime and politics could be accomplished "by an intelligent attack."

Pleads for Good Government.

"It will not matter to me, either," he said, "what becomes of me politically at the end of four years in office, so long as I have the satisfaction of having served well and according to the principles of right and justice. I will not let my actions be guided by any personal considerations and will continue thruout my tenure of office to keep the cause of good government always in the foreground.

"If you are a Republican you are vitally interested in this campaign. This is the year—1940—that we have been looking forward to as the year of victory for the Republican party. This primary is the opportunity we have to take part in the makeup of a slate of candidates who will carry our party against the New Deal ticket in November.

Appeals to Women.

"One thing of great significance to me is the intense interest shown by women in my campaign. Their support encourages me in my belief that there remains in our political structure a copious reservoir of practical idealism and determination to support the cause of good government. The women voters are thoroly aroused, and, frankly, upon them I have relied for the development of the crusade that is now going on and the fervor necessary to bring out a big primary vote in our Republican party."

Mrs. Ditchburne, the candidate's wife, in a radio address yesterday appealed to Republican women to support Ditchburne. She said he stood for "idealism rather than New Dealism."

RESCUE EFFORTS FAIL.

Mrs. Lizzie Goldsmith, 75 years old, died of a heart attack yesterday in her home at 1244 South Kesler avenue, in spite of the efforts of a physician and a fire department inhalator squad to save her.

COMMITTEE RECEIVES CHARGES POLITICIANS ARE TAPPING WIRES

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—Senator Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], chairman of the special senate committee appointed to police this year's elections, disclosed today that his committee had received several complaints that wire tapping was being used in current political campaigns.

Senator G. M. Gillette.

"We have not determined whether there is any substance to these complaints as yet," the senator said. "If there is we will turn them over to the special committee under Senator Tom Stewart [D., Tenn.]."

Gillette referred to the special senate committee directed to investigate wire tapping which now has two investigators looking into complaints in Rhode Island.

There had been reports earlier that this committee had received complaints of political espionage, but Stewart said he knew nothing of them.

GUNWOMAN KILLS EX-SWEETHEART.

A colored gunwoman who stepped from an automobile at 90th street and Green Bay avenue killed Joseph Clark, 33 years old, colored, of 5006 St. Lawrence avenue, yesterday. She then ran back to the car and drove away. She was identified as a former sweetheart of Clark, and is being sought.

ONLY ONE ISSUE—ROOSEVELT, MASS MEETING IS TOLD

Democratic Leaders Talk to Colored Voters.

Regular Democratic organization speakers spoke of the Roosevelt administration's record yesterday at a massmeeting of colored residents of the 3d and 4th wards. Thirty-eight hundred persons attended the meeting in the Savoy ballroom at 47th street and South parkway.

Mayor Kelly led in the praise of Roosevelt.

"I have no ambition for any further career in politics when my term as mayor is finished," the mayor said. "I'm out campaigning because I love Roosevelt. The people of the United States will reëlect him this year whether he likes it or not."

Call for Roosevelt Support.

United States Senator James M. Slattery urged the voters to use their ballots to continue the Roosevelt policies.

State's Attorney Courtney, who is seeking renomination, called for what he termed "an enormous vote for Roosevelt to insure success in the fall election."

Harold G. Ward, who is seeking the nomination for attorney general, told the crowd: "There is only one issue — Roosevelt. Individuals and candidates are important only as they are related to the policies of Roosevelt."

Urges Vote of Confidence.

Louie E. Lewis, candidate for nomination for lieutenant governor, urged the voters to cast a vote of confidence in the administration.

Among the other speakers were Raymond S. McKeough, seeking the congressional nomination from the 2d district, and Joseph B. Hermes, candidate for renomination as associate judge of the Municipal court.

Harry B. Hershey, candidate for the nomination for governor, lauded the accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration in a radio address yesterday and urged all Democrats to work together for victory.

"The Democratic party has no monopoly on salvation," he said, "but it has deserved the right to recognition because of its modern concept of service."

Blames G. O. P. for Split.

Senator Slattery also delivered a radio speech in which he blamed the Republicans for the factional split in the Democratic party.

Senator Slattery denied reports regarding Gov. Horner's health and about the governor's bedside cabinet.

"I have talked almost daily with the governor in the last 10 days," Senator Slattery said, "and hereby brand as untrue any and all poison pen tales that any man has imposed upon him or could impose upon him."

The final meeting of the regular Democratic campaign will be at 8 o'clock tonight in Sokol hall, 24th street and Kedzie avenue.

ROOSEVELT SPENDS QUIET SUNDAY ON HIS ESTATE; TAKES DRIVE

Hyde Park, N. Y., April 7 [Special].—President Roosevelt today spent a quiet Sunday in his boyhood home on the upper reaches of the Hudson river.

Recuperating from influenza, he slept late and missed services at St. James church, in which he was baptized and of which he is senior warden.

The President had no appointments for the day. He drove about his estate in the early afternoon and found snow and ice still lingering in the shaded areas of the family acres.

The drive ended with an inspection of the library Mr. Roosevelt is building on the estate to house his state papers and historical collection. James McShain, the contractor, accompanied him on the inspection tour.

11TH HOUR LYONS MESSAGE CLAIMS VICTORY FOR HIM

District Managers Told to Disregard Straw Polls.

An eleventh hour message to downstate district managers to disregard as obsolete last week's straw votes and other preprimary tests which showed Richard J. Lyons running behind Dwight H. Green in the Republican governorship race was sent out yesterday by the Brooks-Lyons headquarters in Chicago.

James E. Hill, downstate campaign manager for Lyons and his senatorial running mate, Wayland Brooks, sent long night letters to his lieutenants reminding them that organization work has just reached the final stage, that tests made since the straw votes were taken show that Lyons will carry Cook county.

Claims Superior Organization.

The Lyons management contends that since their candidate is backed almost solidly by the regular organization ward and township committeemen, the precinct work of bringing friendly voters to the polls will be done more effectively for Lyons than for Green, and that even in the interpretation of straw vote results, a percentage allowance for superior organization should be given Lyons.

"The straw polls," said Manager Hill, "were concluded last Thursday just before the organizations massed almost solidly behind Lyons began to do their most intensive work. It is organization work in primaries which often determines the final outcome.

"Later polls of voters show Lyons gaining 4.4 per cent and our own comprehensive house to house canvass of those eligible to vote Republican on Tuesday indicates he will win.

"It is what voters do on Tuesday, April 9, that counts, not what they thought three weeks ago.

Charges Error in Polls.

"Straw votes cannot take into consideration the results of organization activity. Conservatively estimated, the organizations usually account for 15 to 20 per cent of the vote cast.

"These straw votes have not been limited to those legally qualified to vote in Tuesday's Republican primary, but minors, Democrats, persons not registered, and even aliens have been permitted to vote in them.

"Many who voted for Republican candidates in the straw poll were Republicans who voted Democratic in the last mayoral primary, and if they vote are bound by law to remain in the Democratic primary on Tuesday.

"Also, many who are actually Democrats voted Republican in the polls, but they will be unable to mark for Republican candidates in the primary."

POLL CREDENTIAL RACKET CHARGED BY GUTKNECHT

Judge John Gutknecht, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state's attorney, asserted in a radio speech yesterday that he is unable to obtain credentials for roving polls watchers in tomorrow's primary.

"To all demands for such credentials we get a general run-around," Judge Gutknecht said, "from county judge to election commissioners to Chicago Bar association, to some committee, and then back again. What is this racket?"

Goes to Reno

ELIZABETH WHITNEY.

JOCK WHITNEY'S WIFE IN RENO TO SUE FOR DIVORCE

Reno, Nev., April 7 [Special].—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Whitney announced today that she had established residence here to divorce John Hay [Jock] Whitney, wealthy New York sportsman, and that suit will be filed "in due course." She said she motored here from Hollywood last night.

Mrs. Whitney registered at a fashionable hotel with three pet terriers and a German shepherd dog. She must remain in the state at least six weeks before filing suit.

"Mr. Whitney and I have separated," she said in a statement issued thru her attorneys. "More than three months ago, we entered into an agreement settling all property rights between us."

Mrs. Whitney is wealthy in her own right. Before her marriage in 1930, when she was 24, she was Mary Elizabeth Altemus, the daughter of Louis C. Altemus, Philadelphia broker. At the time, it was reported that Whitney had settled $1,000,000 on her as a wedding gift. Whitney is an executive of Selznick Pictures and is best known as a horseman.

STELLE INFORMS STATE WORKERS HE'LL TAKE OVER

Springfield, Ill., April 7 (AP).—Lieut. Gov. John Stelle called upon state employés today to support his Democratic governorship candidacy in letters in which he asserted it is his intention to assume the duties of governor immediately after the primary Tuesday.

Stelle, who heads the slate opposing the Horner-Kelly-Nash candidates, sent the letter to employés in all branches of state service. It was mimeographed on Stelle's official stationery and it said:

"Due to the charges of the Republican press, Republican politicians, and the serious disability of Gov. Horner, it is my intention, in the interest of the Democratic party, to assume the duties of governor immediately after the primary election.

"You and I are mutually interested in the immediate future and survival of the Democratic party. It is my earnest request that for the continuation of the same, the Stelle-Adamowski-Barrett ticket be nominated on April 9, I will expect your community to show favorable results on behalf of these candidates on primary day."

A few days ago Gov. Horner notified state employés by letter that he intended to resist any attempt by Stelle to take over state control. The governor's press representative, M. P. Akers, commented on the Stelle letter: "This is the final bluff in a campaign of intimidation and coercion by the lieutenant governor."

GREEN PREDICTS END OF MACHINE RULE IN ILLINOIS

Urges Big G. O. P. Vote in Primary Tomorrow.

Dwight H. Green, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, wound up his platform speaking last night with appearances before colored audiences in three south side schools. In each instance he predicted Republican victory next November.

"The hour that the Republican party has been waiting for is at hand," he said. "Tuesday will be the opening gun in a campaign that will bring victory to the Republican party next November and restore sanity and decency to government in Illinois and the nation.

Nation's Eyes on Illinois.

"There is an uprising of independent Republican voters in this primary which will end machine rule in Illinois and encourage the citizens thruout the nation. The eyes of the country will be on Illinois, watching the size of the vote to gauge the size of our power to win in November.

"The Republican party in Illinois must be a ringing declaration that Illinois will not only join but will lead the victory march on Nov. 5."

"We have issued a call to arms to all ranks and ages to get out the vote on Tuesday. We must turn out by hundreds of thousands and see that the vote stealers do not repeat the election crimes of last April.

"Our citizens of Illinois have grown exasperated at the corruption and abuses of the two Democratic machines. Our people are out of work, business is in despair, taxes are high, and agricultural prices are low.

Voters Want Change, He Says.

"Our voters are dissatisfied with attempts on the part of the New Deal to undermine our institutions and introduce foreign ideology into our government. They want a change. They want economy and sanity in government. They want a restoration of free enterprise and free opportunity. Above all, they want to keep the American system of government.

"These things can be assured by the nomination of our best Republicans. We must defeat the Democratic machines in Springfield and Chicago which do the bidding of the New Dealers and perpetuate themselves in office."

Today will be a day of rest for Green except for a radio broadcast from his home over a state-wide hookup of 17 stations which will close his campaign.

LOUISIANA IS BLASTED BY TORNADO; DAMAGE IS OVER HALF MILLION

Amite, La., April 7 (AP).—Tornadic winds ripping across southern Louisiana early today brought death to at least 4 persons, injured 27, and caused extensive property damage. One person was missing.

Arrows locate Amite and Lafitte.

Three were killed here: C. C. Pittman, superintendent of Tangipahoa Parish schools; Mrs. Pittman, and a Negro, Oliver Ruters. Mrs. Albert Guillie, 24 years old, was drowned in the picturesque Lafitte-Bayou Barataria section, 100 miles south, when her houseboat was wrecked. Her husband still was missing late today.

Twenty-five were injured here and two near Lafitte. Mayor Andrew Morris estimated Amite's property damage at $500,000. The town has a population of 3,000.

Twelve persons were killed in a tornado at Shreveport March 13 and five in another storm at Pierre Part a week ago last Friday.

Boston City Counsel Quits to Make Race for Senate

Boston, Mass., April 7 (AP).—Henry Parkman Jr. resigned today as corporation counsel for the city of Boston to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States senate seat now held by David I. Walsh, a Democrat. Walsh's fourth term expires in 1941, but friends expect he will seek re-election. He is the state's senior senator.

HUGE TAX CLAIM BLASTS INDIANA 2% SLUSH CLUB

Anxiety Rules High Places in Hoosier Party.

Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana was informed of the government's action last night and asked if the Democratic party would shoulder the responsibility for Elder.

"I am not an official of the club," the governor said. "I have no statement to make."

The investigation of the Indiana 2 Per Cent club was precipitated last August when Pleas Greenlee of Shelbyville, Ind., was nominated by both Indiana senators for United States collector of internal revenue for the state. Friends of the incumbent, Will Smith, appealed to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr.

Greenlee's income tax returns were soon under investigation and his nomination was dropped. The government then began to inquire into the income tax payments of other McNutt chiefs.

Greenlee had been McNutt's patronage secretary when McNutt was governor of Indiana, a post from which Greenlee was fired when he had gubernatorial aspirations of his own in 1936. In the light of the ill feeling over this, Greenlee was accused of revealing to the government secrets which the government apparently learned regarding McNutt leaders in the last few months.

Prosecutor Called In.

Whatever the source of the leak, it was so damaging that the government began a thoro inquiry into the 2 Per Cent club. Forty-five employés of the treasury department were at one time pressing the investigation.

Revelation that the government was prepared to act came last week when Val Nolan, United States attorney for the Indianapolis district, was called to Washington. He was summoned ostensibly on another matter. But when that matter was disposed of, and he still failed to return, the word went round that the long awaited scandal was about to break.

It was said unofficially last night that some party leaders favor payment of the claim in the belief that it would hush the scandal to some extent. Others, however, feel that this would only precipitate another scandal in the form of an inquiry as to why the organization had not paid the state's gross income tax. In the event the party loses control of the state in the forthcoming election, these leaders said, it might be impossible to forestall state prosecution.

NO SURPRISE IN CAPITAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—The report that the treasury department has cracked down on Indiana's Democratic slush fund with a tax dun on an officer of the 2 Per Cent club established in the régime of former Gov. Paul V. McNutt occasioned no surprise in Washington.

The internal revenue bureau has had upwards of a score of investigators in Indiana for several months probing the incomes of all the politicians who have participated in the handling of the huge political fund.

It was understood that at least one of these politicians in the McNutt organization had failed to account satisfactorily for a large amount of money that came into his possession in connection with the operation of the 2 Per Cent club. The politician under fire refused to divulge his disposition of the fund and was threatened with a demand by the government for income taxes on the amount that came into his hands.

Tells of Collections.

Shelbyville, Ind., April 7 [Special].—Pleas Greenlee, former secretary to Paul V. McNutt when McNutt was governor of Indiana, and former secretary of the 2 Per Cent club, said tonight he did not believe the government's tax action against Bowman Elder would injure McNutt's presidential aspirations.

Greenlee said the assessments against state pay rollers' salaries were made for Democratic organization purposes and amounted to about $150,000 a year. Two Per Cent club collections since McNutt was elected in 1932 totaled about $1,400,000. All the money was handled by Elder while he was treasurer.

Rep. Dies Tells Plan to Put Red Issue Up to Roosevelt

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, said today that he will put to President Roosevelt the direct question of supporting the committee's latest proposal for exposing foreign affiliated organizations.

Martin Dies.

Within 10 days or two weeks, Dies said, he will present to the President, the state and justice departments and congressional leaders a bill to require organizations with international affiliations to register with the state department and file their true membership lists.

Saying the proposed bill is "the most important development in the whole thing," Dies declared: "I'm going to ask the President the direct question of whether he will approve such a measure."

Clash with President Recalled.

Frequently in the past Dies has accused the administration of opposing his investigation. When the committee published the Washington mailing list of the American League for Peace and Democracy, the President characterized its action as "sordid."

The American Civil Liberties union, contending that political party members are entitled to protection from "exposure to contempt, prejudice, or antagonism," announced it will aid communist officials facing contempt charges for refusing to give membership lists to the committee, or answer questions concerning members.

Roger Baldwin, director of the union, said: "We defy Mr. Dies or any one else to give one single reason for requiring the membership lists of the communist party or any other organization under authority of the resolution creating the Dies committee."

Facing Contempt Writs.

The committee has taken steps to cite for contempt of the house five communists who declined to answer questions. Conviction would carry a possible penalty of a $1,000 fine and a year in jail.

Indicating that the registration bill might be the final remedy for un-American activities which the committee has been seeking in more than two years of hearings, Dies said that the house legislative bureau will be asked to start drafting the measure tomorrow.

Dies said he will inspect a similar proposal by Representative Jerry Voorhis [D., Cal.] and that the two bills might be combined. Intended to supplement the existing law requiring registration of foreign agents, Voorhis' plan would merely authorize the secretary of state to require registration of internationally allied groups.

Dies Plan More Sweeping.

Dies said he would have such organizations register, file membership lists, accounts, and names of officers, to be supplemented by periodic reports. He would impose heavy penalties for refusal to comply, the maximum to be outlawing the offending party.

Dies expressed the opinion that public sentiment is strong for such a measure. His recent appeal to the public to support his investigation, he said, brought tremendous response, letters coming from every state.

In the face of consistent refusals by recent communist witnesses to answer committee questions, Dies announced last night that subpenas will be issued for William Z. Foster, national communist chairman, and Earl Browder, national secretary, and German-American bund officials who have assumed the duties of Fritz Kuhn, former national leader now in Sing Sing prison.

FIVE WHO FOUGHT DIES FACE BATTLE TO STAY IN HOUSE

Only One Has No Foe in Democratic Primary.

Five Democratic congressmen who voted with a little radical bloc in the house of representatives to withhold funds for the Dies committee's investigation of un-American activities are facing stern opposition for reëlection.

Only one of the five, Kent E. Keller of the 25th district in far southern Illinois, is unopposed in the primary Tuesday. The others are Arthur W. Mitchell of the 1st district, Raymond S. McKeough of the 2d, and A. J. Sabath of the 5th—all Chicagoans—and Frank W. Fries of the 21st, which includes Springfield.

Even if all five of the Democrats get over the primary hurdle, the Republicans have taken heart from the general anti-New Deal trend of sentiment and are confident of defeating them. Rubber stampism and the brand of radicalism these Democrats have displayed are being used against them in campaign arguments.

Mitchell Faces a Fight.

Willard S. Townsend, president of the International Brotherhood of Red Caps, is seeking to wrest the nomination from Mitchell, and his friends say he is showing unexpected strength. Leading candidates for the Republican nomination in the 1st are Oscar De Priest and William E. King.

McKeough has two opponents in the primary, Edward P. Garrity and Joseph Frank, who are hopeful that they will be able to overcome the machine strength aligned behind the incumbent. Eleven are seeking the Republican nomination. Among them are former Congressman Patrick H. Moynihan, Ald. Arthur G. Lindell, Emmett F. Byrne, and Edward J. Finan.

Harry G. Green, who is opposing Sabath for the nomination, has publicized the congressman as a Dies hater and "the worst man, in point of service, in congress." Another active candidate is Stanislaus T. Kusper, who promises to take the 5th out of the "rotten borough" classification.

The Republican 5th district candidates are William L. Boehm, Martin Dykema, and Matthew J. Vogel.

Keller's Record Assailed.

Keller's record as a leftist who even outdoes most of the other New Dealers is being berated by two active Republicans, H. Edward Morgan of Christopher and C. W. Bishop of Carterville. They have described as shameful the treatment accorded Williamson county farmers ousted from their homes to make room for Keller's Crab Orchard lake, a $3,000,000 project financed by the government. Both Republicans have demanded a return to sanity in government and a better deal than relief as it is now administered.

In the 21st district Evan Howell, young lawyer and former head of the Young Republicans of Illinois, is expected to win the Republican nomination. He has criticized the rubber stamp votes of Fries and pointed out that TVA, which he supported, destroyed a large market for coal, which central Illinois could produce in abundance. Fries is expected to win his nomination from Peter F. Mack, an auto dealer.

BROOKS EXHORTS VOTERS TO BREAK DEMOCRATIC GRIP

Warns Concentration of Power Perils Liberty.

Wayland Brooks, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, pleaded with voters last night to break up what he called the increasing concentration of power built up by the Democratic national administration.

If that power is continued unchallenged, he warned, the future liberties of the American people may be destroyed. Illinois, he said, should help drive out that power this year. He pointed to the fates of Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, and other small nations as evidences of what may happen when power continues unchecked.

Speaks in Seven Wards.

Brooks made eight speeches, in the 2d ward, where he spoke twice, and in the 3d, 5th, 12th, 13th, 14th, and 42d wards.

"Two things stamp out human liberties," he said. "One is the concentration of power of government over the rights and lives of men. The other is war. They are both riding hard across the face of the earth. The voters of Illinois will choose the Republican party in 1940 to rebuild a friendly government, keep America out of war, insure opportunity for all, and renew America's march of liberty.

"Power is a bad thing concentrated. Power crushes and destroys individual liberty. Too much power is bad whether it is a monopoly of business or our present monopoly of government. The march of power within our lifetime has wiped out the rights and liberties of several minority peoples.

Points to Results of Power.

"Power wiped out Ethiopia. Power wiped out Austria. Power wiped out Czecho-Slovakia. Power destroyed Poland, and power—this time a godless power—brought Finland to her knees."

Brooks said tomorrow's election will be the most important in the history of the Republican party. And the party must not fail, he said. He warned:

"Give the New Deal four more years of power, with a blank check in its hands, with five hand picked members of the Supreme court, with a government of communistic and international minded tendencies, and no one can fortell the future of the liberties of our 130 million people."

LAKE DIVERSION ACTION URGED IN SPECIAL SESSION

The special session of the legislature should take action toward increasing the diversion of water from Lake Michigan and against the proposed St. Lawrence waterway treaty, Paul F. Pomeroy, secretary and legal adviser of the waterway committee of the general assembly, said yesterday in a telegram to Gov. Horner.

"The call for a special session fails to include two vital subjects," the telegram said. "One is the matter of providing increased diversion from Lake Michigan so necessary for the health, safety, and commerce of our people. The other is the proposed St. Lawrence treaty, which is against the best interests of our people and makes Lake Michigan an international lake instead of the all-American body it now is."

The telegram said the waterway committee had twice passed resolutions urging special session action on those problems.

Canadian Soldiers Storm Orchestra Leader's Home

CALGARY, Alta., April 7 (AP).—Three hundred soldiers tonight stormed the residence of Lou Darby, 29 years old, Negro orchestra leader, smashed windows, damaged the interior and manhandled a white soldier they found there. QUESTIONED AFTER FIRE.

Andrew Michna, 2523 North Austin avenue, a mechanic, was questioned last night by police and fire officials at the Cragin station in connection with a fire which did $200 damage to the home of his stepbrother, Theodore Ciasto, at 2726 North Meade avenue late Saturday night.

CHURCH POINTS TO INEXPERIENCE OF SENATE FOE

Brooks Never Elected to Office, He Tells Voters.

Congressman Ralph E. Church last night concluded his only series of personal appearances in his campaign as a Republican candidate for United States senator—they covered a period of four days—and returned to Washington by airplane.

He said his vote will be cast by absentee ballot and he will remain in the capital so his record of never missing a roll call may be maintained. Thus he will hear the primary returns in Washington.

Points to Experience.

Before his departure he delivered a radio speech in which he contended that his six years of experience in Washington entitle him to the support of the voters over his opponent, Wayland Brooks.

"The undue discussion of personalities in politics is repulsive to me as it is repulsive to you," he said. "But even if that were not the case, it would be impossible for me to revile my opponent in this campaign, Mr. Brooks' intentions, so far as I know, may be the very best.

"As to his public record, there is no possibility for criticism, for Mr. Brooks has never been elected to an office of public responsibility, altho he has frequently been a candidate.

"It is true that he was an assistant state's attorney a decade or so ago in Cook county, but that was not an elective post, of course, nor did it carry the direct weight of responsibility to the electorate.

Recites Own Record.

"An assistant state's attorney is not called upon to shape public policy, to direct national or local government, or to obey or disobey the will of the people. Hence, my opponent could not be criticized for failing in his public duty since the people to date have never elected him to perform such a duty."

He recited the story of his own election as a state representative for eight terms and as a congressman for three terms.

"It is this record of service dating back to 1916," he said, "that I now submit against the record of my opponent, who was once an assistant prosecutor in Cook county. And I contend that in solving the critical problems of that vast and complex social system we know as the United States of America there is no place for men without experience or training."

PENSION BOOST, CHIEF MEASURE IN SESSION CALL

Funds Also Sought for Sanitary District.

Several problems which have been disturbing legislators for months are included in the call for a general session of the legislature which was issued in Springfield Saturday over Gov. Horner's signature. Chief among these, for its political importance, is a measure to increase old age pensions.

Last summer, acting on the advice of Senator James M. Slattery, Gov. Horner vetoed a bill which would have increased maximum pensions from $30 a month to $40 a month. Senator Slattery, it was asserted at the time, had told the governor that congress would not approve a grant of federal funds which would enable the state to pay the increase. The day after the bill was vetoed, however, congress did provide the funds.

The governor's veto has been a heavy burden on the regular Democrats, since both the Illinois house, led by Republican Speaker Hugh W. Cross, and the senate, ruled by Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, foe of the regulars in the primary, voted for the bill to increase the pensions. Gov. Horner's call now would provide for legislation to increase the pensions, using the federal funds.

Sanitary District Funds Sought.

Another item in the call, of emergency nature, is intended to meet the need of the Chicago sanitary district for $1,400,000 to operate its southwest side treatment works after May 1. If funds are not provided by that time, officials of the district say, they will shut the plant and begin dumping raw sewage into the drainage canal which connects with the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers. Sanitary district engineers say this would create a serious health hazard.

The district opened its new plant, required since the district cannot take as much water from Lake Michigan as it once did, last June. At the same time both houses of the legislature passed a bill granting the district the extra $1,400,000. On the last day of the session, however, the legislature passed the tax preadjudication bill which, by its language, accidentally knocked out the measure which was to have aided the sanitary district.

Since that time, sanitary district officials have urged Gov. Horner to call a special session to provide the needed funds. His call, fixing the assembly date at April 30, will meet the emergency at deadline.

Seek to Revise Museum Tax.

The Horner call also provides for correcting existing tax laws which authorize funds to operate the Field museum, the Art institute, Shedd aquarium, the Museum of Science and Industry, the Chicago Historical society, and the Academy of Science. These institutions found their funds curtailed last fall when the Illinois Supreme court ruled that their tax levy law, which had been on the books since 1893, was illegally worded. The correction of the law by the legislature is merely a technicality, but it will enable the institutions to collect $600,000 yearly which they do not get now.

Also included in the call is provision for laws to permit the Cook county forest preserves commissioners to increase the maximum amount of land they can purchase from 35,000 acres to 40,000 acres. This will permit the commissioners to carry out an expansion program by the purchase of added strips of land at various points in the county.

The legislators also are asked to consider amendment of the unemployment compensation law to eliminate the employer tax on incomes above $3,000 [this is to comply with recent changes in the federal statute], legislation to permit Illinois cities to operate coal processing plants in order to increase the sale of Illinois coal, and laws dealing with highway road bonds and various other items of less general interest.

RUSSIA CONSTRUCTS NEW RAIL LINK WITH CEDED FINNISH LAND

MOSCOW, April 7 (AP).—Construction of a new railway connecting Russia's main line to the arctic with newly won territory northeast of Lake Ladoga was announced today in Pravda, official communist party organ.

The line, 81 miles long, connects Petrozavodsk, on the arctic line 250 miles north of Leningrad, with Suojarvi, former Finnish town to the northwest, about 65 miles north of Lake Ladoga.

"The fact that the new line was built in such a short period proves the unlimited possibilities of the soviet people," Pravda said. The article said that a mountain was blown up and five "big bridges" were built in the construction of the line.

PROBE ARRESTS BY POLICEMAN IN BOMBING INQUIRY

Arrests made by Policeman Walter E. Gray during the 16 years he has been a member of the River Forest police department were being investigated yesterday for a clew to the attempt on his life last Wednesday.

Gray, who was injured by a bomb placed in his automobile, was still in a critical condition in the Oak Park hospital last night. The bomb exploded when he attempted to start his automobile in front of his home at 722 Monroe street in River Forest.

Police Chief Carl Soderlin said Gray may have been the victim of some felon whom he was instrumental in sending to prison and who is now free.

RUMANIA TO HIT AT PROPAGANDA OF WAR POWERS

Legislation May Curb Diplomatic Pouches.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 7.—Rumania will crack down on flagrant belligerent propagandists with new legislation, it was reported tonight. German propagandists have been openly the most active and the action would hit them hardest.

A newspaper campaign in the last three days has warned Rumanians against being influenced by belligerent propaganda. Readers have been wondering what it foreshadowed. Tonight it was said the government was studying a law to keep diplomats from circulating propaganda not previously approved by the censor.

Strict Law Evaded.

Rumania has a sweeping censorship. A decree issued in February made it an offense to publish anything, even a letter to be passed from hand to hand, without first obtaining approval by the censor. Every form of printed, mimeographed or handwritten document comes under that law and only private letters are excepted.

Printing shops are forbidden to print anything not passed by the censor. That provision has been evaded, it is said, by bringing pamphlets into Rumania in diplomatic pouches and distributing them privately. Imprisonment up to two years and fines up to 5 million lei [about $27,500] are provided but diplomats of course, are not subject to such penalties.

Nazis First in Field.

Germany was first in the field here with active propaganda. Britain and France began competing with her and the situation has grown so acute that Rumanian authorities decided a halt must be called. There are rumors the British threatened to intensify their propaganda unless the Germans were curbed.

Book shops and newspaper stands have offered German, Russian, British and French publications presenting nationalistic views of the war. One that stirred much feeling was a German report of alleged Polish atrocities during the Polish campaign. It made the charge that mustard gas supplied by the British was used. The publication bore the imprint of the German legation and was not passed by the censor but was printed in Rumania.

Other pamphlets include a Russian text of the treaty with the puppet Finnish government set up at the beginning of the Russian invasion. An anti-French imitation of a French paper, Paris Soir, supposedly was put out by the Germans. There are many other forms of open and legal propaganda.

Propaganda Hits British.

What the Rumanians feel they must suppress to safeguard their neutral status is uncensored matter secretly distributed. It usually is passed by hand to persons most likely to be influenced and best able to help a cause.

An active and effective line of German propaganda here is to suggest to Rumanians that they and the French are being used as tools of the British. Rumanians are grateful for French aid in the past but they seem more susceptible to the suggestion that the British are villians.

ANOTHER LUXURY, THE HOT BATH, IS CURBED IN FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 7.—Residents of France will have to do without hot baths and hot water for shaving four days running every week until the end of the war, under the latest economy decree published here today.

The decree is designed to save coal and the cash which has to be paid out when coal is imported. Under the decree the use of central heating from April 1 to Oct. 15 is forbidden. It is customary here to shut off heat on April 15, but this year it was done a fortnight earlier by police order, which now has been given statutory force.

Public baths henceforth will be closed to the public three days a week except those which have medicinal value.

GERMAN SHIP OFF THRU ADRIATIC TO RIP BLOCKADE

Report British Navy Force Lies in Wait.

DUBROVNIK, Jugo-Slavia, April 7 (AP).—The German freighter Ankara sailed from here secretly at dawn today for a test trip thru Jugo-Slav territorial waters. Its mission was to learn if Germany could puncture the British-French blockade by establishing a trade route thru the Adriatic sea.

Dotted line indicates ship's route to Trieste.

Loaded with 5,000 tons of bauxite, the mineral base of aluminum, the Ankara headed for Trieste, Italian port 350 miles to the north, whence the cargo might be sent to Germany by rail.

Report Foe Lies in Wait.

There have been unconfirmed reports that four British warships were in the Adriatic ready to seize any vessel trying to establish such a route. Germany was reported to have failed to win Jugo-Slavia's promise to guard German merchantmen against seizure in her waters.

The Ankara is a 4,768 ton vessel less than three years old and out of Bremen. Her captain for this trip is a Jugo-Slav who was hired for about $1,200.

German shipping agents said that if the ship gets thru without interference dozens of German freighters will ply the route. They indicated Germany might get supplies thru neutral territorial waters from points as far away as Russia's Black sea oil ports.

Status of Cargo Disputed.

Jugo-Slavia was said to hold that bauxite is not a war material and therefore not subject to seizure. What she would do to uphold this view seemed uncertain. Britain contends that bauxite is a war material and therefore contraband.

[Informed quarters in London said Friday that reports of German shipping activity in the Adriatic were greatly exaggerated and that Britain would continue to exercise control over sea-borne war materials without giving the Germans advance notice of her plans.]

BRITISH ISSUE MAP; SAY IT SHOWS HITLER PLAN FOR CONQUEST

LONDON, April 7 (AP).—The ministry of information today issued an alleged German "secret map" which it said showed that German leaders in 1937 had prepared a ten year plan to conquer Europe. It said it showed that Germany planned to take Austria and Czecho-Slovakia in 1938 and to add progressively to her conquests until "before 1948 Hitler's hordes of grabbing gangsters would have seized Scandinavia and Portugal" and also Great Britain.

The ministry asserted the alleged map was found by Czech police in a raid in 1938 in Prague on headquarters of Konrad Henlein, then Sudeten German leader.

REYNAUD ENTERS A PERILOUS WEEK; FACES 2 HURDLES

Appears Before Rightist Senate Tomorrow.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 7.—A double parliamentary going over which may spell the finish for the present French cabinet or give it a new lease on life faces Premier Paul Reynaud's ministerial team this week.

Reynaud will lead his colleagues before the senate for a debate on Tuesday. He also has agreed to discuss his policies and achievements with the chamber of deputies later in the week. Both debates may be held partly in secret to permit thoro scrutiny of the military and diplomatic situation. Both sessions are expected to end with the government asking for a vote of confidence.

Reynaud hopes to get a majority from the senate, before which he will be making his first appearance as premier. He also hopes to increase the slender majority which he already has obtained from the chamber.

Praise U. S. Senate Move.

As Reynaud prepared to risk the life of his government, sections of the Paris press found occasion to express satisfaction about the decision of the American senate to extend the power of President Roosevelt to negotiate trade treaties for three years.

Editorial commentators envisage this as a victory for the administration's economic policy which is described as being akin to the "economic war aims of the allies." The newspaper L'Oeuvre is cheered by the idea that Washington, D. C., is jockeying itself into a position where it may exercise a powerful economic influence at the next peace conference.

Improves His Position.

The fact that the world will have to be remade along economic rather than political lines now has been grasped, according to L'Oeuvre, "by our English friends, American statesmen who deserve that name, and ourselves."

It is generally conceded that Reynaud has improved his position a shade since he took power after the unexpected resignation of the Edouard Daladier government March 20. But the senate is more rightist than the chamber and may display greater hostility to a cabinet which contains several Socialists. The list of questions about which notice already has been served indicates the senators are in a mood to probe deeply into the conduct of the government before making up their minds.

GANDHI FOLLOWERS STONED AS THEY SHOW HOW TO SPIN BY HAND

CALCUTTA, India, April 7.—Members of the moderate faction of the All-India [Gandhi] Congress party who were demonstrating hand spinning—one of the four points in Mohandas K. Gandhi's new technique in his program of civil disobedience—were stoned here today by extremist members of the congress. Seven persons were injured.

The assailants, shouting "down with Gandhiism" and various slogans in favor of Subhas Chandra Bose, leader of the party's radical faction, pelted the hand spinners with stones and shoes. Bose has charged that Gandhi seeks to compromise India's struggle for complete independence from Great Britain.

British Mines Off Norway Raise Problem for U. S.

Washington, D. C., April 8, Monday (AP).—Great Britain's mining Norwegian coast areas raised for American officials today the question of whether the "danger zone" from which American ships are banned should be extended. Under the neutrality law the President has authority to set boundaries of the "combat area" into which American ships may not venture.

BRITAIN WILL USE AMERICA'S THIRST TO AID WAR IN AIR

Plans to Sell Its Whisky and Buy Planes.

LONDON, April 7 (AP).—Britain today turned its economic offensive toward a campaign for fewer purchases of non-war materials from the United States and more sales in dollar markets to make available more funds for war supplies.

Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen [top] and Sir William Seeds.

New measures were reported to include plans to halt the flow of British funds for purchase of Hollywood movies and possibly even a domestic ban on Scotch whisky. This would let the nation dump the liquor in America for dollars that would be used to buy planes.

Reynolds News reported the plan for whisky dumping with the headline, "Whisky to Buy Us Bombers." It added that Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, president of the board of trade, would announce next week the plan to limit imports of American made movies, which are said to cost Britain $28,000,000 to $35,000,000 a year.

Balkan Issue Up to Parley.

Southeastern Europe, a major source of German supplies, came under the microscope of foreign office consideration. A series of conferences with British diplomats called home from that quarter will be opened tomorrow. The British ambassador to Turkey, Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, arrived by plane. Others are en route or already here.

Sir William Seeds, Britain's ambassador to Russia, who has been home several months, and Sir Percy Lorrain, ambassador to Italy, will attend the meetings.

Britain has warned the Balkan countries they will be deprived of rubber and other British products if they act as reservoirs for German war supplies.

Put Confidence in Blockade.

Confidence in tightening of the blockade around Germany and the drive for markets was expressed freely in Britain. The Sunday Chronicle proclaimed that "Britain has taken the offensive. The great push is on—bloodless but deadly."

Britain's economic drive was careful to take in dominion sources of supply. Dispatches from Sydney said Australian wool exports would be limited to countries that guarantee to refuse exports to Germany.

ITALY PREPARED FOR ALL TESTS, MUSSOLINI CRIES

ORVIETO, Italy, April 7 (AP).—Premier Mussolini told a cheering crowd today that Italy was ready to face whatever "this late spring brings."

Il Duce spoke briefly to a mass of blackshirt followers, townspeople, and students of an academy for training of Fascist women leaders which he inspected. The occasion was the first anniversary of the Italian occupation of Albania.

"Events which we are witnessing have great proportions," Mussolini said. "But we believe we are not inadequate for them, even considering their unusual scope.

"Whatever may be the happening which this late spring brings us, Italy will face them. It could not be otherwise. The Italy of the Fascist emblem which just a year ago liberated a people in three days, and previously conquered an African empire in seven months, is the Italy which we have willed and created thru 20 years of hard, uninterrupted tests, always crowned by victory."

1,606 PRISONERS ARE TAKEN INTO FRANCE'S ARMY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 7.—A total of 1,606 French prisoners serving short terms has been released and enrolled in the French army and the remaining 25,000 have been put to work in national defense industries since the beginning of the war.

Under French law prisoners serving terms of less than six months are automatically taken into the army. Others may apply for suspension of sentence, but this is granted only in a minority of cases. In one prison, 500 convicts have volunteered since the war began but fewer than 50 have been accepted. The total of volunteer prisoners serving more than six months who have been accepted by the army to date is only 426. Prison work shops are said to have doubled and in some cases tripled their production as a result of the hostilities.

The first child, Princess Ferial, was born Nov. 17, 1938. The queen, a commoner, and King Farouk were married Jan. 20 of that year. The new princess will be named Fawzia after the king's eldest sister, the wife of the crown prince of Iran.

Forty-one gun salutes in Cairo announced the birth and started country-wide celebrations.

NAZIS FIGHT 24 BRITISH PLANES; DOWN 2 BOMBERS

Swarms of Flyers Clash Over North Sea.

BERLIN, April 7 (AP).—Two British Wellington bombers were shot down today in a battle over the North sea, DNB, German official news agency, reported.

A swarm of German planes fought 24 British craft about 100 miles north of the Island of Sylt, off the west coast of Denmark, the agency said.

[The British air ministry said two British planes were missing and that one German fighter was destroyed and another damaged.]

Germany suffered no casualties in the fight, DNB declared. The British planes disappeared in a westerly direction.

Germany's high command charged that numerous enemy warplanes flew over Luxemburg territory yesterday to enter Germany and returned by the same route. The route was northwest of Trier [Treves], Germany.

Bomber Fights Off Four Pursuers.

A communique added:

"The airforce on April 6 made reconnaissance flights over northern and central France. One German Dornier reconnaissance plane was attacked by four Curtiss planes. The reconnaissance plane defended itself so long the enemy had to retire because of lack of fuel. The reconnaissance machine landed safely at a home port."

TIME IS AN ESSENTIAL ELEMENT IN THE CREATION OF QUALITY CLOTHING . . . time in the weaving of the woolens . . . time in the sponging and conditioning processes . . . time at the cutting table . . . time in the molding and shaping of the woolens with needle and iron.

KINGSWOOD WEAVES ARE CREATED BY FABRIC MOLDERS

Fabric Molders mold and shape Kingswood Weaves with needle and iron. They possess far-above-average skill and are paid top wages. Under their expert fingers, style is molded in—not just cut in as in ordinary clothes.

In molding with the iron, they painstakingly shrink and stretch the woolens into the contours that the designer visualized. The smart lines thus created are securely anchored for permanency by deft hand-needling.

Kingswood Weaves are brilliant examples of what we mean. Craftsmanship that has been paced for quality is evident in every detail. The careful, unhurried processing of the woolens leaves them with a soft, magnificent "handle." The painstaking molding of the fabric with needle and iron [see left] reflects itself in a suit that fits better, holds its shape longer and possesses marked distinction. DECORATION GOES "YOURS TRULY"

By CALEB

ROUGHLY, for one hundred and eighty-eight thousand years earliest man lived in caves. About 12,000 B. C. he stepped out of them into huts. But even in those infinite Long Agos his instinct to adorn rivaled his urge to abide, and wherever archaeology has discovered one of his prehistoric shelters its walls have been scratched or scrawled with proof.

But those were the mere toe-wrigglings of Art's infancy. In the parade of centuries since, not only has all Art accomplished maturity, but a special "art of art" has stemmed from it and become both a means and an end in itself. Decoration boasts today a whole dynamic domain of its own . . . and, to interpret it residentially, Field's devotes sections of its eighth floor to three distinct expositions of what is best and soundest in contemporary practice.

Which of these you will find nearest your own "sense of satisfaction" can only be determined by actual inspection. Personally, I incline to the Modern House—perhaps because it seems so practical, serviceable and livable. Its furniture is dubbed "Young Modern"; is styled simply "functional"; and of course the sofas that fit around corners, the ultra-inviting book nook and the ordered air of each room delight my own notion of order completely. The shining and fully implemented kitchen, however, should palpitate any housewifely heart for hours afterward.

In Trend House the note is independence. Independence, that is, of cut-and-dried decorative traditions of the past. Dispensing with their rigid "shalts" and "shalt-nots," the objective has been successfully reached of recognizing that occupants have personalities. Enter its bandbox of a bedroom, and you know it's Hers—or that vigorous chamber done in spruce green and hunting pink, and you know it's His! And who would have dared, however he cared, to neighbor a Victorian living room with a Regency dining room—in the "old days"? That's what I mean by independence.

Passing on into Thrift House, as its name implies, may especially bring that "satisfaction sense" to the younger clan launching into home-making as first-timers. Its decorative accent is Regency; its furnishings . . . one can hardly improve on "sophisticated." And its cost challenge can be taken by the modest income without hurdles.

Throughout all three model houses are "moments" for planners, remodelers, architects and decorators—or for just plain laymen like you and me, interested in pleasanter rooms and more agreeable surroundings. But here, as in so many other situations of the sort, the visitor will find that an ounce of seeing is worth a pound of saying.

MILLIONS GAZE AT ECLIPSE ALONG PATH THRU DIXIE

Many Scientific Groups Study Phenomenon.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 7 (AP).—Menacing clouds along the southern ring eclipse path cleared away in time today to give millions of persons their first chance in 75 years to see such a phenomenon.

The eclipse, caused by the moon coming between the earth and the sun, started at daybreak far out in the Pacific ocean and entered the United States at Big Bend, Tex., at 4:40 p. m. It headed out over the Atlantic ocean after a five minute performance here at 5:13 p. m.

Millions of laymen joined astronomers and other scientists in peering at the fiery ring as it covered its 2,000 mile path in about 30 minutes.

Visible Again in 1994.

The moon did not entirely black out the sun because the sun was comparatively close to the earth, while the moon was farther away than ordinarily. The relative distance resulted in the ring phenomenon which will not be seen again in this country until May, 1994.

From an airplane 16,200 feet above the ground, there was a pearly gray cast to billowy clouds below and a sunset glow on heavy, darker clouds on the horizon.

Clouds, which thruout the morning threatened to spoil the show, opened up at several places along the eclipse path to give observers a clear view.

Perfect Weather at Delta.

New Orleans reported perfect weather, and some observers said the shadows of trees during the eclipse looked like double exposures on a photographic film. That was an expected feature which probably was noticed in other places.

The full, ring phase—known to astronomers as the annual phase—was visible where skies were clear in an area about 75 miles north and 75 miles south of a center line which touched San Antonio, Tex., New Orleans, Pensacola, Tallahassee, and Jacksonville, Fla.

The rest of the United States and Canada saw a partial eclipse in which the moon covered varying amounts of the sun's surface.

93 Per Cent of Total.

In the annular phase, 93 per cent of the sun's diameter was obscured. The light was about 100 times that of a full moon.

Astronomers and physicists set up elaborate instruments thruout the path to study a wide range of scientific factors connected with solar rays.

The National Geographic society and the national bureau of standards tested the eclipse effect on radio reception at San Antonio.

The Hayden planetarium-Longines expedition came here to take the first photographs ever made of an eclipse of this type. They went up 16,000 feet to get their pictures.

A United States army bomber drove 34,800 feet into the substratosphere to photograph the event with the nation's largest and newest aerial camera.

CLOUDS MAR VIEW.

Chicago will have to wait now until 1994 to see another annular, or ring, eclipse of the sun, because yesterday's eclipse was itself eclipsed. Rain and cloudy weather prevented anybody from seeing the show, altho it was going on behind the clouds. Miss Maude Bennott, director of the Adler planetarium, offered a substitute showing of the phenomenon, which will be repeated in the planetarium the rest of this month, and that was as close as the eclipse came to Chicago.

Russia Appoints Envoy to Fill Helsingfors Post

MOSCOW, April 7 (AP).—Appointment of Ivan S. Zotov as Russia's minister to Helsingfors, Finland, was announced today by Tass, the official soviet news agency. Zotov has been Russia's minister to Riga, Latvia, since November, 1937. His post there will be filled by Vladimir Derevianski, who was the minister to Helsingfors before the Finnish-Russian conflict. The Finnish government has asked and obtained approval of Juho Paasikivi as minister to the soviet. Paasikivi headed the Finnish delegations in negotiations with Russia before the war and in those which resulted in peace.

Action Echoes Killing of Editor.

New York, April 7 [Special].—Two prominent communists will go on trial here next Thursday on charges of criminal libel brought against them by Mrs. Edith Liggett, widow of the slain publisher of a crusading Minneapolis, Minn., weekly.

Mrs. Edith Liggett.

The men, who will be tried in General Sessions court, are Clarence Hathaway, editor of the Daily Worker, chief organ of the communists in America, and Hyman Colodny, the paper's business manager. Judge John J. Freschi will preside.

The trial is an echo of the murder of Walter W. Liggett, publisher of the Mid-West American, who was killed on Dec. 9, 1935, in Minneapolis. For a number of years Liggett was a figure in Minnesota politics and thru his paper crusaded against an alliance between crime and politics. Men in high places often were the objectives of Liggett's attacks. Toward the end of his career Gov. Floyd S. Olsen was one of his principal targets.

Killed by Machine Gun Blast.

Liggett was killed by machine gun fire from a car as he returned home with his wife and their daughter in the afternoon.

Mrs. Liggett told the police that she recognized the slayer of her husband. A few days later Isadore Blumenfeld, a Minneapolis night club operator, was indicted for the slaying. Blumenfeld produced numerous witnesses to support his alibi and a jury acquitted him.

About this time the Daily Worker published a series of articles on Liggett's activities in Minnesota which Mrs. Liggett claimed reflected discredit on herself and her husband. She brought a libel suit for $25,000, and at the same time submitted to William C. Dodge, then district attorney of New York county, the complaint on which the criminal libel action is based.

Awarded Verdict of $2,762.

In the civil suit, filed in Brooklyn, Mrs. Liggett charged that Hathaway had misrepresented her husband's attitude toward labor, described him as a Trotzkyite spokesman.

Mrs. Liggett finally was awarded a verdict of $2,762 against the Comprodaily Publishing company, publisher of the Daily Worker, and Hathaway and Colodny as corporate and individual defendants. Last August Hathaway was lodged in a civil prison because of his failure to satisfy the judgment. He was released later in bond of $5,000 and ordered to remain in Brooklyn for six months.

In her criminal libel complaint in the case to go on trial Thursday, Mrs. Liggett stressed more virulent passages in the Daily Worker articles on her husband, one of which said Liggett was murdered for being "a scavenger."

The indictment, like the civil suit, names not only Hathaway and Colodny, but also the Comprodaily Publishing company.

Woman Killed; Operation Fails to Save Unborn Baby

Peru, Ind., April 7 (AP).—Surgeons failed today in an attempt to save an unborn child by caesarian operation an hour after the mother and a 5 year old son were burned fatally in a farmhouse explosion and fire. Mrs. Chloie Dillman, 39 years old, and the boy, Kenneth, died in a hospital here. The operation was performed immediately after the mother's death but surgeons said the infant had been dead an hour. The cause of the explosion was not determined.

TOBEY TELLS AIM TO MAKE CENSUS INTO POLICE LIST

One Gigantic Spy System Planned, Says Senator.

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] today said he had learned of a plan conceived by the department of justice to transform the 1940 census into the most complete police list in the history of the world.

Senator Tobey.

The department, Tobey said in a statement, drafted and submitted secretly to the budget bureau legislation to make census records available to the federal bureau of investigation, and the intelligence divisions of the army and navy in connection with espionage investigations and other matters relating to national defense.

Matter Dropped, Says Official.

At the justice department an official told reporters that legislation of that nature was drafted while Frank Murphy, now a Supreme court justice, was attorney general. President Roosevelt, however, condemned the proposal in a letter to Murphy, this source said, and the matter was dropped.

Tobey, who sought unsuccessfully to have the senate express disapproval of census questions about income, asserted that "if the department of justice were to have its way in having this plan enacted into law, it would mean the creation of a secret police system which, at will, could delve into the private affairs of all men and women in the country."

Only Shelved, Tobey Fears.

The justice department sought the approval of the budget bureau for its proposed bill, Tobey said, at a time when the senate was being deluged with mail protesting the income questions, and the census bureau therefore urged the budget bureau not to have the proposed bill sent to the congress, where, obviously, it would be available to the press.

"But," Tobey asserted, "it has been held up for the time being and has only come to light despite the precautions of secrecy taken by the department of justice. When the census inquisition has been completed, we may well expect the administration to exert its efforts for this new power."

Forest and Grass Fires Are Throttled by Rains

McLeansboro, Ill., April 7 (AP).—Forest and grass fires which had burned over thousands of acres of southern Illinois land and extended to the very edge of a producing oil field were blotted out by fairly heavy rains last night and early today. "The rain came just in the nick of time," said John Henson, district fire warden who was supervising work in this area where the fires were most serious. Precipitation measured from one-half inch to an inch thruout this portion of the state.

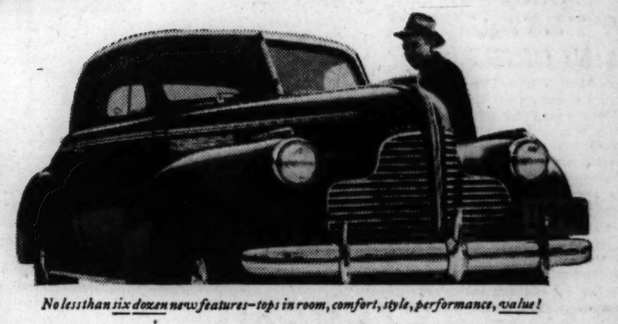
It's our biggest year— so you'll find some of the "best deals ever" at your Buick dealer's

Here's where Smart Money Looks First



No less than six dozen new features—tops in room, comfort, style, performance, value!

THERE'S one automobile you simply can't overlook—if you want to make sure your money buys all it should this year.

It's jam-packed with "must" features that spell value — it's priced to let you step up from the lowest-price class for only a few more dimes per day.

But here's what is even more important:

Not until you've actually tried a Buick have you any real idea of what your money ought to buy this season in size, style, room, comfort or performance.

Not until you've laid your own two hands on this great traveler — felt it come to smooth, powerful, thrilling life beneath you — can you really appraise what any other 1940 car is worth.

Prices on this strapping big Buick start at $895 *for the business coupe, delivered at Flint, Mich., with transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), and optional equipment and accessories extra as usual. Prices subject to change without notice.

But there are mighty few such "extras" you'll want, so complete is the equipment that's included in the Buick price, so perfectly satisfying is this honey as it stands.

In fact, that's one of the reasons why you'll go for Buick—and why all over the country people are saying:

Best buy's Buick at $895 plus and up

Milwaukee and Kenosha Help Fight Flames.

Racine, Wis., April 7 [Special].—Four stores in the 400 block on Racine's Main street were destroyed by fire today. Smoke and water damaged the stocks in adjoining stores. The loss is estimated at more than $200,000. Several firemen were injured, but only one required hospital treatment.

The fire started in the basement of the Neisner dollar store about 8 a. m. and was believed out at 6 p. m. Flames broke out in débris three hours later and firemen returned. A few will remain all night. Racine's entire fire fighting force of 62 men was assisted by firemen from Kenosha and Milwaukee.

From the basement of the Neisner store in the Alshuler building, 424 Main street, the flames burned thru to the roof within a short time. While firemen were trying to control the blaze on the first floor, flames ate thru the walls and into the Mason building on the north.

Smoke Damage Heavy.

The Mason building, 422 Main street, housed the stores of the Neumode Hosiery company and Polly Frocks. The third building involved was Wiegand Brothers' jewelry store at 420 Main street. The greatest smoke and water damage was done to the S. S. Kresge store at 430 Main street, adjoining the Alshuler building on the south, altho the basements of a dozen other stores were flooded.

Insurance agents who visited the scene of the fire said stocks in virtually every other store in the block would be damaged by smoke. Millions of gallons of water were poured on the flames during the day.

Firemen Cut by Glass.

In the course of the day several firemen were injured by broken glass. All received first aid treatment from the Kenosha Red Cross emergency truck crew and were able to stay on the job.

Lieut. Louis Swoboda and a crew had a narrow escape from injury in the Mason building. The firemen were working on the second floor when the center section burned thru and crashed to the first floor. The firemen were left standing on a narrow ledge along a wall.

Another fireman saved himself from injury when a ladder on which he was working fell. He grabbed a second story ledge and clung to it until another ladder could be raised.

Described Over Radio.

A radio station across the street from the fire broadcast a description of the scene. Thousands of Sunday idlers were attracted to the downtown district and their automobiles gave police a major traffic problem for many hours.

A strong police guard kept watch in the fire zone to prevent possible looting. Stocks of the Neisner, hosiery, and dress shops were destroyed, while Wiegand Brothers had sufficient time to remove virtually all of their jewelry stock out of the path of the flames.

TWO OLD FRIENDS MEET AFTER 21 YEARS—IN CRASH

Two old friends met last night for the first time in 21 years in a most unexpected manner—an automobile collision.

One, Thomas Burroughs, 40 years old, 3434 Broadway, a salesman, was driving north in Ogden avenue. The other, Joseph A. Aubert, 36, of 2020 Kenmore avenue, a shipping clerk, was driving east in Eugenie street. Their cars collided. Aubert, his wife, Elsie, 35, and Burroughs were slightly injured.

As they were being driven in a police car to the Evangelical Deaconess hospital Burroughs and Aubert suddenly recognized each other as boyhood friends in the days when Burroughs' mother worked as housekeeper for Aubert's father. They last saw each other in 1919.

After old times had been recounted the two got down to the formalities of settling responsibility for the accident, and Aubert signed a complaint charging his long unseen friend with reckless driving.

COUPLE KILLED IN CRASH NEAR DOWNERS GROVE

Frank J. Kouki, 44 years old, 1819 Wisconsin avenue, Berwyn, and his wife, Mae, 43, were killed last night in a collision of their car and another automobile at Butterfield road and Highland avenue, two miles north of Downers Grove, in Du Page county. The driver of the other car, Harry Fields, 641 Duane street, Glen Ellyn, was injured. He was taken to the Hinsdale sanitarium. Police were unable to learn how the collision occurred.

David Dally, 21, and his wife, Betty, 19, were burned to death early yesterday when their automobile caught fire after overturning in a collision in Touhy avenue near Railroad avenue, in Niles. Their car was struck from the rear by another machine driven by Ty Goacher, 29, of 509 Lexington street, Maywood. Goacher, who incurred possible fractures of the ribs, and his wife, Loretta, 29, were taken to St. Francis hospital, Evanston.

Dally's car was loaded with household furnishings he was taking from his former home at 825 Lake street, Wilmette, to Mrs. Dally's father, August Peistor, at 1187 Home avenue, Oak Park, where he and his wife moved recently. His car turned over three times.

John Stunoff, 9 years old, 1306 Bosworth avenue, died last night in St. Mary's hospital of injuries suffered on Friday when he was run down by a city truck near his home. The driver was Philip Dahlman, 46, of 2735 North Hamlin avenue.

U to 4 p. m. yesterday 241 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 183 were killed in Chicago, where 5,377 were injured in the same period.

KIDNAP-TORTURER AMONG 26 UP FOR FREEDOM PLEAS

Wants Out of Prison After Serving Six Years.

Rudolph Pisani, kidnap-torturer, is among 26 convicts, 18 of them from Cook county, who will appear before the state board of pardons and paroles Wednesday to plead for freedom. Pisani has served nearly six years of a 25 year term in Joliet prison for kidnaping.

Joseph Sacrino.

In January, 1934, Pisani and two other men took Harry Welch, a Toledo, O., clothing merchant, to the basement of a saloon at 3253 Ogden avenue, where they demanded that he give them $2,000 ransom. When Welch protested they tortured him with a hot iron.

Escapes His Cartors.

Welch telephoned his mother in Toledo for the ransom, but she became suspicious when he broke down while talking. The merchant escaped from his tormentors soon after when Pisani took him out to eat. Sentenced with Pisani were Arthur Sway and Allan Siegal.

Pisani also was convicted of being a member of a $1,000,000 arson ring, but his 1 to 5 year sentence on that charge was allowed to run concurrently with his kidnaping sentence.

Others to Appear.

Among others scheduled to appear before the board are:

Roy Shelton, a brother of the members of the notorious Shelton gang of southern Illinois. He was sentenced to Menard prison in 1933 to serve two years for kidnaping and one year to life for armed robbery.

Joseph Sacrino, convicted of armed robbery in 1921 when he was 19 years old. He fled the state while under an appeal bond. He was found last February in Louisville, Ky., where he had become a prosperous night club and café owner. He was brought back and taken to Joliet to serve a one year to life sentence.

Harold Rambert, a former chauffeur for the city. He shot a piano player in a north side café because he objected to the pianist's playing, and was convicted in May, 1937, of manslaughter. He is serving 1 to 14 years in Joliet penitentiary.

Franklin Gossette, who was a 16 year old trusty at the St. Charles School for Boys in 1921 when he fatally beat Mrs. Grace Lovellette, wife of an assistant warden at the institution, before burglarizing their home. He was convicted of murder and is in Menard prison.

Harold Erlandson, a former Capone alcohol peddler, who was convicted of armed robbery in March, 1934, and sentenced to one year to life in the Joliet penitentiary. He received 27 continuances and the original records in his case were missing before the late Judge Walter P. Steffen forced him to trial. A jury returned a guilty verdict after two minutes' deliberation.

Dr. Crane Will Address Safety Award Dinner

Dr. George W. Crane, psychologist, will be the principal speaker Thursday night at the annual award dinner of the National Safety council in the Drake hotel. He will speak on common sense motoring. Kansas City, Mo., and the state of Rhode Island will receive the council's awards for the best safety records during 1939. Edward G. Robinson, screen actor, is to broadcast a safety message to American youth from Hollywood.

SUSPECTS ADMIT SECOND DETROIT MURDER FOR CAR

Detroit, Mich., April 7 (AP).—Assistant Prosecutor William E. Dowling announced tonight that John Kurzawa, 21 years old, and John R. Kasap, 22, had confessed to the second of two murders committed in order to sell the victims' automobiles.

Shortly after obtaining a confession from Kasap verifying Kurzawa's admission of the killing of Philip G. Loyst, 24, the assistant prosecutor said that both prisoners also disclosed they had shot Dorsey E. Bowman, 35, to death.

Loyst, garage mechanic, was killed to get possession of his automobile, which was sold under a forged title. Police said Bowman apparently had been slain for the same purpose.

"Both boys have confessed both crimes," Dowling said. "I do not wish to make details of the Bowman killing public at this point."

Dowling was reported to be keeping certain facts secret in an effort to forestall the framing of alibis by possible confederates of Kasap and Kurzawa.

Previously Dowling said the two had confessed killing Loyst and burying his body in the basement of an east side house.

The three others in the auto were injured.

Auto Leaps 20 Foot Ditch; Two Occupants Uninjured

Two young men hurdled a 20 foot ditch, filled with five feet of water, in their automobile last night, and escaped with only a jolting. The two, Thomas W. Blair, 6225 University avenue, who was driving, and F. M. Baldwin, 1414 Sedgwick street, were going south in Skokie highway near Happ road, north of Niles Center, when their car left the road, glanced off a stone culvert, and jumped from the north bank of the ditch to the south bank. The ditch runs east and west.

MILLION IS GIVEN CALIFORNIA U. FOR ATOM SMASHER

Berkeley, Cal., April 17 (AP).—A $1,150,000 gift to the University of California for the construction of a 4,900 ton atom smashing cyclotron was announced today by Robert G. Sproul, president of the university. The gift was made by the Rockefeller Foundation, and is contingent upon the university's success in raising another $250,000, Dr. Sproul said.

The huge new machine will produce in excess of 100,000,000 volts, compared with the 33,000,000 volt apparatus with which Dr. Ernest O. Lawrence explored the field of atomic energy and won the 1939 Nobel prize for physics. Dr. Lawrence, who is 38 years old, is a University of California scientist.

The present apparatus, with which Dr. Lawrence attacked atoms of such elements as sodium, phosphorus, and calcium to make them radioactive, has a 60 inch magnet and cost $80,000. The new cyclotron will have a 184 inch magnet. The new cyclotron may wrest from the atomic substances the secrets of energies that make plants and planets grow.

155 CITIES USING PARKING METERS, SURVEY SHOWS

The International City Managers' association reported yesterday that 155 American cities are using parking meters to regulate automobile parking in congested business and residential areas, and that 102 of them collected $3,470,000 thru the meters last year. The largest revenue from parking was $260,000, obtained in Houston, Tex., thru use of 3,869 meters. Meters usually operate on a charge of 5 cents for from 30 minutes to two hours.

All the Dates are New

IN this spring of 1940 there is little you'll notice as "new" about The Homestead and its service except the calendar-dates.

There's much new plaster-work, of course, and new paint-work and new carpeting—as there is every spring. Winter is a "making-over time" here, and we can almost refer to The Homestead as being new with every spring.

But the personnel of the place, and the personnel of its servitors, changes little and slowly. We're proud of that fact, because it's well-established that you like it so. It's one of the more-obvious reasons for your long liking for The Homestead.

Have you seen, yet, the changed Great Hall? And the newness of some of the rooms?

We're sure you'll like it!

STARLING, THAT BOLD IMPOSTOR, IS BARKING AGAIN

He Also Meows, a Thing No Decent Bird Does.

A birdie with a yellow bill
Hopped upon my window sill,
Cocked its shining eye and said,
"Aren't you 'shamed, you sleepy head!"
—Old nursery rhyme.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Fat greenish black birds with wicked, beady eyes and long whitish yellow bills are everywhere in Chicago and its suburbs these days. They do not converse in English, but when they feel the urge they meow like cats, bark like dogs, and pretend, by their chirps, to be meadow larks.

Be not misled. They are none of these, and they aren't nice. They are starlings, and several hundred thousand have been in the Chicago area for some time. The starling has an innocent look and is as smart as a crow, but naturalists vehemently term it a pest whose one virtue, if any, lies in its ability to imitate.

4 Came Over Back in 1900.

Ten years ago you'd have had to hunt diligently to find a single starling in Chicago. Forty years ago there were only four—two pairs—in America. They had been imported from England to a New York estate, where they were liberated in 1900.

From these two prolific pairs came what Gordon Pearsall, curator of the Trailside museum in River Forest, yesterday termed a menace to native American birds. Not only do they drive such birds as the woodpecker, crested flycatcher, bluebird, and chickadee from this region by stealing their holes in old trees, but they also have a bad habit of breaking or eating the eggs and young of other birds. This fault offsets the fact that they eat insects in summer.

Pearsall estimates there are some 300,000 in the Chicago area, but by fall the number should bee augmented greatly, as the starling has three or four broods of young a year, with an average of six or seven to a brood.

It's Highly Pugnacious.

A member of the blackbird family, the starling is a little smaller than a robin. It has a short wedge shaped tail and pointed wings. Like the English sparrow, it is highly pugnacious and considers itself duty bound to drive other birds away.

"It is a dirty bird, too," Pearsall commented. "It's worse than a pigeon.

"You'll never believe it, but we have one here now with an injured wing that must have spent some time in the city, for it can imitate a cat and a dog perfectly. It fools all sorts of people."

Bob Swanson

picks his racing cars for speed—
his cigarettes for slow burning

HERE THEY COME in a hurricane of flying dirt and squirting oil. You can almost hear the high whine of the motors and the shriek of brakes and burning tires as they streak into the sharp curves. They may call 'em "midget racers," but there's speed to burn underneath those toy-like hoods. Leading above is Bob Swanson, Pacific Coast champ. In a split second these racers may be climbing each other's hoods, hurdling, somersaulting, flying through fences. Bob Swanson likes a slower pace in his off-time. Smokes Camels a lot. He explains: "I don't like overheating in my cigarette any more than I like it in a racing motor. I stick to Camels. I know they're slower-burning . . . milder and cooler."

Slower-burning Camels give the extras

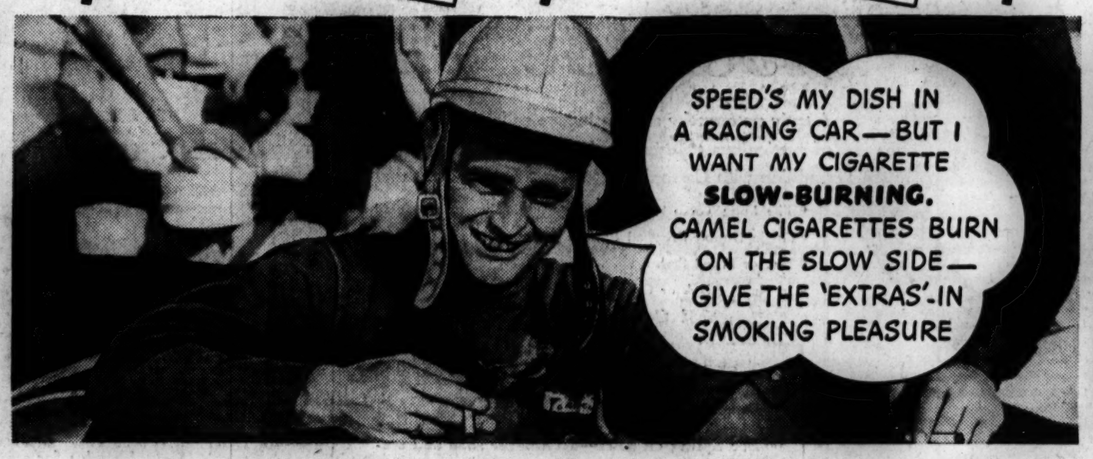
EXTRA COOLNESS
EXTRA FLAVOR
EXTRA SMOKING



SPEED'S MY DISH IN A RACING CAR—BUT I WANT MY CIGARETTE SLOW-BURNING. CAMEL CIGARETTES BURN ON THE SLOW SIDE— GIVE THE 'EXTRAS'-IN SMOKING PLEASURE

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

WITH BOB SWANSON, it's always a slow-burning Camel. "That slower way of burning makes a big difference, I've found," says Bob. "Camels are milder—easy on my throat. They don't bother my nerves. They never tire my taste. And they give an extra amount of smoking, too." Yes, speed is fine in the right place, but millions of smokers have learned that in cigarettes the coveted extras of coolness, mildness (which includes freedom from irritation), and full, rich flavor go with slow-burning Camels.

Reading between the lines . . .

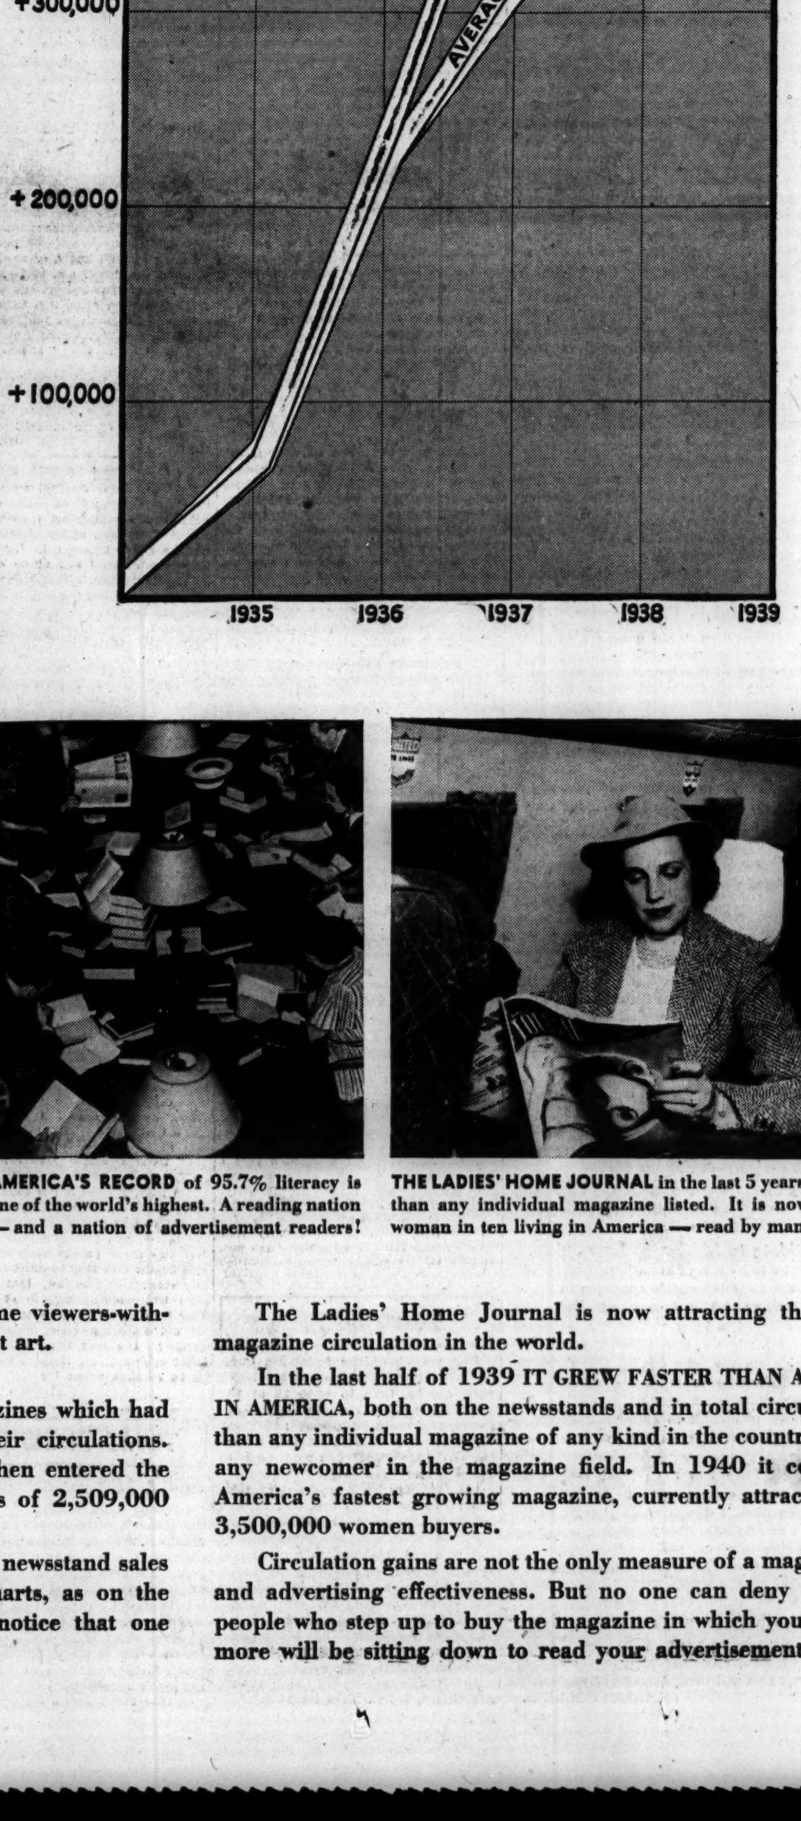
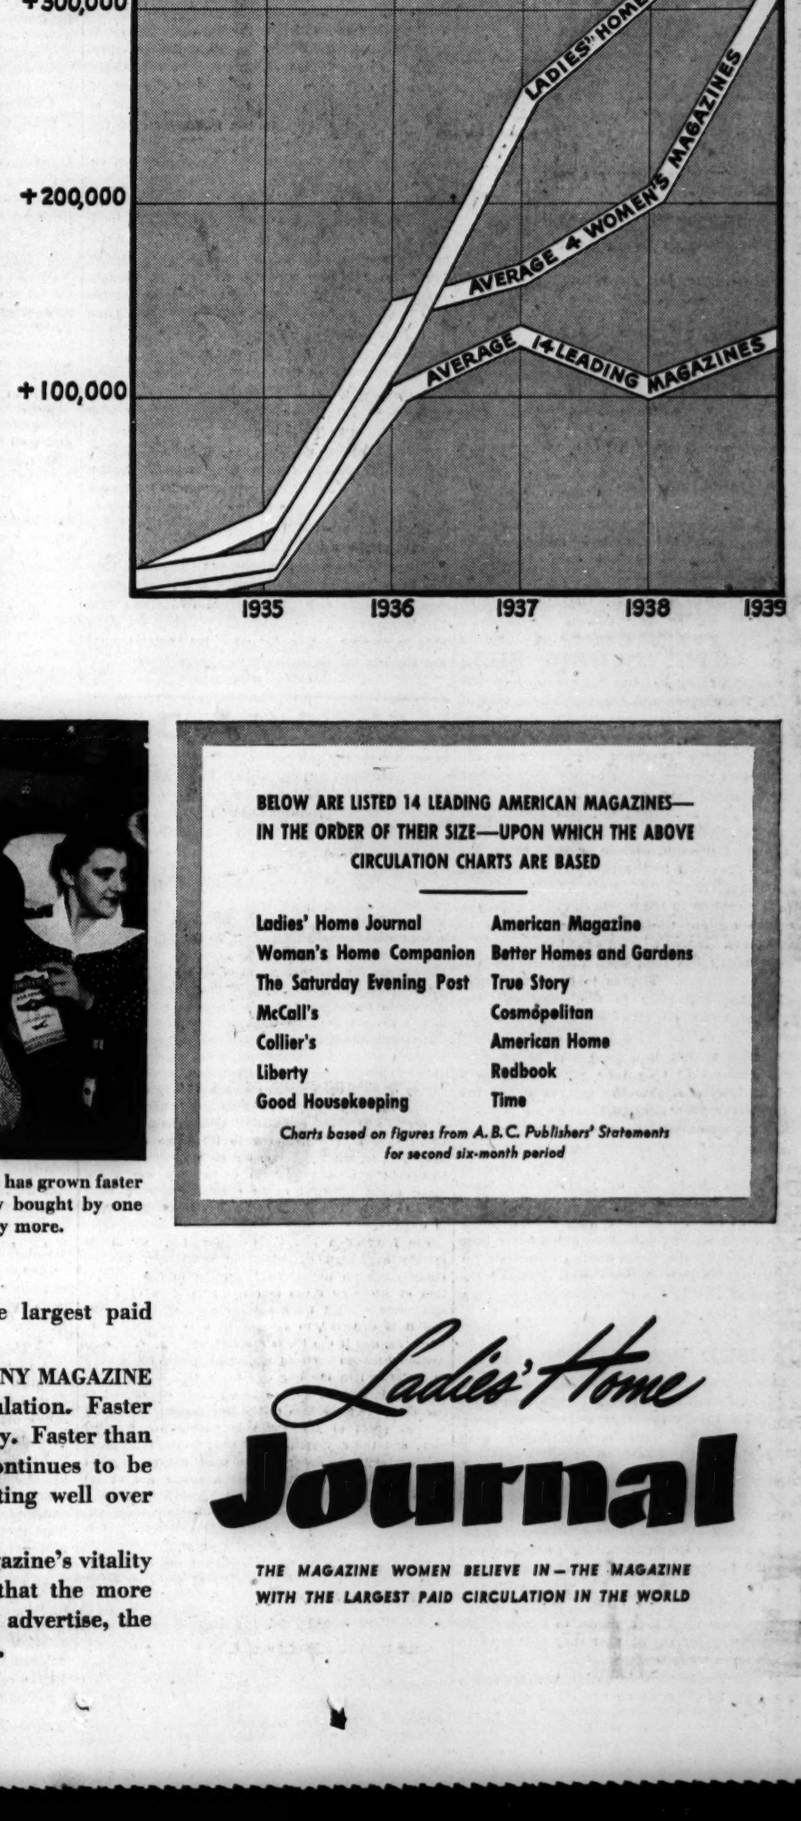
READING — favorite pastime of 38% of America's men according to their wives' response in same independent survey. Sports, next, got 28%.

MORE THAN 6,000,000 more copies of 14 leading magazines are being sold today than 5 years ago. Over 700,000 more copies of the Journal alone.





AMERICA'S RECORD of 95.7% literacy is one of the world's highest. A reading nation — and a nation of advertisement readers!

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL in the last 5 years has grown faster than any individual magazine listed. It is now bought by one woman in ten living in America — read by many more.

WHEN audible entertainment came into vogue, some viewers-with-alarm raised the cry that reading would become a lost art.

They seem to be wrong.

In the last five years, 14 major American magazines which had already attracted large audiences ALL increased their circulations. Two newly established magazines, Life and Look, then entered the scene (1936) and attained current circulation levels of 2,509,000 and 1,700,000 each.

The charts above show the increases in total and newsstand sales of the 14 long-established magazines. On these charts, as on the newsstands and in the American scene, you will notice that one magazine stands ahead of all the others.

In the last half of 1939 IT GREW FASTER THAN ANY MAGAZINE IN AMERICA, both on the newsstands and in total circulation. Faster than any individual magazine of any kind in the country. Faster than any newcomer in the magazine field. In 1940 it continues to be America's fastest growing magazine, currently attracting well over 3,500,000 women buyers.

Circulation gains are not the only measure of a magazine's vitality and advertising effectiveness. But no one can deny that the more people who step up to buy the magazine in which you advertise, the more will be sitting down to read your advertisement.

THE ILLINOIS PRIMARIES.

The Illinois primary elections tomorrow are as much of national as state interest. Mr. Roosevelt's name is on the ballot, illegally because the petition accepted by the New Deal state certifying board, with a phony proxy acting for Gov. Horner, did not contain the required statement of consent from the candidate. But that fraud, once committed, allows the Illinois New Dealers to drum up a vote for the chief against Mr. Garner, who complied with the law.

The Tribune poll has indicated that the third term can be put over by the state and city machines to show that the Illinois vote in the Democratic national convention is a gift to the White House on a platter. The Democratic politicos of the state had several reasons for putting up the willing Mr. Roosevelt without getting from him the declaration of intent which he will not make.

One of the reasons is undoubtedly an uneasy state of mind. Revealed or half revealed scandals which are in the courts, under investigation, or inviting investigation, gave the Illinois New Dealers most of their enthusiasm for the third term.

The Republican vote for Thomas E. Dewey will be compared with the vote brought out for Mr. Roosevelt as an indication of political trends in this part of the country. In spite of substantial gains in the election of 1938, including the recovery of the state house of representatives, the Illinois Republican party remained the minority party. In the neighboring states it was returned to office.

Indications to date are that the Republican recovery begun two years ago is still on the up curve. The vote in the preferential primary tomorrow may reveal to what extent that is true in this state. The pay rollers are back of Mr. Roosevelt but the Republicans are confident that the vote for Dewey will be a good pointer to prospects in the ensuing campaign.

The Republican contest for the state offices was in a free primary with no state organization ticket. The Republican policy thus established was to allow the candidates a free hand and to give the nominations to the best vote getters. The campaign was conducted with vigor and the Republicans of the state have every reason to go to the polls. For them it is the beginning of the campaign to return Illinois to the Republican ranks in the national election, to stop the third term, to end the New Deal, and to deliver the country from the hands of men whose purpose with four more years of authority is to substitute socialist organization for the republican form of government.

THE ANTI-LYNCHING BILL.

The anti-lynching bill has been passed by the house in Washington and approved, by a vote of 11 to 4, in the judiciary committee of the senate. The bill is therefore before the senate for consideration. Some southern senators have announced their determination to filibuster against the measure till the cows come home.

If the threat is carried out and succeeds, it will not be difficult to place responsibility for the defeat of the bill. There is little or no Republican opposition to the proposal. Practically all the filibusters are Democrats. The Democratic political machines in the northern cities will have to try to explain the Democratic filibuster to Negro voters. It won't be an easy task.

This country has long been disgraced by the record of lynchings. Thanks to those who have attacked the evil year in and year out the number of those offenses has declined rather steadily. The agitation for a law to punish state officers who permit lynchings and to penalize communities where they take place has gone a long way toward ending the evil, even tho the law has never been enacted.

Forty-five years ago there were 192 lynchings in this country and of the victims 134 were Negroes. As recently as 1930 there were 21 lynchings at which 20 of the victims were Negroes. In 1938, the last year for which information is at hand, there were only six lynchings. The men and women who have given their time and money over the years to the campaign for a law to punish mob violence have achieved the substance of victory tho they have yet to get beyond first base in congress.

UNUSED WAVE LENGTHS.

A new method of broadcasting has been invented by Maj. Edwin Armstrong. People who know about those things say that by this frequency modulation method tone is reproduced with great fidelity and the problem of static is pretty well licked. If you want to know how it works, you'll have to ask our Mr. Wolters or some other expert.

Mr. Wolters attended the recent hearings before the Federal Communications commission at which the prospective F. M. broadcasters asked for an opportunity to serve the public with this improved technique. To do so a portion of the radio spectrum must be assigned to them, which is a fancy way for saying that they will have to be given some wave lengths.

That wasn't easy because, as Mr. Wolters wrote a few days ago, "most of the ether space has been assigned to the government and television." Television is still in its infancy, and a considerable part of the spectrum assigned to it is still unused. Only the other day the chairman of the FCC took the air to warn the public against the purchase of television receiving sets because, he said, they would probably be obsolete in a couple of years. If the warning is heeded it doesn't seem likely that television will need all the wave lengths it now has, used and unused.

So far as the government itself is concerned, nobody seems to know why it needs as many bands as it holds and the government won't tell. The pretense is that the wave lengths are needed for national defense, but that is pretty largely nonsense, because in time of war the army and navy can commandeer the whole business.

The answer, of course, is burocracy. The burocrat by instinct and training is a dog in the manger. Everybody who was in the army knows how hard it was to pry needed supplies from the quartermaster or the ordnance department, tho it was their business to keep the army fed, clothed, and armed, and they had ample stocks on hand. Almost all burocrats behave like that.

The burocrat's self-esteem is promoted when he says no. That is why it is his favorite word. He is happiest when he is keeping other people from making good use of the things he controls.

AUTO DEALERS VOTE NO!

The automobile dealers have decisively expressed their views on government regulation. They don't want it in any suggested form, or in any other form whatsoever. That is what they have just told their national association. The opportunity to make known their desires was presented by a referendum conducted all last month. Some of the leaders in the dealers' organization wanted the government to prescribe and enforce rules covering the relations of automobile manufacturers, dealers, and the public. Accordingly a plan was drafted, called the Patman bill, in which were incorporated some elements calculated to catch the eye and the support of dealers generally. The star plank would require manufacturers to buy out dealers when agencies were terminated by the manufacturer during a three year agency period. In the referendum dealers were asked to indicate if they favored the Patman bill and, if not, whether they would be for some other plan of government regulation.

The votes were counted last week. The answer was no to both questions. Eight thousand one hundred twenty-eight dealers said that they didn't want the Patman bill. Only 975 voted for it. And 6,996 voted against and only 792 for some other form of federal regulation. The automobile dealers don't want any new law passed to regulate them, and their activity in opposing the proposed federal trade commission code shows that they don't want to be regulated under any existing law.

The business of making automobiles is carried on by giants who realize to the full the advantages of large scale production. The business of selling automobiles is for the most part a small scale business. Some ambitious men among the dealers have believed that the discrepancy in size in the units in the two sides of the business presented an opportunity which could be capitalized upon. In this they have misjudged the intelligence of the men who sell automobiles, just as the New Deal misjudged the character and the good sense of small business generally in attempting to get them to turn upon large scale enterprise.

Two years ago the Roosevelt administration called to Washington a conference of little business men. In preparing for the meeting a number of members of the New Deal made denunciations of large corporations. By proceeding against the heads of some of the largest companies it was thought that evidence of official solicitude for small employers would be given. But the New Dealers had not accurately appraised the intelligence and the independence of men who conduct small enterprises. They refused to be dominated by the administration stooges who were on hand to "assist" them in drafting a program. And what emerged was a body of principles as antagonistic to the Roosevelt administration as came from any group which had taken a position. The outcome of the conference was so different from what had been expected that a cabinet member lost his job.

The vote of the automobile dealers shows that the little business man doesn't want regimentation any more now than he did two years ago. The demagog in the trade association is no more able to deceive him about what his best interests are than is the demagog in the government.

Editorial of the Day

MARYLAND DUCK HUNTERS AND CANADIAN WATER LEVELS.

[Baltimore Sun.]

The world learns by processes not always pleasant that no nation and no locality lives to itself alone. A war abroad throws a shadow over all American trade. A plague abroad requires special measures for the protection of American health. And even in the world of sport the chain of cause and effect leaps across international boundaries. At least that is what Mr. Thomas C. Main, the manager of a Canadian Foundation for the restoration of breeding places for wild ducks and geese, told a group of Baltimore sportsmen the other day, and there is every reason to believe that he knew what he was talking about.

Mr. Main's thesis was that the draining of northern areas in which ducks and geese are accustomed to nest and breed has done a great deal to deplete the supply of fowl upon which Chesapeake bay sportsmen depend for their winter enjoyment. The depredations of crows and other enemies of waterfowl in the far north have also contributed to the same depletion. According to this authority, the most rigorous limitation of the shooting season down here would not make ducks plentiful again unless something were done to better conditions at the source of the supply in Canada.

The foundation Mr. Main spoke for, which is largely supported by American sportsmen, has already made an important beginning in the restoration of breeding areas and the protection of ducks and geese against their natural enemies in Canada, and it is expected to accomplish a great deal more when, as, and if the funds are forthcoming. The connection between such an undertaking and the supply of waterfowl in the bay country would have seemed too remote and tenuous to be seriously considered at one time. But the idea of the interdependence of the various parts of the world is widely disseminated now, and the suggestion that next winter's shooting in Maryland may depend in no small degree on what goes on this summer in Canada seems not at all fantastic.

LESSON FOR POLITICIANS.

Franklin J. Meine, bibliographer of American humor, has dug up the choicest example of bombast ever delivered before a legislative assembly in this country—and that is saying something. He found it in the records of the house of representatives of Missouri, where on Feb. 8, 1861, a certain Gen. Riley deliberately set out to establish a national record. Mr. Meine has printed the speech, which is brief but conclusive, for the Mark Twain society of Chicago, with these remarks in his foreword:

"This beautiful bit of bombast . . . surpasses in many respects such popular old masterpieces as 'The Harp of a Thousand Strings' [1855] and J. Proctor Knott's equally famous Duluth speech [1871]. . . . It is native Missouri material, current when Mark Twain was soaking up native elements."

So give ear to a few gems of eloquence and extravagant humor from Gen. Riley:

"Sir, we have lost our proper position. Our proper position is to the zenith and nadir—our heads to the one, our heels to the other, our left and right to the horizon, spanned by the azure arc of the lustrous firmament, bright with the coruscations of innumerable constellations, and proud as a speckled stud horse on county court day. [Cheers.]

"But 'how have the mighty fallen,' in the words of the poet Silversmith. We have lost our proper position. We have assumed a sloshindicular or diaganolobical position. And what is the cause? The people have been fed on buncombe, while a lot of spavined, ringboned, hamstrung, wind galled, swinney-eyed, split hoofed, distempered, poll-eviled, pot-bellied politicians have had their noses in the public crib until there ain't fodder enough left to make gruel for a sick grasshopper."

Gen. Riley's description of the politicians of his day deserves quotation by any of the runners for office who are at present endeavoring to relieve their feelings about the New Deal.

TANG OF SPRING.

A sudden, spicy tang of fragrant earth
I felt a quickening, a glad rebirth,
The memories of childhood and of home:
A breakfast shawl upon dear shoulders, and
The slat sunbonnet covering her face;
Tuck smooth dark bulbs into their hiding place.

Yes, I stopped at the florist's on my way
Back home tonight. This single bloom, this pot
Of mellow soil bring close the years that lay
So far, with things in them almost forgot.
By this frail sweetness gloom is locked without,
And all I know of heaven lies about.

Concentration Camp on Clark Street.

Brennan Stapleton asks [March 29] what civil war vestige is at the intersection of Clark and Diversey.

During the war Camp Fry was located where the old car barns now stand on Clark street a few hundred feet south of Diversey. It was a heavily wooded section and the old 10 mile ditch, then quite a stream, ran thru the camp.

A high stockade surrounded the camp. The entrance was on what is now Clark street. A high arch over the entrance bore the name "Camp Fry." Two cannons stood on either side of the entrance. Hundreds of southern soldiers were imprisoned there.

My father, who was a government official, frequently visited the camp and I accompanied him. The prisoners were well cared for; food was ample and well prepared.

Our family lived in the vicinity of the camp. Often in the evening we could hear the soldiers singing the songs of their homeland as they sat around the camp fires. Years later this section was called Wright's Grove and was a popular place for picnic parties from the city.

She moves about the great garden of books
Like a humming bird among the sweet flowers
Sipping the nectar from their petalled pages
And charming us with their honied distillate!

Bringing coral and polished shells to the surface,
From the great caves of darkness bearing gleaming gems
As the morning sun scatters diamonds on the dewy lawn!

With deft hands she opens the multitudinous volumes
As a musician opens the stops of a great organ
And melody rolls forth in mighty surges,
Like sweet chimes from cathedral belfries!

With still, small voice she tells us where the gold is,
She draws back the curtains of the stage of wonders,
She gives us the station for all the delectables,
And the long silent tomes become sweetly articulate!

An Antidote to Mother-in-Law Jokes.

How about a few oddities in authors' dedications of their books. Here is a choice specimen in Petroleum V. Nasby's "The Morals of Abou ben Adhem," published in 1875:

"To my mother-in-law, whose disinterested services in caring for my wife during seven critical periods, and likewise caring for seven children during teething, measles, mumps, scarlatina, and other diseases incidental to childhood, receiving therefore only what she ate, merit not only praise but admiration, and whose leaving my house, umbrella and all, always at the precise time when there was no more hard work to be done, was consideration itself, I dedicate this volume, as the least that I can do in acknowledgment, swearing, however, never to forget her,

While Catnip blooms, Soothing Sirup is made,
And Reason holds its throne."

THE HABIT OF AIR SWALLOWING.

SOME persons are air gulpers—by habit. In fact, it may grow into a routine with certain jittery individuals with the digestive tract greatly distended—even to the point of pain.

Ordinarily the trait is of nervous origin. Because of anxiety or some emotional stress the flow of saliva is stimulated, whereupon the victim is obliged to swallow frequently—imbibing five or six bubbles per minute. As the gastric pouch fills, nausea may ensue. This explains the "stuffed," uncomfortable feeling that may persist between meals. When the stomach should be empty it may be ballooned and—if belching is not possible—vomiting or severe distress may ensue.

This difficulty often interferes with nutrition, as the overstretched wall conveys the impression of fullness, thus destroying appetite. Some, however, will actually continue to eat air because—as they put it—they feel "satisfied." The sense of "plenty"—altho false—is akin to that which follows a full meal.

Women experience bloating more often than men. Their clothing is tighter, as a rule, and there is less room for expansion. In consequence, there may be a good deal of abdominal thunder unless the patient has acquired the ability to eject the gas thru eructations tactfully concealed.

We may recall the old jingle:
I sat next to the duchess at tea.
Her rumblings abdominal
Were simply phenomenal,
And every one thought it was me.

Many become addicts during a stay in a hospital where fluids and edibles may be taken with the patient lying down. In the process, a substantial amount of air is taken in. The symptom will vanish if the head of the bed can be raised so that the body is nearly in a sitting position. The excess will usually return promptly with a loud, explosive "burp." One reason why cracked ice is given to invalids is because there is little chance that much of the atmosphere will become mixed with the water.

Assuming a stomach filled with air—if belching is not feasible—some of the gas will pass further down the digestive tract where it will be absorbed to a large extent. That which is expelled via the lower bowel is generally due to fermentation occurring either in the small intestine or in the colon.

Only a little attention to the mechanism of the process will be needed to eliminate the cause. Most of us swallow unconsciously. If we become aware of the tendency, self-control may come to the rescue. Again, rapid conversation at mealtime or too hurried eating must be guarded against.

All in all, the whole matter may be looked upon as rather harmless except in those instances wherein great pain is encountered—or should the contractions of the gastric pouch be powerless to expel air upward. In such an acute situation the simplest remedy is the rapid passage of a stomach tube, which will deflate the organ.

The case is reported of a young lawyer who had complained since childhood of marked upper abdominal pressure. The trouble was worse after meals and he was obliged routinely to retire and rid himself of the accumulated gas. Every now and then he would be wakened in the middle of the night with colicky cramps. These would disappear as soon as he assumed an erect posture, stretched his neck, and contracted the diaphragm. An X-ray examination showed both the stomach and the small intestine well filled with air. With more care in his eating program—taking plenty of time and refraining from drinking water with food—all was well. Several months were required before his reëducation was accomplished.

COPPER AND SULPHUR.

E. K. writes: Is there any food that contains copper and sulphur?

REPLY.

The body requires but a minute amount of copper. This particular element is helpful in the manufacture of blood. Calf and beef liver, dry cocoa, oysters, chocolate, molasses, mushrooms, nuts, wheat bran, and dried beans are the foods containing the largest quantity of this substance. Sulphur-containing foods are: Meats, fish, eggs, brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, onions, peas, Swiss chard, watercress, dried beans, breads, cereals, cheese, nuts, and oysters. You will note some items are on both lists. And then there's sulphur and molasses.

SCIATICA AND EDEMA.

Mrs. W. M. writes:

1. Does any special food affect sciatica or is this merely a nervous condition?

2. Do swollen ankles originate always from kidney trouble?

REPLY.

1. Nervous only in the sense that the sciatic nerve is affected. While the basic cause may be true neuritis—wherein vitamin B foods may be helpful—the origin, in many instances, can be traced to pressure. This disorder requires a careful study for an accurate diagnosis.

2. No. The heart may be the organ responsible.

SMOKING AS A CAUSE?

Mrs. V. S. writes: For about a year I have been very nervous, have no appetite, and suffer with vomiting spells daily. Can smoking be the cause?

REPLY.

I doubt it, altho it may add to your nervousness. The chances are that you lack vitamin B. However, a careful examination is advised, as the cause should be identified.

FROM WHITE TO BLACK.

La Salle, Ill., March 27.—While reading the autobiography of Germany's iron chancellor, Bismarck, I was impressed greatly with the striking resemblance of European power politics and methods of propaganda of a century ago to those of today. One paragraph is so remarkably analogous that I offer it here for consideration:

"Even during the Crimean war," Bismarck writes, "it was preached to us from England, and not without effect on our mood, that we ought to take up arms for the saving of civilization."

It seems to me that the tenor of what we were fed and what we subsequently swallowed in the world war days regarding the threat to civilization was hardly different, perhaps a bit modernized. Of course, then, the Turks and the Germans were the scourge to be crushed and the Russians were among the saviors of civilization.

Now, as we all know, or so Great Britain, Mr. Cromwell, and too many others would have us believe, civilization is again tottering, altho this time the Russians and Italians have jumped the fence to the side of the Germans, or in strictly British idiom, the "anticivilization" side.

Perhaps I am not alone in wondering just how mighty nations can, in the space of a few decades, alternately threaten and rescue civilization.

CONCERTS IN THE PARK.

Chicago, April 3.—And so we are to have an extra month of concerts in Grant park this summer, with school bands, school orchestras, and professional musicians playing together in friendly competition. And all this at no added cost to the taxpayers. This surely will be glorious news for the school youngsters who are musically inclined, and for the regular habitués of Grant park as well. Apparently this fellow Petrillo is not quite the big bad wolf his detractors have proclaimed him. This added series should prove a most interesting one and should draw record crowds to hear it. As for myself, I'll be on hand the first night—with bells on! FRANK CLEMENS.

POLITICS AND RELIGION.

Chicago, April 3.—Yesterday's TRIBUNE carried a story about the Rev. Mike Elliott's sounding a call to battle because of "the recent un-American appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican." Millions have called the reigning pontiff the "Pope of Peace," and rightly so, but the Rev. Mr. Elliott apparently thinks otherwise.

If he is really sincere in his fight for American principles, let him raise his voice in protest against the appointment of an American ambassador to soviet Russia, sworn enemy of all religions, Baptist as well as Catholic. I fail to see any "religious issue" in this campaign, unless it comes from the Rev. Elliott, who dreads "Vatican representation." But I do remember the solid front of the Democratic south when the 1928 Democratic candidate for President was crucified because of his religious faith. If that wasn't a religious issue I'm a Chinaman. JOHN J. MCGRATH.

HOW'S YOUR MAIL BOX?

Clinton, Ia., April 2.—Spring is once again here, just as it has come so many, many times in the past. Now is the time to begin cleaning up our yards, painting the house, and just generally fixing up. But how many people when this renovation begins ever stop to think of the most important thing of all, that old rusty mail box hanging outside of the front door waving a welcome to guests with its old swinging door flapping in the breeze? The first thing that strikes a guest upon arriving is the mail box; why be so careless about it?

HAROLD MADSEN.

RESPONSIBILITIES.

Ypsilanti, Mich., April 2.—For four years before the war started we warned Europe of the dangers of Hitler and Stalin and shouted long and loud, "Sick 'em! Get Hitler. He is dangerous," and various other things like that.

Hitler took Austria and we blamed England and France. Hitler took part of Czecho-Slovakia, but the allies were to blame. Then he took the rest and still we blamed the allies. Then again we blamed the allies when Stalin and Hitler divided Poland. Somehow we made the allies, who got nothing, worse criminals than Hitler. And again the allies were to blame for Stalin's taking parts of Finland.

Let's ask our Polish citizens if they think Hitler and Stalin are to blame for the treatment the Poles are now getting. We know the allies were stopped from aiding Finland because Germany brought pressure on Norway and Sweden; if Finland had asked aid, the German army would have been sent in to Finland.

How about blaming Hitler and Stalin some? They got the territory and they are treating the inhabitants in the way we know they are. Let's put the real blame on the ones who grabbed this territory, Hitler and Stalin—not on the allies. And let's not blame the German people, either. It's not the German people here or in Germany. It's the military régime. Our German citizens and former immigrants have always proved real Americans.

C. E. GREEN.

COMPLAINT.

Chicago, April 3.—Six weeks ago I sent in for tickets to see "Gone with the Wind." I gave them two dates to select from and asked for good center seats in the balcony. After waiting four weeks they sent me the last row in the balcony and way to one side. People around us were kicking about the same thing. Looks like they give their mail orders seats they cannot sell otherwise.

GRANT PARK CONCERTS.

Chicago, April 2.—In THE TRIBUNE of last Sunday appeared an item concerning an added series of open air concerts in Grant park next June, to be played by high school bands and orchestras in conjunction with outstanding professional organizations. Why should our half-grown school children be permitted to enter into competition with those who engage in music as a business? If they who seek free music from the schools believe they are right in so doing, then why don't they carry the matter to its logical conclusion? Why stop at music? Why not include all the trades, crafts, and professions taught in the high and technical schools? Above all, why don't they make a demand on the school board to appoint two hundred of the older students to act as ushers and usherettes at these functions, thereby relieving themselves from the necessity of employing [and paying] Andy Frain's splendid corps of trained ushers?

Let us be consistent. Let us ask for everything free from the schools or else ask for nothing. MRS. ANNE C. FISHER.

GARBAGE.

Chicago, April 2.—Chicago's garbage collecting system is so antiquated that it is pitiful to see what goes on in a large, presumably progressive city like ours. I drive nearly 100 miles a day, all within the city limits, and the sights I see where garbage collecting is concerned are revolting.

The solution is really simple. I recently visited New York. Their sanitary department is a sight to behold. Uniformed men empty the cans into a compartment of a huge, well built motor truck, each compartment having a solid door which is immediately closed after the refuse has been emptied. Clean, sanitary, quick, a pleasure to watch.

Not only is our city itself guilty of poor garbage collecting, but equally offensive are private scavengers.

ESTATE ASSETS.

Chicago, April 4 [Legal Friend of the People].—My mother died at her home in the state of Michigan and about a month before she died she had her real estate put jointly in her and my name [1] without my knowledge of it. She also had a number of stocks and bonds and three of the best stocks having a high market value were put jointly with my brother and unknown to me until after her death.

2. My brother knew of this and said that this was done to avoid inheritance tax.

3. All the other securities were still left in my mother's name and all of them left in her safety deposit box. When the county clerk had the box opened all of the securities and deed to the property were listed as well as her will with the Probate court. Her will stated that after funeral expenses were paid her two sons were to divide the estate and share equally. The question is:

4. Does the estate consist of the property left jointly with me and the stocks left jointly with my brother plus the stocks and bonds still in her name, and if so [5] would the present market value of the securities plus the apprised value of the real estate be the right method of dividing the estate? R. F.

1. You do not clearly indicate whether the deeds were delivered so as to be valid during her lifetime.

2. Such transfers would be regarded as in contemplation of death and consequently the inheritance tax would be operative.

3. This seems inconsistent with your opening statement that they were placed in joint tenancy. We should have your facts more clearly before us.

4. If the necessary steps have been taken, including legal delivery during the grantor's lifetime, then the joint tenancy assets would not be controled by the will, altho they might be subject to inheritance tax, in the entirety. In any event the one-half that passes by survivorship would be subject to such tax.

5. Yes.

ACTOR LEDERER: THE STORY OF A NEW AMERICAN

Adds W-G-N Role to Long List of Successes.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Francis Lederer is a cormopolite. More than that, he is an American. That fact is a matter of great pride with him. Born a Czech, Lederer speaks many languages and was long at home on the stages of the leading capitals of Europe. It was a sort of accident that he came to America eight years ago. It was no accident that he never returned and that he promptly became an American citizen.

His first performance in America was in the stage success "Autumn Crocus"; his latest, yesterday on W-G-N's Fifth Row Center, in which he gave a delightful portrayal of that versatile Florentine, Benvenuto Cellini, in Edwin Justis Mayer's famous play, "The Firebrand."

Kept Busy Making Films.

Lederer is currently co-starring with Katherine Cornell in the stage success "No Time for Comedy." During the last six years, however, he has spent most of his time making pictures.

His first encounter with Hollywood left him somewhat cool toward America. He played the part of an Eskimo in "Man of Two Worlds." The public attitude was cool, too.

It was his second picture, "The Pursuit of Happiness," in which he was co-starred with Joan Bennett, that Francis Lederer really caught the American ideal. In this play Lederer enacted the part of a Hessian soldier during revolutionary days, who deserted to become an American. In his pursuit of happiness the soldier encountered the quaint old colonial custom of bundling.

"Bundling must have been pleasant," Lederer mused the other day. "But it could hardly be compared, say, with parking in a car."

Takes His Freedom Seriously.

Seriously tho, the conception of the Declaration of Independence of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" made an indelible imprint on Lederer at this time and he took first steps toward citizenship.

Lederer came to America because of a clause in his contract in London which provided that if "Autumn Crocus" clicked there, it would be brought to New York. There was another clause in the contract giving RKO pictures an option on his services. That option was exercised with the result that he has been starred in many movies.

Lederer was born in Prague. He made his professional debut in German in Berlin. He is married to Margo, Mexican actress and dancer.

W-G-N TO OFFER FULL REPORT OF ELECTION NEWS

Complete vote results again will be provided W-G-N listeners tomorrow, primary election day. Bulletins of news events, from the editorial department of THE TRIBUNE, will be broadcast thruout the day and immediately after the polls close at 5 p. m. W-G-N will begin giving voting results as the figures pour in to The Tribune's news room as gathered by The Tribune news staff and the Associated Press and United News services, which also supply news to W-G-N.

Quin Ryan, veteran newscaster, who inaugurated the W-G-N election night broadcasts more than 15 years ago, will present the bulletins on the air. W-G-N establishes a regular news bulletin and election return bureau each election night, functioning in cooperation with the political experts of THE TRIBUNE. The various candidates for office also will be presented on the air during the evening.

SECOND 'CITIZENS OF TOMORROW' IS SET FOR AIRING

Rehearsals will start today for the second of the weekly "Citizens of Tomorrow" programs on W-G-N. Students of Austin High school will participate in this week's broadcast, to be heard Wednesday from 7 to 7:30 p. m., and 600 more Austin students will be W-G-N studio guests at the program.

The school's delegation will be led by Principal Hobart Sommers. The school chorus, directed by Miss Hazel E. Lloyd, will sing, and the student body will be led in cheers by Austin High cheer leaders.

A Tribune news quiz, with participants selected from the students, is conducted as a part of the program by Philip Maxwell of THE TRIBUNE editorial staff, who takes the part of "The Principal" on the show. An honor roll of high school students thruout Illinois is read each week.

Other members of the cast include Ed Sprague, veteran actor, who takes the rôle of Charley Jones, every school's engineer; and Dorothy Gregory, who is Jerry, the universal high school co-ed.

Two High School Boys Seized; Admit Burglaries

Harlee Goslee, 19 years old, and Emory Bulinski, 17 years old, both seniors at the Lane Technical High school, were arrested yesterday by police who said they were trying to break into a drug store at 4701 Lincoln avenue. They confessed later, police said, that they had burglarized three other stores. Goslee lives at 2407 Winnemac avenue and Bulinski at 2850 Diversey avenue.

A swarm of autograph hunters met her at the station.

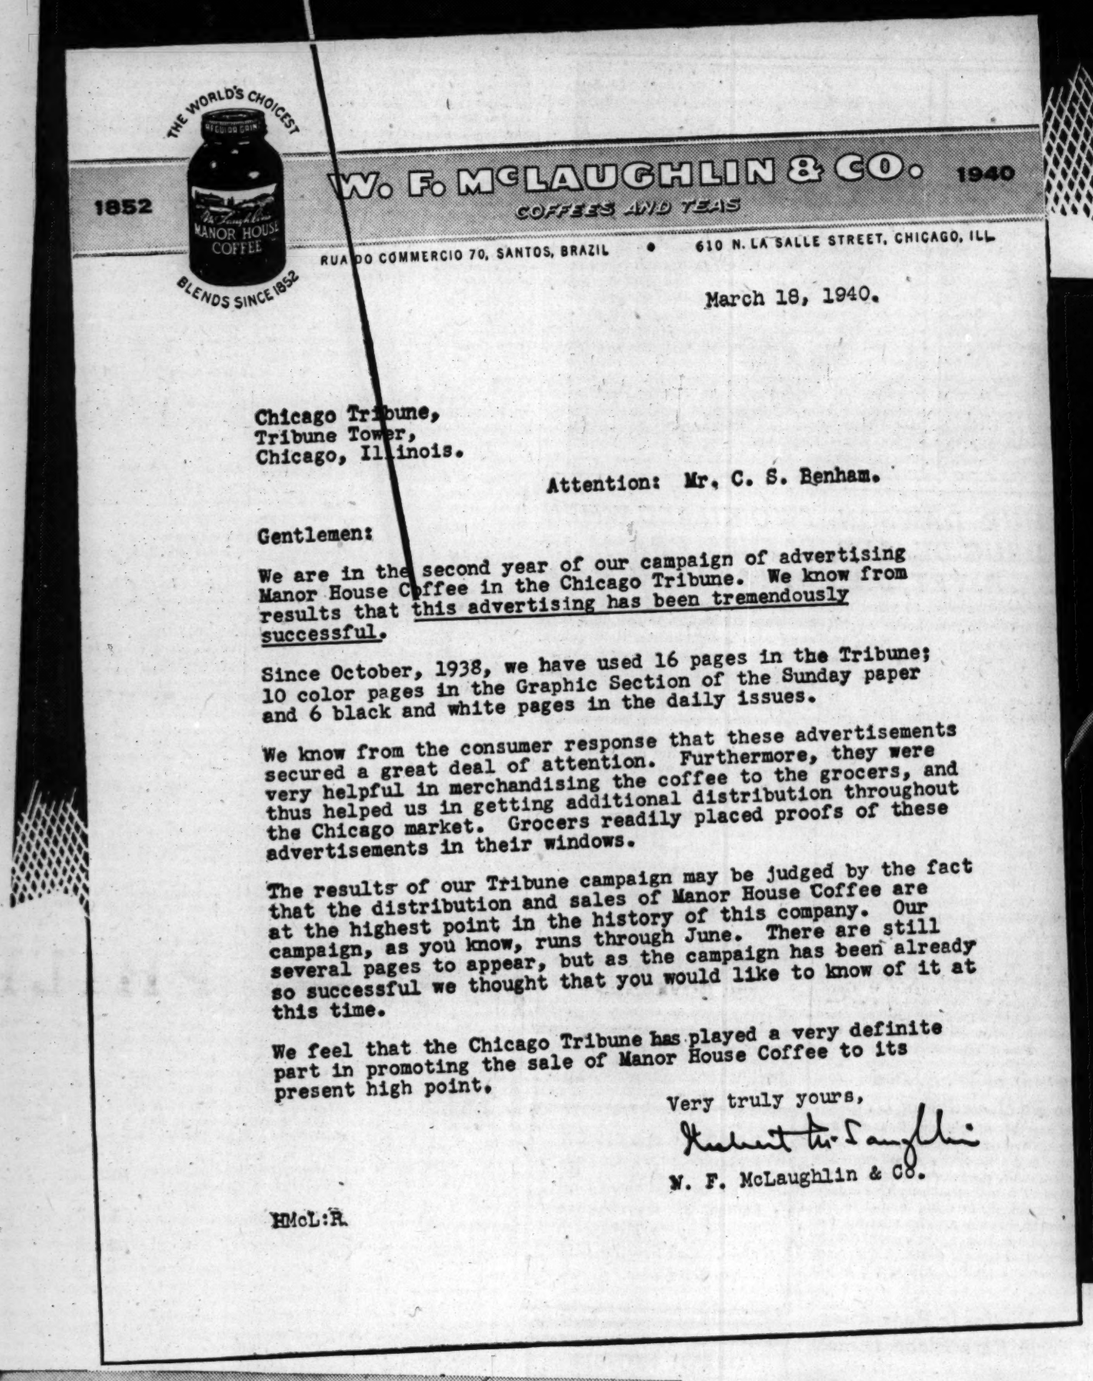
—HERBERT McLAUGHLIN
W. F. McLaughlin & Co.
MANOR HOUSE COFFEE



March 18, 1940.

Chicago Tribune,
Tribune Tower,
Chicago, Illinois.

Attention: Mr. C. S. Benham.

Gentlemen:

We are in the second year of our campaign of advertising Manor House Coffee in the Chicago Tribune. We know from results that this advertising has been tremendously successful.

Since October, 1938, we have used 16 pages in the Tribune; 10 color pages in the Graphic Section of the Sunday paper and 6 black and white pages in the daily issues.

We know from the consumer response that these advertisements secured a great deal of attention. Furthermore, they were very helpful in merchandising the coffee to the grocers, and thus helped us in getting additional distribution throughout the Chicago market. Grocers readily placed proofs of these advertisements in their windows.

The results of our Tribune campaign may be judged by the fact that the distribution and sales of Manor House Coffee are at the highest point in the history of this company. Our campaign, as you know, runs through June. There are still several pages to appear, but as the campaign has been already so successful we thought that you would like to know of it at this time.

We feel that the Chicago Tribune has played a very definite part in promoting the sale of Manor House Coffee to its present high point.

Very truly yours,
Herbert McLaughlin
W. F. McLaughlin & Co.

200,000 GAIN DAILY!
145,000 GAIN SUNDAY!

Averaging more than 1,000,000 net paid, Tribune total daily circulation during March registered a gain of more than 110,000 over March last year —more than 200,000 over March, 1937.

Sunday Tribune total circulation during March averaged in excess of 1,200,000 net paid. This was a gain of over 60,000 over March last year —and a gain of over 145,000 over March, 1937.

The editorial qualities which build highest interest among readers produce the best results for advertisers. To widen the market for your product, build your advertising program around the Tribune.

Manor House Coffee Sales and Distribution at highest point in history as a result of Chicago Tribune campaign

From the grocery field comes new evidence that you sell more in Chicago when you build your campaign around the Tribune.

W. F. McLaughlin & Co. since October 1938 has been using full-page advertisments in the Chicago Tribune to promote the sale of Manor House Coffee.

Sixteen full-pages have appeared in the past eighteen months—ten of them in full color in the Graphic section of the Sunday Tribune, and six in black-and-white in the Tribune on weekdays.

89.5% in the Tribune

How this campaign has registered with consumers and retailers . . . how it has boosted sales volume and widened distribution . . . during this period in which 89.5% of the Manor House budget for advertising in Chicago newspapers has been concentrated in the Tribune, is told in the accompanying letter.

The experience of W. F. McLaughlin & Co. illustrates why during 1939 general grocery advertisers as a group spent 83.7% more of their advertising appropriations in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper. And why those who individually spent $5,000.00 or more in Chicago newspapers in 1939 allotted to the Tribune 49.8% of their appropriations . . . practically as much as to all other Chicago newspapers combined.

Last year manufacturers and national advertisers generally placed 55.2% more advertising linage in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper. Retail advertisers placed 72.9% more advertising in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

Chicago's largest audience

Every day of the week, the Tribune has more than 1,000,000 circulation. Right in Chicago and suburbs, the Tribune, every day of the week, sells more than 800,000 copies. This is the equivalent of a majority of all the families in metropolitan Chicago. It is from 335,000 to 500,000 more copies than are sold in metropolitan Chicago by other Chicago newspapers.

Day in and day out, Chicago's largest constant audience makes time for a daily session with the Tribune because it provides a well-rounded newspaper, presenting in attractive format the news, entertainment and buying information that people want.

Low rates per 100,000 circulation

Each day's Tribune offers advertisers an opportunity to address the Chicago market in circumstances highly favorable to selling. If you want the faster turnover and the wider distribution you need in order to get a greater share of the sales available in Chicago, build your advertising program around the Tribune. Rates per 100,000 circulation are among the lowest in the United States.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

SERVING CHICAGO FOR 92 Years

WM. FAVERSHAM, FAMOUS ACTOR, DIES IN POVERTY

Born in England, Rises to Stage Glory in U. S.

Bay Shore, N. Y., April 7 (AP).—William Faversham, 72 years old, one of the greatest of the old school matinée idols, died today in a rooming house not far from the great mansion he owned in the heyday of his heart fluttering strides across the American stage. His rôles ranged from a magnificent Romeo to the tattered old Jeeter Lester of perennial "Tobacco Road"—in a road company — and those rôles ironically encompassed his rise and decline, with age, on the stage. Death was due to coronary embolism.

Wm. Faversham.

Until a week ago, Faversham lived at nearby East Islip as a guest of the Percy G. Williams estate maintained as a retreat for aged actors by the will of the late theater magnate.

Worked for His Board and Room.

Discouraged with stage bits after his experience as the leading character actor in the "Tobacco Road" company, he turned up at the Williams estate three years ago and asked permission to work a garden plot for his keep. He left there a week ago for the quiet of the rooming house, undoubtedly feeling that his course was run.

Faversham performed on three continents during an acting career of more than 50 years that saw him rise to wealth and lose it during his declining years. Among the stage immortals he played opposite before reaching stardom were Mrs. Mary Maddern Fiske and Maude Adams.

Born in London in 1868.

Born in London Feb. 12, 1868, he achieved his fame before American footlights. He served for a time in the yeomanry cavalry regiment of Warwickshire. Then in 1885 he turned to the stage.

Faversham's first appearance on the New York stage—where his name was to rank with the Drews and the Barrymores—was on Jan. 17, 1887, as Dick in "Pen and Ink".

From 1893 until 1901 he was a member of the Empire company under the management of Charles Frohman, and appeared in such productions as "Under the Red Robe" and "Romeo and Juliet". His first billing as a star was in Criterion, N. Y., on Aug. 19, 1901, in his rôle of Don Caesar in "A Royal Rival". From then on his status in the theater rose. He toured the country in 1905-'07 in "The Squaw Man" and again in 1913 in Shakespearean plays.

Reign as Matinée Idol Wanes.

In the next 15 years he starred in many Broadway successes, but his reign as a matinée idol slowly waned with the increased popularity of the movies and younger film actors.

In November, 1931, he joined the Chicago Civic Shakespeare society, playing Antonio in "The Merchant of Venice," and the soothsayer in "Julius Cæsar," in which years before he had won acclaim as "Marc Antony." He trod the boards for the last time in 1934 as "Jeeter Lester" in "Tobacco Road."

That same year, like many another aging actor, he turned to Hollywood and before retiring appeared in such films as "Lady by Choice" and "Becky Sharp."

Faversham, who previously had wed Marian Merwin and Julie Opp, was married on July 20, 1925, to Miss Edith Campbell, daughter of a former mayor of Phoenix, Ariz. She had appeared on the stage with him.

Faversham is survived by two sons, Philip, an actor, of New York, and William Jr. of Boston.

SON PLAYING IN CHICAGO.

William Faversham's son, Philip Faversham, is appearing in the play "The Man Who Came to Dinner" at the Harris theater in Chicago. His rôle is that of the young lover. News of his father's death was withheld from him during the performance.

A WEEK OF FUN AND COPS CATCH UP WITH ROBERT

The week-long splurge enjoyed by Robert Preyer Jr., 12 years old, ended last night—and just in time.

Last Friday night Robert, nattily dressed in a new suit, registered at the Bentmere hotel, 601 Diversey parkway. He announced he had just flown in from San Diego, Cal. He paid for his room a week in advance. Then all day Saturday and most of yesterday he sent out for bottles of root beer and pop and liberally tipped the bellboys.

The hotel clerk became suspicious and notified Sheffield avenue police. Detectives Harold Hope and Edwin Johnson called upon Robert. They found he hadn't flown in from California at all, but had run away from his home at 825 Geoerge street last Monday with $25 belonging to his stepmother. And, he admitted, he had been having a grand time, except that now he had only 25 cents left. The police took him to the Juvenile home.

FIRE ROUTS TWO FAMILIES.

Members of two families were driven by fire from their cottage homes at 5920 and 5922 South Ada street last night. The fire started on the back porch of the home of Mrs. Virginia Drummond at the former address and spread to the next door home of George England. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

DR. CYRUS ADLER DIES AT 76; NOTED JEWISH SCHOLAR

Headed 2 Institutions of Learning.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 7 (AP).—Dr. Cyrus Adler, famous Jewish educator-publicist, died here tonight following a long illness. At his bedside were his wife, Mrs. Racie F. Adler; his daughter, Mrs. Wolfe Wolfinsohn of Cambridge, Mass., and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry I. Hamburger of Baltimore, Md. He was 76 years old.

Dr. Cyrus Adler.

Rabbi Adler, who had devoted his life to the proposition that the studies of Jewish scholars could be made socially valuable to the Jewish people, was the head of two institutions of learning. They are Dropsie College for Hebrew and Cognate Learning in Philadelphia, and the Jewish Theological seminary in New York. He was internationally recognized as a spokesman for his co-religionists.

Born in Arkansas.

Cyrus Adler was born Sept. 13, 1863, in Van Buren, Ark., the son of a small town merchant, Samuel Adler, and Sarah Sulzberger Adler. Three years later his father died and he was brought by his mother to Philadelphia, where he attended public school. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with a bachelor of arts degree in 1883, and later received a master of arts degree.

In 1887 he gained the degree of doctor of philosophy at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Md., as a student of Semitic lore. He taught Somitic languages at Johns Hopkins until 1893, and became a lecturer on biblical archaeology at the Jewish Theological seminary in New York.

Columbian Commissioner.

Dr. Adler helped organize the federal government's exhibit at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893, having been made special commissioner for the exposition by President Grover Cleveland. The same year he joined the Smithsonian Institution as librarian, becoming a confidant there of Dr. Samuel Pierpont Langley, aviation pioneer.

After the world war Adler went to the Paris peace conference and helped present there the pleas of the Jews for recognition of their minority rights in nations formed under the Versailles pact.

Last Christmas, when President Roosevelt chose Myron C. Taylor to be his personal representative at the Vatican, he sent to Rabbi Adler a letter urging unity among "all who believe in a common God" in the interests of peace. The President addressed Adler as a leading Jewish churchman. Other letters went to Pope Pius XII. and to George A. Buttrick, president of the Federal Council of the Church of Christ in America.

EDUCATORS MAP FIGHT AGAINST BAN ON RUSSELL

New York, April 7 (AP).—The formation of a committee of nationally known educators to fight the state Supreme court ban on the appointment of Bertrand Russell to the College of the City of New York faculty was announced tonight. Russell was barred on the ground that his views are indecent.

The "academic freedom-Bertrand Russell committee" named as some of its leaders and sponsors President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, President Robert Sproul of the University of California, Prof. Albert Einstein of Princeton, President Mildred McAfee of Wellesley, and Dr. John Dewey, Columbia university philosopher. The committee said it intends to coördinate pro-Russell groups thruout the country and lead the fight for him.

"We will carry this academic freedom case to the Supreme court of the United States, if necessary, because it goes to the heart of the American way of life," said the committee chairman, Dr. William P. Montague, philosophy professor at Columbia university's Barnard college.

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran regularly, and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 7.—As the result of rave reviews on "Heavenly Express," from Pittsburgh critics, John Garfield will take the play to Broadway immediately instead of waiting until the fall. . . . Harry Carey and Aline MacMahon are in it, too. . . . Katharine Hepburn and her "Philadelphia Story" troupe open here today, making this town sort of a Hollywood hotbed of activity. . . . What's this about Helen Mack and Universal's Marshall Grant planning to ring wedding bells? . . . Ann Sheridan and Jeffrey Lynn's publicity romance is throwing off some real heat. . . . In the Billboard poll here is the way they rated the five greatest performers of all time: John Barrymore, Charles Chaplin, Helen Hayes, Paul Muni, and Enrico Caruso. . . . Aside to June Lang and Johnnie: Congrats, my little chickadees. . . . Now I know why June didn't want to go out with us on this tour! . . . Aviator Paul Mantz will fly Nancy Kelly and Irv Cummings Jr. to Yuma when it happens.

"Rebecca" and "Northwest Passage" cleaning up thru the country. . . . Adding proof to the box office grosses of "Gone with the Wind" that the liveliest screen material is a smash book success. . . . If some one steps up with the right kind of an offer he can buy Warner Baxter's hilltop manse in Bel-Air. . . . Bob Preston upset because his real girl curdled on him because of the Dorothy Lamour publicity. . . . He should have thought of that earlier. . . . Judy Garland and Bob Shaw still at it. . . . Bruce Cabot has returned to the Liz Whitney orbit. . . . Paramount's publicity "plant" on "I Want a Divorce," in which it is related that every player in the cast has been divorced at least once, may be good publicity on the coast—but you should hear the reaction in cities like this. . . . There is such a thing as bad publicity.

Bob Oliver is the "Daddy" to whom Mary Martin's heart has been optioned. . . . Gloria Spreckels dating with Paul Getty, who has plenty of sugar, too. . . . Harold Cohn [he's the Sun-Herald critic] will be a September pappy. . . . Dennis O'Keefe rushing Steffi Duna. . . . Linda Darnell and Maury Grossman romancing. . . . His mother is the noted coast golfer. . . . Jinx Falkenberg and Ed Grainger a twosome. . . . Wendy Barrie and Greg Bautzer a twosome. . . . Toughest tickets to get in N. Y. are for the Vivien Leigh-Laurence Olivier opening night of "Romeo and Juliet."

Charlie Barrett, M.-G.-M. exec in charge of "Gone with the Wind" in this area is back in Pittsburgh with some tales of unusual sales experiences. . . . In West Virginia, a ladies' club called him at the theater, said they'd go to see the picture if he'd guarantee that the regular "bank night" policy was not altered. . . . One lady said she'd go anyway if Barrett would assure her that the picture was as good as "Hurricane." Alan Baldwin making passes at Jacquelin Dalya. . . . Shirley Temple will vacation in the Pacific northwest. . . . Lionel Newman, the Earl Carroll orchestra leader, and Virginia Maples, of the choir, will get hitched. . . . Bob Stack's new interest is Marie Frye, a "Scandals" pulse-hopper.

Arthur Treacher, Marjorie Weaver, Bela Lugosi, Helen Parrish, Douglas MacPhail, Betty Jaynes, Peg-Leg Bates, and Vivian Fay not only got rave notices in Pittsburgh dailies, but also busted week-end records in the Stanley theater. . . . Penned one local reviewer: "At last we have a group of Hollywood stars and starlets who act as tho they belong on a stage instead of in a personal appearance museum" . . . The Stanley theater alley is so jammed with autograph fans after every show that we have to have our meals served backstage most of the time. . . . Most amazing thing is that hundreds of youngsters line up after every show and chorus the songs that Doug MacPhail, Betty Jaynes, and Arthur Treacher sing. . . . This city and its enthusiasm for Hollywood celebs is something that makes you sit up and take notice.

Cupid Elbows Aside Other Social News

BY JUDITH CASS.

NOT only a young man's, but every one's fancy must be turning to thoughts of love this spring. Practically all social news these days is of a romantic nature. Our column is almost filled this morning with a dozen and one engagement announcements.

One of the most interesting is that of Miss Adele Proxmire to John Ezra Baker Jr., which was told to their young friends yesterday at a cocktail party given by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Proxmire, at their home in Lake Forest. Mr. Baker and his parents also are Lake Foresters.

Miss Proxmire was educated at the Spence school and Sarah Lawrence college and made her debut in 1935. Mr. Baker prepared for Princeton at the Hill school. He was graduated from college in 1931. No definite plans for the wedding have been made.

Miss Helen Gillette's Engagement Announced.

Miss Helen Gillette's engagement to Charles A. Chapin was announced at a cocktail party given Saturday by her aunt, Mrs. William Shippen Jenks, at her Schiller street home. The wedding is planned for July at Lake Beulah, Wis. The bride's father, Edwin F. Gillette of Pasadena, formerly of Chicago, will come east for it.

Miss Gillette was born in Chicago but spent her childhood in California, where she attended the Santa Barbara Girls' school. She then went to Rome where she was a student at Miss Risser's. She and her sister, Mrs. Howard Austin Will, made their debuts here in 1931. Miss Gillette has been dancing with the opera ballet.

Mr. Chapin is the younger son of Henry K. Chapin of Lake View avenue, and is a University of Chicago alumnus. He was graduated from college in 1934, having prepared for it at Andover.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis Kraft announced the engagement of their daughter, Edith Lucille, to H. Benjamin Hardy of Evanston, Saturday at a tea given at the Kraft home in Canterbury Court, Wilmette. Miss Kraft attended National Park seminary and Lawrence college. Mr. Hardy, whose mother is Mrs. L. P. Hardy of Pensacola, Fla., is a graduate of the Kent College of Law. No date for the wedding has been set.

Jane Louise Ferguson to Wed Dan Cameron Jr.

Friday night at a family dinner Mrs. James R. Ferguson of Evanston announced that her daughter, Jane Louise, would marry Dan U. Cameron Jr., one of the four sons of Dr. and Mrs. Dan U. Cameron of Astor street. Miss Ferguson attended Bradford Junior college and Rockford college. Mr. Cameron attended the Chicago Latin school, the Asheville school, and Northwestern university.

Miss Ferguson's cousin, Miss Roberta McInnes, came from her home in Belvidere, Ill., for the announcement party, and Miss Ferguson, in turn, went to Belvidere yesterday for a party at which Miss McInnes' engagement to Arthur I. Strang Jr. was announced.

Miss McInnes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. McInnes of Belvidere and her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur I. Strang of White Plains, N. Y. Miss McInnes was graduated last June from Mount Holyoke college. Mr. Strang, a graduate of Amherst, now is attending the law school at Columbia university.

Dr. Ashley M. Brand to Take Bride Here.

Another interesting announcement is one that Mrs. Alice Ahlstrand of Fullerton parkway is making, for the young man to whom her daughter, Mrs. Helen Collins, is engaged

Soft Feminine Suits Best in Style Parade

BY REA SEEGER.

After all the fashion shows, all the excitement, all the argument, fashions for spring and summer start to jell. Appraised, approved, and finally accepted as the best of the parade are soft feminine suits, flattering to practically every personality, easy to wear with any color accents, and smart enough to take you from dawn till dusk thru every hour of a busy day.

No spring is official unless there is a wave of navy blue. This year brown is racing along with navy for first position. Taffeta swishes a way all thru the best planned wardrobes in full skirts with wool jackets, in dresses with tight bodices of striped taffeta and skirts of solid color.

Two piece suits that have the trim slim appearance of a dress are spotlight holders from one season into another. This spring they still hold sway over the rest of the collections. Prints are perennial charmers. The time-tested wool coat and silk print combine still manage to break previous selling records. It's a spring and early summer necessity, without which any wardrobe just limps along

White hats, gloves, lapel facing, flowers and still more white to come mark all the fashion parades. Quantities of snowy white gloves for summer will be needed. . . . this year a thick new luxury fabric makes some of the best looking slipons ever displayed.

Long torso silhouettes are featured in daytime suits, dresses and the smartest of new dinner clothes. This last array boasts the sliver streamline, unbroken by anything more than a flat pleated flounce from the knee to the floor.

The most sensational news is that with the pencil straight daytime suits, you can break out of routine by wearing a huge wide hat instead of the small flower turban or pill box.

Dorothy Stanton to Become Bride of Otto Schilling

When Miss Dorothy Stanton becomes the bride of Otto F. G. Schilling today, she will carry the old wedding rhyme a step beyond the "something old, something new" and include "and a lucky sixpence in your shoe." Miss Stanton will meet the first requirement by wearing a gold bracelet which belonged to her great-aunt, the second with a wedding gown of deep ivory moire, and the last with an 1839 sixpence lent her by Rex Mackenzie.

The Rev. John Wall will officiate at the ceremony, which will be held at noon at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church. The bride's mother, Mrs. Michael J. Stanton, will give a breakfast at the Blackstone hotel immediately after the ceremony, and a larger reception at her home in the afternoon.

Miss Stanton will have her cousin, Miss Ursula Utley of New York, as her only attendant. Because of the illness of Frank A. McHugh, John M. Murtaugh will be best man. Mr. Schilling is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Otto Schilling of Apoldo, Germany.

Good Morning!

It's a large leap from the dark and devious portrayal of a "Little Cæsar" to the shining depection of a humanitarian as personified in a Dr. Ehrlich—but Edward G. Robinson has accomplished it — triumphantly.

"The Story of Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet" easily takes its place in the ranks of great screen biographies. It is an intelligent revelation of the life and works of the Jewish scientist who gave the world 606—syphilis specific—named thus because only after this number of experiments was the compound in shape to be tried. . . . Even then it had not been perfected for general use.

This formula was Paul Ehrlich's crowning achievement. Previously, fighting against the odds of disbelief, ridicule, and lack of funds, he had perfected his chemical staining process that provided for the staining of malignant germs so they could be clearly distinguished thru the microscope. . . . This discovery, at last accepted, brings financial security to the Ehrlich family—mother, father, and two little girls—but not before overwork, worry, and exposure have resulted in tuberculosis for the doctor. . . . He is compelled to take a "rest" in Egypt. But DOES he rest? Hardly!

While there he gets started on the work which later helps his friend, Emil von Behring, assistant to the great Dr. Robert Koch, perfect diphtheria antitoxin. . . .

For some time a government subsidy has supported Ehrlich's researches. . . . But as time elapses this is discontinued. . . . Mrs. Ehrlich, realizing the importance of her husband's work, succeeds in interesting the well known philanthropist, Frau Speyer, in his activities. . . . It is with her financial aid that 606 is eventually given to the world.

The story conscientiously follows Ehrlich from his misfit existence in a Berlin hospital, thru his vicissitudes and triumphs to his death. It is all most interesting and informative. . .

The star gives an earnest and believable performance. Ruth Gordon as Mrs. Ehrlich, Maria Ouspenskaya as Mme. Speyer, Otto Kruger as Von Behring, and Albert Basserman as Koch do shining work. The last, I am told, didn't know a word of English when he started to study his part. . . . If so, his achievements of learning and delivery are truly remarkable.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Dorothy Maynor made a successful Chicago debut yesterday. She is the 29 year old colored soprano who was jerked into blinding national limelight last summer when Sergé Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra, auditioned her and announced that "a native Flagstad" had arrived upon the scene.

Appearing in Orchestra hall yesterday with the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Frederick Stock's direction, Miss Maynor first impressed her audience with the modesty of her demeanor. She stood there as stockily and matter-of-factly as if she had come to lecture on the virtues of prunes rather than to appear as the feature of an important concert. [She was, in fact, quite an authority on domestic science not many years ago, and she seriously considered embracing that profession rather than music.]

But members of yesterday's audience forgot all such thoughts [if, indeed, they ever entertained them] in the excitement of listening to Miss Maynor sing. In arias of Handel, Mozart, Weber, Bizet, and Charpentier she revealed a large voice capable of extraordinary color variety and dynamic range. Revealed, too, an ihnate musicality which insured the automatic selection of the right type and degree of nuance nearly all of the time.

The voice was misty and soft one minute, brilliant as sunlight the next. At one time it would ring commandingly out above the orchestra, at another become attenuated almost to the point where sound and silence meet.

With the exceptions to be noted below, Miss Maynor's use of nuance was highly musical. Often a subtle change of voice quality or tempo in the middle of a phrase would reveal things which listeners had never suspected and would fill them with that dizzying sort of delight proper to the relations between a first rate artist and a receptive public.

Miss Maynor laid herself open to adverse criticism on two points. First, her fervor and seriousness and meticulousness sometimes became excessive. A sense of tenseness and strain resulted and certain opportunities for simple, relaxed, glad hearted singing were lost.

Second, she occasionally let a surge of direct, almost oratorical eloquence wrench phrases out of shape and make them elocutionary rather than musical. This is no mere academic point, for statistics prove that a perfectly contoured and textured musical phrase has a greater expressive power and projective ping than any oratorical pronouncement, and will enkindle an audience far more quickly and more violently.

Mr. Stock and the orchestra, besides supplying accompaniments for Miss Maynor, offered a program of purely instrumental music by Weber, Glazounoff, and Wagner.

Gun Bought Grant

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1940, By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Framed by his enemy, Santee Bales, Sam Teacher, outlaw cowboy, shoots the bank robber dressed to resemble him. The governor agrees to give Sam $25,000 in addition to full pardon for all crimes accredited to him if he will persuade Matt Drury to sell the railroad the right of way thru one of his canyons. Going to work on Drury's ranch, Sam has a run-in with his worthless son, Steve, and his pretty but spoiled daughter, Celia. Sam advises Drury to give Steve a small stake of his own and make Celia manage the household. Drury takes the advice and both children leave in a huff, Celia getting a job in a restaurant and Steve getting into a crooked poker game with Bales, ending with Bales forcing Steve into partnership with him. Steve gets the canyon property as his stake from his father, and Bales plans to make the governor pay them instead of Sam. Bales and his men capture Sam, take his gun and leave him tied up. Sam breaks loose, but upon his return to town he is arrested for the murder of Steve. Sam's gun is found near Steve's body. Matt wants Sam hanged, but Pearly, his foreman, is convinced of Sam's innocence and resigns, buys a stable next to the jail and digs Sam out. They concoct a plan to outwit Bales. With dynamite they change the course of the river that determines the boundary of the land Bales plans to sell the railroad, thus preventing the sale. Bales goes off to get a court order to change the course of the river back again upon learning that the river is needed for irrigation. Celia gets homesick and visits her father. While there Sam and Pearly appear at the ranch and tell Drury of Bales' scheme and try to persuade him to guard the canyon while Sam kills Bales. Drury refuses, but Celia sees their way and begs Sam to protect her father and his interests. Sam, with Pearly's aid, commandeers a wagon load of gold ore and dumps it into the dry river bed. When Bales, the sheriff, and workmen arrive to turn the river back they find gold. A stampede starts and the workmen persuade the sheriff to put Bales in jail to keep him from flooding their stakes. Fearing Santee will learn of their trick, Sam goes back to town, planning to lock the sheriff into jail to prevent him from carrying out Bales' court order.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

THREE TIMES AND IN.

Sam took the time to tie his pony's reins to the tie rail. He swung under it, took the three steps across the boardwalk, and opened the door to the sheriff's office.

Sheriff Lovejoy, his spectacles riding his thin nose, was poring over something at the desk while Harvey Miles stood looking over his shoulder. At the sound of the door opening, Miles turned.

He saw an undersize man, with a wicked grin on his face, holding a gun too big to fit his small hand, and that gun was pointed at him. Since Miles knew the face above that gun, he put a hand on Lovejoy's shoulder and said, "Uh—Anse."

Anse Lovejoy turned around. When he saw Sam all the life seemed to sag out of him. He took off his glasses and said with bitter resignation, "This is the last damn time I set foot in this office while I'm alive."

"You know what I want, don't you?" Sam drawled.

"Hell yes. I ain't even goin' to argue. Come on." He stood up, ready.

Sam's glance shuttled to Miles, whose florid face had suddenly turned pale. "You was in that loud-talking posse both times, wasn't you? You was the one that started throwin' lead at me in the store that night, wasn't you?" His voice was mild, edged with an innocence that his face belied.

"I never——"

"Quit it, Harvey. You'll come along," Anse said shortly.

"And cool off," Sam said. "Your blood's too hot. All right, pick up the lamp and walk it, boys."

The corridor door was already half open, and Anse Lovejoy picked up the lamp and kicked the door open the rest of the way. Sam looked about the cell block. The end cell where he had locked Sheriff Lovejoy before had its bars sawn in two and bent outward and downward. He smiled at the sight of it, knowing now that he had the only set of keys. There was a man huddled in that cell, his face to the wall, a long chain padlocked to the bars and to the prisoner's leg irons.

Lovejoy said bitterly, "We ain't even got a place to lock the prisoners now."

"Take the cell on the other side," Sam said. "Nothin' like monotony to kill all the fun."

He swung wide of the sheriff, then reached in his pocket and handed him the keys. "You open it," he jeered.

Lovejoy opened the door and entered, and Harvey Miles entered behind him. Sam swung the door shut, then backed off to regard them.

"Well, the third time is——"

He got no further than that. A pair of strong arms grabbed him, from behind, and hauled him crashing back against the cell bars, and forced his arms down. He shot once into the floor, struggling in helpless fury, before a voice bawled from behind him, "Get his gun, you damned fool!"

It was Santee Bales' voice!

Sheriff Lovejoy exploded out of the unlocked door. He was swinging as he ran, and the blow that Sam could not dodge caught him flush on the shelf of the chin, and the darkness exploded in mounting pinwheels.

When Sam came to, he was roped to a cot, and leg-ironed. The lamp was on the floor, and standing in a loose circle about him were Sheriff Lovejoy, Miles, and the two deputies. Old Anse Lovejoy's face reflected quiet triumph.

"Made your brag once too often, didn't you, son?"

"Looks that way," Sam conceded dully.

"Well, you don't get another chance for a break. Tonight, we're sending you to Santa Luz on a guarded stage. The commissioner can worry about you from now on."

Sam's heart sank. That would be the end, the very end. As long as he was free to move in this chess game with Santee, then there was hope. But once the commissioner got him, there was no hope at all.

"Just in case you're wonderin'," Lovejoy said, "that extry set of keys has been took out of your pocket. Also, that hole has been filled up and there's a man waitin' for Pearly in the saddle shop, just in case he reckons he can try it again."

"Go away," Sam said.

"Sure. Sure." Lovejoy grinned and motioned the others out. Before he left he untied the rope from Sam's middle, allowing him to get off the cot. The first thing Sam saw when he was sitting upright was Santee Bales in the cell across from him. Santee, hands on the bars like a caged gorilla, was laughing softly, silently.

Suddenly, memory jogged Sam. "It was you that nabbed me, eh?"

"Your old friend," Santee drawled. "You been foolin' around with these tank-town laws so long you forgot how to be careful."

"I ain't forgot one thing," Sam said carefully, "I can still handle a gun."

"Providin' you got one. Where is it now?"

Sam's anger was pushing him, and he knew that was what Santee wanted.

"I ain't dead yet."

"Not—quite—yet," Santee said distinctly. His keen eyes searched Sam's face for any sign of fear and there was none. Santee went on, as if musing. "Just to think, I'm gettin' paid $5,000 reward money for capturin' you. And I'm goin' to see you hung."

Sam said gently, "But you ain't gettin' any $75,000 for the right-of-way, are you, Santee?"

Santee's face clouded and he started to curse him. Sam laughed, and Santee, furious now, lost his temper. With only six feet of space between them, they both stood at the bars facing each other, Sam taunting and jeering, Santee calling him every name he could lay his tongue to.

Sheriff Lovejoy found them that way when he entered a minute later and walked up to Santee's cell.

"Did you pirates get a restraining order?" Santee sneered.

"We did. You ain't goin' to move that river now, not till you fight it out in court. And just to make sure we got a guard up there at that dam. No sir, you're licked, Bales, and by sharper men than you are."

Lovejoy stepped thru the bent bars and freed Santee. He came out and paused in front of Sam's cell. These two studied each other for a long moment, and then Santee shrugged his wide shoulders. "It's a pity you ain't goin' to live, Sam, to see me get that right-of-way."

"Oh, so you're goin' to get it?" Sam asked.

Santee nodded confidently. "I don't know how, but I will. That gold strike was just plain bad luck. But Colver, the Southwestern and Rio Grande agent, is here two more weeks, cash in his pocket. I'll swing it in that time, Sam."

"Sure."

"And I'll lick that gold strike. And when I do, you won't be around here to fight me."

Santee put out his hand, his face grave and his eyes jeering. Well, I never like to see a man die hatin' me. Let's be friends before you're hung."

Sam looked at Santee's hand and then put his own thru the bars to take it. Once he had hold of it, he pulled Santee toward him. Then, his feet braced against the cell bars, Santee's arm out straight and his face close, Sam looped over a blow that caught Santee flush on the nose. He let go then and stepped back as Santee, his face dark with fury, tried to get at him.

"Your nose is bleedin', Santee," Sam jibed.

Lovejoy said: "You get out of here, Bales!"

Santee said: "I'll be there to see you hang if I have to ride a thousand miles! You'll see me, too!"

"Wipe your nose," Sam jeered.

That was the parting. Sam turned back to the cot and sat down. Evidently, Santee didn't yet suspect that the ore planted in the Rio Medio canyon was Sam's work.

★ Your Stars Today ★

By WYNN.

Monday, April 8.

Today's vibrations are excellent for serious thinking and fact finding; but there is also a tendency toward the pessimistic. The feelings are strong till Wednesday, with elements of clashing in them—remember this and don't let go.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from this birthday to next can be profitable. Watch unexpected or too hasty money decisions; careful of new propositions. Push plans March 27-April 9. Get ahead. Danger: June 7-19, Oct. 20-Nov. 8, March 9-17, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Stay in the rut in morning; then investigate the new and progressive.

Do you want an individual interpretation for your own personal date? Every important period is indicated for you, according to the laws of astrology. Send 10 cents to Wynn, Tribune Astrologer, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Write plainly your name, date of birth and address.

Bridge Tea for Home

The St. Frances guild will hold a bridge tea this afternoon at the Drake hotel for the benefit of St. Mary's Home for Children, 2822 Jackson boulevard.

GASOLINE ALLEY—EXIT THE JINX

Every Woman Aware of Her Best Figure

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The question came up in one of those polite dinner table conversations as to whether women in general today adopt as their ideal the very slim movie idol silhouette. The consensus, as it turned out, is that this year's goal is not a figure so slender that only the bones are saved from showing. A curve or two may be thrown in with good grace, to hear the fair dinner conversationalists talk.

For all intents and purposes a woman can determine for herself the weight at which she felt in best health, looked best, and enjoyed her clothes. We women know what is meant by that last comment. The larger dress size that even may be of better material, a more exclusive garment, does not give the same joy as the size we like to think of ourselves as flaunting at our best.

For instance, the other day on a shopping tour with a friend, she said: "I never get the fun out of dress buying I used to get since I put on weight. Everything now looks the same!" That's what is meant as cue to the size for which to aim. And you needn't be a fanatic about it. Allow for a few pounds being added on after that "prom" stage of your life.

It's a normal occurrence. But don't bet too generous in your allowance. Just keep your silhouette smoothly flat fore and aft from waist to knees and keep a weather eye on the waistline. If it is thickened so that the belt has to be let out over an inch, if spare tires appear above it, that's challenge enough for you to begin your diet-exercise program.

Chicago Y.W.C.A. to Open Campaign for $250,000

The Chicago Y. W. C. A. will open a campaign for $250,000 to continue its work with a dinner April 15 in the Central branch Y. W. C. A. at 59 East Monroe street. Group leaders in the drive from the city and suburbs will attend. Miss Lilace Reid Barnes, president of the Chicago Y. W. C. A., said the organization had not appealed publicly for funds for more than 10 years.

Army's Surgeon General to Be Guest of Officers

Maj. Gen. James C. Magee, surgeon general of the United States army, will be guest of honor tonight at a dinner in the Lake Shore Athletic club sponsored by reserve officers of the Chicago area. Following the dinner he will address reserve medical corps officers at the American College of Surgeons, 40 East Erie street.

Many women like to use wines and other liquors in their cooking once in a while, whether or not they serve them as beverages at the table. In cooked dishes in which wine is used the alcohol is dispersed by heat, altho the full flavor is retained in the food.

Many of the simplest desserts may be flavored with sherry or rum to become something which tastes excitingly new and interesting. These are four easy ways to execute ideas of this sort.

Pineapple Sherry Mousse

20 marshmallows
¾ cup milk
½ cup drained crushed pineapple
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sherry wine
½ pint whipping cream, whipped

Melt marshmallows in milk in the top of a double boiler. Chill until thickened and add pineapple, salt, and wine. Fold in whipped cream, pour into a refrigerator tray, and freeze without stirring.

Sherry Gelatin

[Serves six]
1 package lemon gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 cup sherry

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Cool and add wine. Chill until firm in individual molds. Turn out and serve with whipped cream.

Fruits in Sirup with Liqueur.

Prepare any combination of fresh fruits—pineapple, bananas, strawberries, grapes, for example. Boil together 1 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, and 1 cup water or fruit juice to make a light sirup. Add a tablespoon or two of any good liqueur after the sirup has cooled, and chill the fresh fruit in the sirup for two or three hours.

Rum Custard

[Serves six]
4 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons rum
1 quart milk

Stir sugar and salt into eggs. Mix with rum and milk and pour into individual custard cups. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until an inserted knife comes out of the custard clean. Chill and serve plain or with whipped cream or a thin lemon or orange sauce.

Bad Vision Retards Many Pupils, Convention Told

The Illinois State Society of Optometrists, meeting in conjunction with the Great Lakes Optometric Educational congress, opened a five day convention yesterday in the Morrison hotel. William Feinbloom, public health director of the American Optometric association, told the meeting that thousands of school children are being retarded in their studies because of poor vision, especially nearsightedness.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

Do you wear a borrowed makeup?

Explaining the term borrowed, it's our description of a makeup that is all wrong as to color. So wrong that it looks as tho it did not originally belong to the person wearing it, but had been borrowed from somebody else. One shade of lipstick, another of rouge, a third shade of nail polish—and nine times out of ten, all of them not suited to the coloring of the wearer.

We don't know why it is, but we spot so many of these wrong makeup jobs while riding to work on a bus in the morning. Probably, not being a reader-while-riding, it's because we haven't anything else to do but look at, over and around the rest of the passengers. Besides that, the light is so good that it shows up every detail, good and bad.

A good looking, dark eyed girl sat next to us one morning and in a position so we could not help but get a closeup view. She wore a purple lipstick which was quite becoming. But she also wore rouge and it was a shade with a lot of yellow in it, and they just didn't get along at all. She held her gloves in her hand which brought her finger tips into the light and they were tinted with a pinkish shade of polish that added the last wrong touch to the whole color ensemble.

In this same morning light, another point brought home to us was that women so often do not take their teeth into consideration when applying lipstick. Unfortunately, we aren't all blessed with teeth like pearls. Since some shades of lipstick and an exaggerated lip line call attention to teeth that are off color or somewhat imperfect, you might remember this if you come under this classification.

Flattering to Mature Figure

WOMEN'S DRESS AND HAT.

Especially flattering to the mature figure is this straight line spring frock. Trimming is fashion-right in that it is kept down to essentials. With femininity its outstanding characteristic, this dress may be worn during busy daytime hours. Make it of plain or printed crêpe, or in summer cottons, if you're looking ahead.

The V neckline may be merely faced with contrasting material or it may have a ruffled, contrasting collar. More of the ruffling may be used on the full, short sleeves.

The hat is a knotted turban, becoming to all types of hairdresses and faces. Make it of the dress material or to harmonize.

Style No. 3266 is designed for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material for short sleeved dress, with ¼ yard for collar and ⅝ yards of ruffling or lace; 4⅝ yards for cape sleeved version.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the spring Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

In this column I have shown so many hands in which declarers have managed to fulfill difficult contracts thru excellent play that I am somewhat fearful readers may get the impression that I am an advocate of overbidding. Nothing could be further from the truth. I am particularly opposed to overbidding on the part of players who frankly admit [at least to themselves] that their play is only average. It cannot be denied, however, that an overly optimistic contract must act as a spur to the declarer who sees that he has much to gain and little to lose by desperate methods.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 spades	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	7 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

South's bidding was all right up to his last jump from five no trump to seven diamonds. The fact that North had opened the bidding, had then shown another suit and later had answered the four no trump with five no trump was not enough to assure South that his partner would produce the five solid tricks necessary to take care of his [South's] losers. Six diamonds would have been much the wiser bid.

After West had opened the heart king and the dummy appeared, the declarer saw that he was up against it, and painstakingly searched for a plan that might procure 13 tricks. Obviously, the one chance was to establish North's spade suit for three club discards, and South had to admit that the prospect was very dark. He saw that to lead to the spade ace and then return the queen thru with the intention of discarding if East played low and ruffing if East covered, could not succeed, no matter how fortunately the adverse spades were placed. [A few moments' experiment with the spade suit along this line will convince the reader that this is true; that is, by this line of play it was impossible to establish three winners in addition to the ace.]

Having determined that this plan could not work, South promptly discarded it and considered another, namely, a first round finesse to the queen. If it held, he could discard one club on the ace and then if a ruff of a low spade dropped the king from West's hand, the jack and fifth spade would remain as good tricks. No sooner figured than executed. Declarer drew the outstanding trumps and then proceeded according to the plan just outlined. When he was so remarkably fortunate as to find the exact lay of cards he had hoped for, the overbid grand slam came home.

'The Haunted Castle' Opera Is Charming

BY CECIL SMITH.

Moniuszko's "Straszny Dwor" ["The Haunted Castle"], unknown to Chicago except for an economical and incomplete performance in 1927, was finally made known last evening in a full scale, authoritative production. The opera is altogether charming, and would serve as a pleasing variant to the repertory in any regular opera season. This discovery, I must confess, comes a bit late, since "Straszny Dwor" was first performed in 1865!

The tenuous romantic plot of the opera concerns two soldiers who are temporarily inhibited from marrying two beautiful sisters of their own choice for no better reason than that the house in which the girls live is apparently haunted. With the ghosts finally laid to rest, the final curtain descends upon a happy ending for the heroes and heroines.

Under the expert direction of Jerzy Bojanowski the performance moved well and securely. George Czaplicki, in a notable handlebar moustache, was in complete command of his part musically, and introduced many touches of comedy that were lacking elsewhere. Ladis Kiepura, younger brother of Jan Kiepura, made his debut as one of the military lovers, disclosing a solid tenor voice of considerable warmth and a fluent, unaffected vocal style. Valerie Glowacki's lovely lyric soprano has gained in beauty since last year.

The Chicago League for the Hard of Hearing received the proceeds of a joint recital by Maria Hussa, soprano, and Leo Podolsky, pianist, given in the Studebaker theater yesterday afternoon.

In music drawn almost exclusively from the Romantic period of the 19th and early 20th centuries, Mr. Podolsky played with altogether extraordinary command both of the large musical idea and of the small pianistic detail.

A case in point was Liszt's long prelude on Bach's "Wailing, Crying, Moaning, Sighing." This piece, an ornate elaboration of Lisztian figurations upon the opening chorus of the Bach cantata—which Bach later used poignantly as the setting for the "Crucifixus" in the Mass in B Minor—developed such urgency and such beautiful sonority in Mr. Podolsky's performance that it was almost possible to forget what a sacrilege it is.

Miss Hussa, who made her debut here last fall, seemed to be overtaxing resources too slender for the immense aria from Weber's "Oberon," or Richard Strauss' "Cäcilie." In general she gave the impression that she is a singer of considerable taste and background, hampered by devious vocal methods.

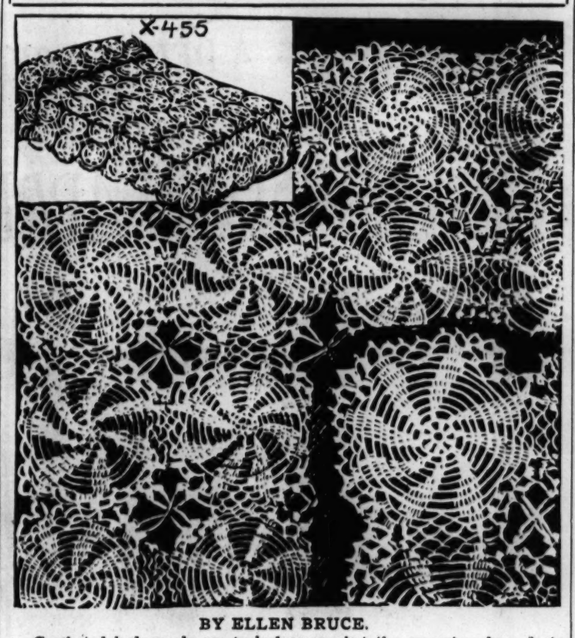
Windwheel Medallion Spread



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted bedspreads are to bedrooms what the correct makeup is to a fashionably groomed woman, and the windwheel design used for the bedspread illustrated is a case in point. White or ivory mercerized crochet cotton, preferably the lustrous variety, is an ideal selection for material to be used in creating the bedspread which eventually will be in the heirloom class when neatly and accurately done. This same design creates a beautiful tablecloth.

For instructions in crocheting the windwheel medallion for a bedspread, No. X-455, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Sunday Afternoon Concert.

A hushed, enthralled capacity audience listening raptly to Dorothy Maynor and the superb performance of the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Dr. Stock's baton, and demanding encore after encore. . . . Singer Edith Mason paying tribute to Miss Maynor with shouted bravos. . . . Rosa Raisa, gray wings on her hat, down in front. . . . Claire Dux applauding while other listeners were whispering there was a Claire Dux quality in Miss Maynor's exquisite singing. Tears of appreciation in Margalo Gillmore's blue eyes at the close of the tender rendition of Handel's O Sleep as a first encore. . . . Lillian Gish, in a green wool Tyrolean raincoat and a little rice planter's hat, in an aisle seat. . . . Clifton Webb clapping vigorously for encores, breathless with enjoyment. . . . Katharine Cornell, looking so great a lady, so enchanting a woman, in a simple, broad brimmed beige felt hat and tailored suit, paying tribute to another great artist, and remaining until the very last to applaud, standing, Dr. Stock and the orchestra.

Cheese Cake a la Van Gogh.

Benjamin Draper of International House holding forth among the gourmets at Schlogl's, quoted a recipe for cheese cake he had translated from an early English manuscript at the University of Chicago. A recommendation, beyond its antiquity, was that Vincent Van Gogh's mother used a similar one in preparing this favorite dish of her son. The recipe:

Make a deep pastry shell and don't be stingy with the butter. Mix two quarts of good milk and a pint of cream and let it sour to the parting of wheys. Press out the liquid and throw it away. Let the curds simmer on a very low fire [the back of the stove to Mother Van G.]. Into the warm curds beat four fresh eggs. Add the juice of half a lemon and the grated rind of the other half, a half teaspoon of vanilla, and a handful of dried currants [dried blueberries are better, but who ever heard of them in the last hundred years]. Touch this off with a snit of ginger. Beat the mixture and put it in the pastry shell, sprinkling the top with powdered cinnamon. Bake slowly until there is a golden brown crust. Serve it forth.

Artist's Comment.

Mention of Van Gogh brings to mind the comments of an artist friend who went to the Arts club to see its fine current show, Origin of Modern Art. One of the pictures in the grouping under "Vision" is Van Gogh's Night Café loaned by Stephen C. Clark of New York. Looking at its brilliant yellows and greens, the visiting artist commented that Van Gogh had come half way to meet his present day public.

"What do you mean?" we asked.

"Well, Van Gogh, being desperately poor, couldn't afford to use expensive paints, so he used chrome yellow, which is cheap, and therefore fades, instead of the more expensive—and more permanent—cadmium. When I first saw that painting it was in 1906 at the Independent Salon in Paris. If the colors are brilliant now, you should have seen them then. I wonder if the fading of his colors has not hastened appreciation of his work."

Dad Deserves Rightful Love of Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

I knew a man some years ago who dearly loved his little girl. But everything possible was done to make him a negligible factor in her life. His wife, who was a jealous and dominating woman, wanted to be first with their child, and in word as well as deed, pushed him aside. This was hard on him, cheated the little daughter of something she should have had, and destroyed the balance and unity of their family life.

There are many fathers who would play their rightful rôle if their wives would let them.

If a man does his part, if he is a hardworking, affectionate husband and father, and he does not receive the consideration and affection of his children, his wife should most certainly put herself thru a severe cross-examination.

All sorts of factors, acts, and attitudes on her part enter in the situation. She might ask herself:

Do I build up Dick's prestige with the children?

Do I usurp all authority with them?

Do I make a fuss over his birthday and his Christmas and encourage the children to do likewise?

Do I feel "O, he's only a man and can't feed the baby or superintend Betsy's bath," or do I let him share in the intimate care of the children?

Do the children and I make him welcome each evening when he comes home?

Miss Adamowski, Soprano, Displays Pure, Small Voice

Evelyn Adamowski, young Chicago coloratura soprano, made her debut in the Woman's Club theater yesterday afternoon before a good sized and cordial audience.

In arias from "The Magic Flute," "Rigoletto," and "Lakmé," and numerous songs, the singer displayed a pure, small voice that was well projected and flexibly used. In the upper reaches of the voice it frequently took on an attractive glitter.

Musically, Miss Adamowski has a lot to learn, altho she sang numbers such as "The Last Rose of Summer" with much charm. R. E.

DEMARET'S 280 WINS MASTERS; MANGRUM 2D

CHICAGO, EUROPEAN TEAMS REACH PEAK FOR FIGHTS

FORM PLEASES COACHES; TAPER DRILLS TODAY

Await Wednesday's Bell in Stadium.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Europe's amateur boxing champions yesterday reached the peak of their preparation for Wednesday's ninth International Golden Gloves matches in the Stadium. If necessary, the eight young invaders could make a defense of their title tonight. They are ready.

Today they will begin to taper off. Final work tomorrow will be limited to light limbering up exercises.

Each man was sent thru three rounds of boxing, each round against a different sparring partner, and the customary rope skipping, calisthenics, and shadow boxing as Coach Steve Klaus seized upon the quiet of a rainy Sabbath around the Chicago Towers club to hold the team's hardest drill. At the end of the workout, Klaus, a veteran trainer given to pessimism, had difficulty curbing his enthusiasm.

Twelve days aboard ship had led him to expect that hard workouts would be necessary right down to the last day if his charges were to enter the ring against the Chicagoland Golden Gloves team in good shape. But the squad responded quicker than he had anticipated. The boxers have regained their timing and every man, with the exception of Guido Nardecchia, the flyweight, is down to weight. Nardecchia was half a pound over the limit when the squad reported for road work yesterday.

Pros Box with Tandberg.

Olle Tandberg, the Swedish heavyweight, again was the center of interest. Amateur sparring partners have become scarce since the husky sailor started leveling with his right hand a couple of days ago and it was necessary yesterday to invade the professional field to find opposition for him. Arne Anderson of St. Paul, whose bid for ring acclaim includes creditable showings against Buddy Knox and Lee Savold, volunteered his services. He spent the afternoon giving Tandberg the benefit of his experience gained since leaving Stockholm, where he and Olle fought for the same club.

But while the ringsiders cheered the big Swede, the impression grew among a few privileged daily observers that the stars of the European squad after Wednesday's bouts will be Federico Cortonesi, the Italian featherweight, and Egisto Peire, his lightweight teammate from Rome.

These Italians Are Vicious.

Cortonesi and Peire are essentially fighters. With the exception of Ulderico Sergo, the Italian bantamweight, the other invaders are boxers. Sergo fights or boxes as the mood strikes him. But Cortonesi and Peire are always vicious in the ring and operate on the belief that no punch is worth the effort it takes to deliver it if it isn't going to cause some damage when it lands.

Cortonesi drove his first sparring partner to cover with a right to the chin. When the dazed youngster had been led away, a lightweight came on and Cortonesi soon had him on the floor from a left hook to the stomach. A search has been started for a sparring partner built along the lines of Cortonesi's opponent Wednesday—Leon Haire of St. Louis. Haire is a tall, slender colored boxer, who flicks a long left to the face with great dexterity, but seldom settles down to slugging sessions. Cortonesi's opponents in Europe all have been little fellows of his own size, and Coach Klaus is afraid he may be handicapped beyond recovery unless he has an opportunity to work out against a tall man.

Chicagoans Remember Peire.

Peire, the government clerk who supports a widowed mother and two sisters, is no stranger to Chicago. He whipped over a right hand to Johnny Pleasant's chin in the second round of last year's International match and the fight ended right there. Another year of training and physical development has improved Peire's punching. This, plus the fact that his opponent

Chicago Team Ready; Bring On Europeans

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The quiet that precedes the zero hour settled upon the Chicago Golden Gloves camp yesterday. The fighters spent most of their time in the Illinois Athletic club's recreation and reading rooms—but whether they were glancing thru magazines or exchanging banter around billiard tables they all had the same thought in the back of their heads. They never forget that they're getting ready for the fight of their lives against the champions of Europe next Wednesday evening in the Stadium.

There was no sparring at all yesterday. With a minimum of work the boys will now go coasting up to their engagement. Coach Johnny Behr has no worries about the fighters' weights or condition. He is concerned now about keeping them at their finely drawn edge so that they will go into the ring ready to make a valiant effort to restore American supremacy in the field of international amateur boxing.

Coaches Weigh Selections.

Most of the boys will box one round today—and the next time they put on a pair of gloves they'll be in the Stadium dressing rooms, preparing for the battle.

The coaches now have the information they want on the capabilities of the squad. They will defer a final decision until they see what kind of condition the boys maintain as the day of the bouts approaches. Only

REDS AND CARDS LISTED AT 11 TO 5 TO WIN PENNANT

New York, April 7 (AP).—Jack Doyle, the Broadway pricemaker whose odds on the baseball pennant races are regarded as official, announced his first quotations today without drawing any line between the Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals in the National league.

Doyle, who has just returned from a tour of the baseball camps, said it was the first time in some 30 years of quoting pennant odds that he had been unable to establish a National league favorite. The Reds and Cards both are listed at 11 to 5 for first place, 7-10 for second, and 1-4 for third.

The New York Yankees are quoted at 7 to 20 to win the American league crown again with no prices listed for second or third place.

Doyle's prices on the other teams:

American league: Red Sox, 9-2, 7-10, 1-5; Indians, 8-1, 2-1, 7-10; Tigers, 10-1, 3-1, even; White Sox, 15-1, 5-1, 2-1; Senators, 30-1, 10-1, 3-1; Athletics, 50-1, 15-1, 6-1; Browns, 100-1, 40-1, 20-1.

National league: Dodgers, 5-1, 8-5, 7-10; Cubs, 5-1, 8-5, 7-10; Giants, 7-1, 5-2, 6-5; Pirates, 10-1, 4-1, 2-1; Bees, 50-1, 20-1, 8-1; Phillies, 100-1, 40-1, 20-1.

BROWNS RALLY IN 9TH; SCORE 3 TO BEAT CUBS, 4-3

Raffensberger Victim of Two Run Homer.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Worth, Tex., April 7.—Two singles and a pinch homer by John Berardino, all with two out in the ninth, this afternoon jolted the Cubs out of a victory they were figuring had been won the hard way. The three runs changed a 3 to 1 Cub edge to a 4 to 3 victory for the St. Louis Browns in the second Chicago-St. Louis north bound series.

The Cubs were feeling pretty cocky when the last minute debacle mowed 'em down. Augie Galan in the sixth inning had ended a hit famine imposed by Bob Harris by knocking a homer with one on to put the Cubs ahead, 2 to 1, after they had been held to one hit and one walk in the first five innings. Another run was produced by the Cubs in the seventh, to make the score 3 to 1.

With two out in the ninth Raffensberger had yielded only a scratch infield single by Don Heffner in 4¾ innings. Everything looked lovely.

Then It Happened.

Gabby Catches Entire Game.

Charley Root and Gabby Hartnett, oldest battery in the majors, started the game. It was Gabby's 1940 bow in a Cub lineup. Gabby went all the way, being especially anxious to work with Ken Raffensberger, who is being groomed as a Cub starter. Root stuck around for four excellent innings, the one run at his expense

TEXAN SCORES 71 ON FINAL 18; MOBBED BY FANS

Oak Park Star Gets 284, Nelson 285.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Augusta, Ga., April 7.—Jimmy Demaret, the 30 year old Texan whose golf shots are as bright as his crinkling smile, today won the seventh annual Masters' golf championship with a 72 hole score of 280, eight under par for the Augusta National course and only one over the tournament record of 279, established by Ralph Guldahl last year.

The famed Demaret grin and the green vagabond hat, which many believe will become the greatest piece of headgear in golf, today provided the color of the final round of the most exclusive party in the game. The leader at 54 holes, Demaret today was among the earliest starters, and therefore knew that he had to hang up a fancy score to beat off the challenge of the men pursuing him.

Captured by Hero Worshipers.

He answered that challenge with a smashing 71, born of 17 pars, 14 of them in a row, and one birdie. Other champions have run the gantlet of autograph seekers, but Demaret played left-to-right shots with a fountain pen for nearly half an hour before he could escape to the clubhouse. There he was mobbed by those of his rivals who already had finished. The crowd was estimated at 10,000, largest in the tournament's history.

Aside from Walter Hagen, golf never has produced a more popular player than the Houston boy who has won 6 out of 11 tournaments this year. His performance today makes him once more the leading money winner of 1940 with a total of $7,652.

Four strokes back of Jimmy came another Texas native, Lloyd Mangrum, who reports to the Oak Park, Ill., Country club as assistant pro within a few days. The slim Mangrum was second, but gave a show that commanded respect. After his world record 64 of Thursday's first round, he clung to the pace right to the last nine this afternoon, three-putting two greens, and then finishing with a grand 25 foot putt for a birdie on the final hole.

Demaret Has Time to Smile.

Even that brave effort failed, however, to catch Demaret, whose card was a masterpiece of unrelenting concentration. His only birdie came at the 485 yard 15th, where he had a 15 foot chance for an eagle. He blew a five foot try for a birdie at the first and another from 10 feet on the fifth. He overshot the 10th green and took three from the edge of the 13th, but beyond these he hit the ball perfectly all the way.

Thru all of it, James kept smiling, chatting with the gallery, and cheering Henry Picard, the national professional champion, who was his partner.

Picard, who trailed Demaret by four shots at the end of 54 holes, finished with a 72 hole cord of 288, where he was joined by Craig Wood, twice runner-up for the Masters, and Sam Snead, who last year was second to Guldahl. Between that threesome and Mangrum was a foursome headed by Byron Nelson, National Open champion and Masters' victor in 1937, with 285, and a 287 trio including Harry Cooper, who shot a 70 today; Willie Goggin of San Francisco, and Ed Dudley, the home club professional. Demaret's final card:

Par—Out	454	343	454—36
Demaret—Out	454	343	454—36
Par—In	443	545	344—36—72

Demaret Over Par Five Times.

For the entire 72 holes, Demaret was over par on only five holes. He scored 13 birdies, 11 of them on the back nine, which he whipped with a 30 on Thursday's first round.

Charley Yates of Atlanta, former British and Intercollegiate champion, led the amateurs with a 293, two shots better than Marvin Ward of Spokane, Wash., present national title holder.

The Masters finished without Bob-

Hayes Is Hot, Fans! It's the Doctor's Orders

Altho it was raining and there was a chill in the air yesterday Jack Hayes, White Sox second baseman, declared:

"Boy, I feel just like I'd played a double header in St. Louis in August."

Hayes wasn't fooling, either. He still was feeling the effects of his first fever treatment designed to cure the mysterious inflammation of his right eye. The veteran agreed to this new type treatment after examinations by two specialists had failed to reveal the source of infection.

If the veteran is cooled off enough by this afternoon he will submit to Inning Two of the fever cure. It is believed that only three treatments will be necessary.

He is undergoing his August-in-April treatment in Michael Reese hospital.

Detroit, Mich., April 7 [Special].—The big guns were muffled in the American Bowling congress tournament and the expected changes in the standings failed to materialize over the week-end. Only two major alterations were made among the high 10 event leaders today.

Alois Pensenstadler, 30 years old, of Oshkosh, Wis. rolled 715 on games of 246, 224 and 245, taking third place in the singles. Pensenstadler needed a double in the last frame to reach the 730 leading total, scored last week by John Taylor of Collingsdale, Pa.

Stanley Boris and Ed Jefferson, Hazelton, Pa., paced the doubles firing, scoring 1,270 on games of 452, 417 and 401 for ninth place.

Bowlers from the Chicago district rolled up few sizeable totals. Henry Ledene Sr., and Joe Heinrich paced the double teams with 1,205. George Geiser and Jules Lellinger, who have averaged 1,222 for the last 23 tournaments, scored only 1,077.

Spring Show.

On days like these my window pane's
A playground for bright drops of rain
That race and join in serried lines,
To pattern many vague designs,
Then kiss the ledge and tumble down
To join their sisters on the ground.
But some disdain communal pools,
Contentedly they turn to jewels,
Sparkling briefly in the sun,
Then vanish homeward when they're done. —Philip Gay.

200 Boxers to Bid Today for A.A.U. Crowns

Boston, Mass., April 7 (AP).—The lads who swap punches for glory—a list of well nigh 200 amateur boxers—gathered in Boston tonight to await the gong which starts the three day tournament to select eight National A. A. U. champions.

Only one of the eight amateur champions crowned last year in the San Francisco tournament is on hand to defend his title. He is Cozey Storace of Rome, N. Y.

The complete list of entrants will throng Boston Garden at 10 a. m. tomorrow for weighing in ceremonies and physical examinations. By mid-afternoon the last examination will be completed and the tournament will open with bouts going on continuously in three rings. The end of the first day of competition will find the field whittled down to 64 survivors.

On Tuesday working in only one ring, the 64 will engage in 32 quarter-final bouts and the victors will go on Wednesday in the 24 battles making up the semi-final and final brackets.

Chicago Team Ready; Bring On Europeans!

eight, one in each weight division, will gain the highly cherished honor of a fighting assignment against Europe's champions.

The boys who don't get a chance to box in the Internationals will appear in the preliminaries. With the experience they've gained as members of the squad they will have an excellent chance to figure prominently in next season's Golden Gloves events. In most weight divisions, the battle for positions has been very close and all of the squad members may feel they've given good accounts of themselves whether they get to fight the Europeans or not.

Fans Rush for Tickets.

Chicago's boxing fans, realizing that this is the last chance of the season to see the Golden Gloves fighters in action, are making a concerted drive on the ticket offices. Those who were unable to get seats for the tournament finals because of a sellout now are making sure they will see the champions perform in the most important engagement of all.

The fans have come to the conclusion that every Golden Gloves event is a good show but many of them find the International a bit more colorful and spectacular than the others. The nationalistic spirit of the invaders adds zest to the occasion. Three countries—Italy, Sweden, and Hungary—are represented on the European squad.

Despite the war and the unsettled conditions of sea travel this team made the trip across—and the boys are determined that they're not going home with the feeling that they went to all that trouble just to get licked. Chicagoland's fighters have ideas on the same subject, however, and there's no telling how the matter's going to be settled until the results are in Wednesday night.

REDS WIN, 5 TO 3; TIE SERIES WITH BOSTON RED SOX

Score Four Runs in 7th Off Jack Wilson.

Durham, N. C., April 7 (AP).—A four run rally in the seventh inning gave Cincinnati a 5 to 3 victory over Boston's Red Sox today and evened the series at five games each.

Second Baseman Lonnie Frey led the uprising in the seventh with a double and hit a home run in the eighth as the National league champions got to Lefty Grove and Jack Wilson for 12 hits. The rally was started after Eddie Joost, Reds' utility first baseman, was struck in the head and knocked out by a ball pitched by Wilson.

Jimmy Tabor knocked a home run over the left field fence in the fifth and Jimmy Foxx collected his fifth homer in a week in the sixth. Both were off Bucky Walters, who was relieved in the fifth by Joe Beggs.

Harry Danning's single and Johnny McCarthy's third homer of the training season gave New York two runs and the lead in the second. An unearned tally in the third when Frank Demaree scored on a double play provided the winning margin.

Hy Vandenberg pitched the full distance under some difficulty, yielding 10 hits, four more than his mates produced. Half of these blows were doubles, but 11 of the Indians were left stranded. Score:

Babe Phelps' home run with a man on base was the deciding blow. The Dodgers had taken a three run lead in the first when Phelps walked and Dolph Camilli hit a homer and Vosmik tripled, then scored on a wild pitch by Tom Bridges.

Earl Averill hit a home run in the first for Detroit, Rudy York hit one in the second and another in the sixth, both more than 400 feet, and Barney McCosky did likewise to tie the score in the ninth. Score:

SOX AND PIRATES AGAIN HALTED BY BAD WEATHER

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wichita, Kas., April 7.—Bad news trailed the treasury departments of the White Sox and Pirates again today. Cold weather, plus the complications of wet grounds, killed off all chance for the scheduled exhibition of big league talent. The financial blow was unusually severe because the advance sale indicated a turnout of 12,000.

After giving his temporary charges a full day of rest during yesterday's rainout in Enid, Okla., Lieut. Muddy Ruel decided another dose of the same treatment wouldn't be suitable for the highly conditioned athletes. Thus he singled out the batterymen, led them to a nearby armory and treated them to a session of throwing.

Opening Day Draws Near.

As Lieut. Ruel's regular job is overseeing the pitching department, he can't be blamed for showing a little concern over his responsibilities, what with the season's opening not much more than a week distant.

If today's exhibition game had been played, the Sox lineup would have been juggled a bit to conform to orders received from Manager Jim Dykes, who is in Philadelphia. The manager wired Ruel to start preparing against the probability that Jack Hayes, now in a Chicago hospital with an eye infection, would not be available for second base by the time the pennant race opens.

Puts McNair on Second.

Manager Dykes advised that Eric McNair be relieved from his third base duties and be transferred to second base, where he is not a stranger. He also advised that third base be tendered to Bob Kennedy, the 19 year old rookie with the amazing throwing arm. This arrangement removes from the setup, for the time being, Don Kolloway, the freshman who has been operating at second base since Hayes went away for medical attention. Kennedy also will be installed as leadoff man in the batting order, McNair filling the No. 6 hole.

McNair has done enough big league second basing to make it fairly certain there is not much risk involved in giving the position into his care. Because of Hayes' knee trouble, McNair was at second when the 1939 season opened. He was performing like a whirlwind until an unnecessarily brutal slide by Joe Gallagher, then of the Yankees, put him on the shelf in mid-May. By the time McNair recovered Hayes and Ollie Bejma were taking good care of his job. Thus McNair had to hang around until a new position became vacant. Finally, Marv Owen went on the crippled list, so McNair took over third base and stayed there, batting .324 and fielding stylishly.

It's Smith, Dietrich Today.

Just now McNair's arm is none too good, despite his insistence to the contrary. He has encountered trouble for more than a month, and repeated rest hasn't helped. If he has difficulty with his throwing, another switch may be necessary between now and opening day. In that event Dykes could return Kolloway to the position or give it to the more experienced Jimmy Webb, who, while essentially a shortstop, knows all the requirements of second basing.

If the Sox are able to play the Pirates tomorrow in Hutchinson, Kas., Chicago's pitching tasks will be assigned to Eddie Smith, the towheaded lefty, and Bill Dietrich. Smith recently was the target of a speech by Manager Dykes about not being in condition, but the little fellow immediately stepped out and showed that Dykes must have been talking about some other performer. Now Smitty is being considered as a possibility for the opening day job, which undoubtedly will bring forth Bob Feller, the Cleveland star, as an opponent.

All the pitchers, Thornton [Lefty] Lee excepted, seem to be in a fair-to-middlin' trim altho there has been no proof as yet that any of them are sufficiently rugged for a nine inning job. Lee's complaint is the same old arm soreness he developed soon after the opening of the Pasadena camp.

Browns Score 3 in Ninth to Beat Cubs, 4-3

The Cubs, sluggish afield until they met up with the Browns, put on their second best defensive game. There were a couple of lapses, but three well executed double plays eased things considerably until the belated disillusionment.

Aside from their licking today the Cubs were more or less atwitter against what the morrow will bring. Tomorrow, in Fort Smith, Ark., Dizzy Dean will undergo his 1940 unveiling. No one in camp can believe that Diz actually is going to work, but Diz says he is going to reveal his old time form, startling the universe with his artistry. He has announced he will go as far as he can.

Diz is said to be angry enough to do a sight of bearing down in Fort Smith. He has the idea that Manager Hartnett's lecture Friday in a San Antonio hall was dedicated to him. Last night he refused to be tucked in bed on the stroke of 12, "purely as a matter of principle," and today his anger increased when Hartnett refused to allow him to leave the club to visit his "Pappy."

Browns Score First.

The Browns started the scoring this afternoon in the second inning under somewhat fluky auspices. With one down, Sturgeon misjudged Judnich's high fly and let it plunk for a double. Heffner then singled to left, scoring Judnich. Susce flied to Galan and Sturgeon threw out Harris.

Dallessandro opened the Cub second with a double to the center field fence and Russell was safe on a fumble by Clift, but Hartnett hit into a double play and Sturgeon popped to Strange.

Raffensberger replaced Root at the start of the fifth inning. He walked Susce, first to face him; then Harris bunted and forced Susce, Hack to Sturgeon. Hoag batted for Radcliff and hit into a double play, Hack to Herman to Russell.

Raffensberger pitched out of a small jam in the sixth. With one down, McQuinn was safe on Sturgeon's wide throw. Gallagher flied to Dallessandro, then Clift walked. Laabs batted for Judnich and struck out on three pitches.

Then Galan Hits Homer.

In the last of the sixth Raffensberger became Harris' fifth strikeout victim and Hack flied to Hoag. Herman dumped a blooper single over Second Baseman Heffner's head for the second Cub hit of the afternoon. Then Galan sent his homer into the stands in right center, scoring behind Herman to put the Cubs ahead, 2 to 1. Leiber fouled to Susce.

The Cubs added a run in the seventh, thanks to three Brown errors, and singles by Hartnett and Sturgeon, but were stopped with the bases loaded. Howard Mills made the Cubs waste a couple of hits in the eighth.

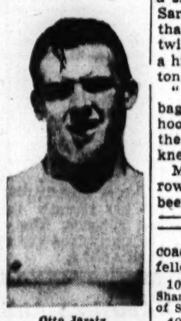
Swim Chiefs Pick Mythical Olympic Team

New York, April 7 (AP).—America's swimming coaches are mourning because this country boasts the finest collection of swimmers in the last dozen years. If this seems paradoxical, the reason is that the European war will prevent the United States from seeking revenge over Japan's water forces now that the 1940 Olympics will not be held.



Otto Jaretz.

Since 1928 the Japanese have made rapid strides in Olympic swimming and have dominated the event in the last three world athletic tests of supremacy. As new stars were developed in the United States after the 1936 Olympics, the Americans figured they would regain swimming supremacy in the 1940 games in Helsingfors.

Premier swimming coaches of the nation are unanimous in the belief that America would have mustered its strongest team. They gave this opinion during the national indoor Amateur Athletic union championships in New York, won by the University of Michigan Saturday.

Coaches Praise Kiefer.

Fellows like Bob Kiphuth, United States coach in the 1936 Olympics; Fred Cady, veteran diving coach from Los Angeles, and Larry Johnson of Boston, National A. A. U. swimming champion, marveled at Michigan's fine swimmers and the performance of Adolph Kiefer, who broke another world backstroke record.

Every one of the individual champions crowned during the two day indoor meet would make an Olympic team, the coaches feel.

Pick Mythical Olympics Team.

100 METER—Otto Jaretz of Chicago; Gus Sharemet, University of Michigan; Paul Wolf of Southern California.

BACKSTROKE—Kiefer, Mark Follansbee of Princeton, who was second in last night's event, and Al Vande Weghe of Princeton, who finished third.

BREASTSTROKE—Hough, John Higgins of Ohio State, second to Hough in the weekend competition, and Jim Skinner of Ann Arbor, Mich., who was third.

PLATFORM DIVING—Clark, who was second to Patnik; Lee and Norman Sper, 14 year old Los Angeles sensation.

RELAY—Andy Clark of Wayne university, collegiate quarter mile champion; Howie Johnson of Yale, collegiate 220 yard champion; John Macionis of Philadelphia, third to Haynie last night; Jim Welsh of Michigan, and the Hawaiian, Takashi Hirosi.

Damaged Base Blamed by Mize for Knee Injury

St. Louis, Mo., April 7 (AP).—Big Johnny Mize, slugging first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals who was sent home yesterday to visit the doctor, traced a painful knee injury to a slit in the bag at first base in the Sarasota, Fla., ball park. Because of that rip in the bag, Mize declared, he twisted his right knee jumping for a high throw in a game with the Boston Red Sox about two weeks ago.

"There was a tear or a slit in the bag," he said, "and my spikes got hooked in some way as I went up for the ball. When I came down, my knee ached."

Mize also will be examined tomorrow for a shoulder injury that has been bothering him since last spring.

Chicago Team Takes 4th in Railway Bowling Meet

Albany, N. Y., April 7 (AP).—Cashier's office of Chicago with 2,910 took fourth place in the five man event in the 19th annual American Railway Bowling association tournament which ended tonight. The Albany Boilers won with 3,044. Albany bowlers also won the singles and doubles. Seiloff of Chicago won fourth in the singles with 665.

SPARTAS PLAY 1-1 TIE IN RAIN, MUD WITH PITTSBURGH

Soccer Teams to End Series Sunday in East.

BY OFFSIDE.

The Morgan Sport club of Pittsburgh, Pa., and the Sparta Falstaffs of Chicago played to a 1 to 1 tie in Sparta stadium yesterday in the opener of their two-game series for the western title in the national soccer cup playoffs. They conclude the rivalry in Pittsburgh next Sunday.

Total goals scored in the two games will determine the winner. If next week's game is tied at the end of regulation time it will continue until the deadlock is broken.

2,000 Fans Brave Rain.

Due to rain and fog only 2,000 spectators watched the rivals battle on a muddy field yesterday.

The Falstaffs, winning the toss, were repulsed on their first scoring effort by Goalie Strimmell's alert play. Then the Spartas put on another drive and sent home their lone goal after six minutes of play. Pearson and Fraser provided passes to Jimmy MacDermott, who drove into the net from 10 yards. Play was even for the remainder of the first half, with Pittsburgh missing its best chance to score when Danilo's kick from 10 yards out was wild.

Silovsky, Chicago goal tender, made two fine saves early in the second period before the Morgans fell back on defense as the Falstaffs sent two fresh players into the fray. After 17 minutes Pittsburgh tied the score, Mitchell sending Nagy off down the middle to make a pass to Danilo, who closed in from the right for a successful 5 yard kick.

Morgan Kick Just Misses.

Both teams pressed whenever possible during the remainder of the battle, with the Falstaffs averting defeat when Mitchell's wide open kick bounced off the cross bar. Lineups:

EXPORTS MOUNT 33 PCT. IN SIX MONTHS OF WAR

Types, Destinations of Sales Changed.

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—Six months of war boosted the value of United States exports 33 per cent over 1938-'39 levels, the commerce department disclosed today. The war caused notable shifts in the type and destination of American products, however.

Trade trends mirrored such international policies as the British-French efforts to conserve exchange, the blockade of Germany, abrogation of the United States-Japanese trade agreement, and the freedom of arms sales under American neutrality law.

During the period from September, 1939, thru February, 1940, Canada and Latin America increased their purchases about 47 per cent each, Europe 27, and Asia 33. Europe, despite wartime trade restrictions, took 42 per cent of the total.

Some Gain, Some Decline.

Those restrictions caused gains in cotton, metals, chemicals, aircraft, and other manufactured exports, and caused declines in tobacco, grains, fruits, and automobiles. Trade to blockaded Germany and German-occupied areas dropped to only $700,000 from $72,000,000 in the same six months of 1938-'39.

Total exports were $1,949,000,000, compared with $1,460,000,000 in 1938-'39 and $1,798,000,000 in 1937-'38. The United Kingdom took $316,000,000 worth, 14 per cent more than a year earlier, and 13 per cent less than two years ago. France took $149,000,000, twice as much as in the 1938-'39 period.

Raw cotton, aircraft, metal-woodworking machinery, nonferrous metals, iron and steel, and lubricants—all wartime necessities—accounted largely for the increases to Britain and France.

Cotton Exports Increase.

Cotton exports to Europe increased to 3,500,000 bales worth $181,538,000, a rise of 35 per cent over a year before. Since the 1939 crop went on sale 70 per cent of exports have been going to Europe. England, France, and Japan have been the heaviest purchasers.

Aircraft sales totaled $91,000,000 during the period, compared with $31,000,000 in the 1938-'39 period and $24,000,000 two years ago. France and England bought heaviest, boosting aircraft sales to 5 per cent of total exports.

In Latin America all nations except Mexico and Argentina increased their purchases. Japanese trade declined 46 per cent between January and the end of February after abrogation of the United States-Japanese trade agreement Jan. 26, but Japan's six purchases were 14 per cent higher.

Efficiency Lifts Public's Return for Its Money

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—The Brookings institution said today that the consuming public had been getting more for its money since the early 1920s because of increased productive efficiency in the major industries.

The institution, a private research organization, reported that a study financed by the Falk Foundation of Pittsburgh showed that altho aggregate wages did not increase, labor had benefited from increased buying power and more leisure. Altho higher hourly wages were paid, shortened hours and unemployment kept down labor's total income. Return on invested capital declined.

Big Gain in Autos.

In 1936-'37, the report said, a dollar spent on purchase of an automobile bought 23 per cent more product, and one of much better quality, than in 1923-'24. Purchasers of paper and allied products got 40 per cent more for their money, consumers of iron and steel 30 per cent, and textile buyers 50 per cent.

The study covered four major industrial divisions — manufacturing, mining, railroads, and electric light and power.

Thruout the entire period the total number of wage earners declined 3.6 per cent and the number of hours of employment 22 per cent, the report said. This was attributed to failure of output to expand with productivity.

Other Facts Revealed.

The study also concluded that:

1. There had been a combined gain of more than 11 per cent in labor's hourly dollar earnings accompanied by declines in living costs, which raised the "real" hourly earnings more than 29 per cent.

2. There had been a 10 per cent reduction in labor's weekly money earnings, due to reduction of the work week from about 50 to 40 hours, but that buying power had increased 4 per cent.

3. Unemployment reduced by 13.4 per cent the aggregate dollar income of all workers in the four industries. A "very slight" aggregate gain was shown in buying power earnings.

4. Return on capital investment decreased 7.7 per cent. The rate of return dropped from approximately 6.4 per cent to about 5.6 per cent.

SALE OF STEEL ABROAD 15 PCT. OF PRODUCTION

Exports of steel have risen to 15 per cent of the industry's total production from an average of 5 per cent before the war, but the percentage is still less than that of 1917 and 1918, the magazine Steel reported yesterday.

"However, the heavier export business and seasonal gains in some steel products," the survey reported, "are helping sustain total business and arresting previous shrinkage in steelmaking.

"Ingot production last week recovered ½ point to 61½ per cent of theoretical capacity," the trade journal said.

BETHLEHEM STEEL.

Have war orders aided Bethlehem Steel? I know that in the last war this company received a huge share of the munitions business. I would also like a general report on the company.—D. C.

Answer: The sharp expansion of steel production by the Bethlehem Steel corporation in the last quarter of 1939 to almost 99 per cent of capacity was stimulated partly by the outbreak of the European war last September. The increase, however, was the result almost entirely of commercial orders and the war had not brought any "important amount of munition business," Eugene G. Grace, president of the company, said in his annual statement.

Bethlehem Steel is reputed to have the largest domestic capacity for making heavy ordnance and armor plate and is also the foremost builder of ships in this country. It ranks second only to the United States Steel corporation as a steel producer.

A well integrated steelmaker with plants situated near sources of raw materials and consumer markets, Bethlehem Steel has in recent years accented the production of lighter steels for the automotive industry. The company, however, is still primarily a producer of heavy steels for the construction and railroad industries.

The important markets for its steel products are in the east and its major plants are at Bethlehem and Johnstown, Pa.; Sparrow Point, Md., and at Lackawanna, N. Y., altho operations are also conducted on the west coast. The ingot steel capacity of the company and its numerous subsidiaries is currently rated at 10,240,000 tons a year.

Operations in 1939 averaged 70.8 per cent of capacity, compared with 43.3 per cent in 1938. Unfilled orders at the end of 1939 were estimated at $287,002,024.

Net income in 1939 was 369 per cent above 1938 net income, but was considerably below the profit in the recovery year, 1937. Consolidated net income, earnings per common share, and dividends per common share in recent years follow:

	Net income.	Earned per Com. share.	Div. per Com. share.
1936	13,901,000	2.09	1.50

1938	5,250,000	*0.70	.....
1939	24,638,000	5.75	1.50

*Loss.

A dividend of $1 a common share was paid last March 1.

The company has outstanding 2,984,994 shares of no par common stock, 933,887 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value, and consolidated funded debt of $186,459,000, including $105,000,000 recently issued to redeem older bonds. The company's 5 per cent preferred was called for redemption April 1.

URGE SELECTION OF EXPERIENCED MAN FOR SEC JOB

New York, April 7 (AP).—H. W. Prentis Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, today made public the text of a telegram he had sent President Roosevelt urging the appointment of a man "experienced in the financing and operating of private business," to the vacancy created by the resignation of George C. Mathews as a member of the Securities and Exchange commission.

Prentis said "existing obstructions to the flow of capital into industry are responsible in large part for the present American anomaly of billions of idle dollars and millions of idle men."

"A sound understanding of industry's problems would mitigate unnecessarily restrictive regulations," he said. "The appointment of a business man qualified by experience to help correct those conditions would be a stimulus to business volume and employment and consequently contribute to the public welfare."

STOCKS CLIMB BACK ON BULL MARKET LADDER

Steel, Motor Shares Lead Upturn.

New York, April 7 (AP).—Minus the fanfare of the September war upsurge, stocks have clambered back on the bull market ladder. Last week the market showed a burst of speed after shaking off late in March the inertia of the quietest winter on the stock exchange in many years.

As the buying filtered thru the list, branching out from steels and motors, transactions became the heaviest since the September war boom. The week's turnover was 7,269,520 shares, against 4,837,558 the week before.

The advance, largest for any week since October, lifted the Associated Press composite price of 60 stocks close to the January top. Many issues reached new highs for the year or longer and excited talk among chart theorists of an enduring bull swing.

Range Narrow for Two Years.

Since the 1937 collapse of an "inflation" movement, followed by an April rally two years ago, stocks have made a series of short thrusts into higher levels. Each time the market has fallen back part way. Stocks, consequently, have swung the last two years in the narrowest orbit the chart makers have traced since the 1925-'29 rise introduced a decade of tremendous fluctuations in share prices.

The excited splurge of "war buying" in September repeated this jabbing advance, and was followed by the almost lifeless markets of the winter months.

When the ticker tape suddenly began to record big-block buying at midweek, centered in such erstwhile favorites as United States Steel, cooler heads around the boardrooms sounded the old Wall street warning that "one swallow necessarily does not mean spring."

Two Big Influences.

Nevertheless, the market situation at this stage stirs unusual interest in professional trading circles for two big reasons:

1. The war and the temptation among traders to find a market parallel for the speculative boom in stocks and commodities during the world war.

2. The 1940 presidential election and the possibility a change in administration in Washington may register in business and the market place.

The war side was spotlighted by the speech Field Marshal Goering made in Germany, predicting a "blow in the west."

Builders Bank Plan Approval Set for Today

Stockholders of the National Builders bank at a special meeting today are expected to adopt a proposal to change the institution's name to the La Salle National bank. The bank will move from Wacker drive and La Salle street to the Field building on Sept. 1.

C. Ray Phillips, recently elected president of the bank, said last night there was no doubt that the change in name would be approved. He said that three-fourth of the bank's stock as represented by proxies already in hand, would support the plan. The stockholder meeting is scheduled for 4 p. m.

Value of Stock Higher.

According to John R. Nicholson, general counsel of the bank and one of the largest stockholders, the market value of the bank's common stock has increased by an amount approaching 200 per cent since a group headed by Nicholson and John Nuveen Jr., bond dealer, began negotiations about eight months ago to acquire control.

The group purchased about 60 per cent of the stock and took over control March 15. Laurance H. Armour was elected chairman.

Believes Public Approves.

Nicholson said that the total market value of the 40 per cent of stock retained by the old stockholders now exceeds the total market value of all of the stock eight months ago. He said the rise in value reflected public approval of the bank's program.

The new quarters in the Field building will cover 22,000 square feet of space, including 6,000 on the first floor at the corner of Adams and La Salle streets, and will be air conditioned.

PROPOSE UNIT TO SET FOREIGN TRADE POLICY

New Agency Would Act for Congress.

Washington, D. C., April 7 (AP).—A group of house Republicans today advanced a proposal to create a special committee representing both congress and the public to formulate a new American foreign trade program.

Representative Treadway.

Representative Treadway of Massachusetts, ranking Republican member of the ways and means committee, the house unit in which originates tax and tariff legislation, announced the proposal and said it was backed by all Republican members of the committee. He said that a resolution for creation of the committee would be introduced tomorrow.

Would Report in 1941.

The special 15 man committee Treadway said, would be instructed to report to congress not later than Jan. 15, 1941, recommendations for "a permanent tariff and foreign trade program along specified lines" to be administered by an independent agency "in compliance with clearly defined instructions from congress."

"It is our thought," he explained, "that such an agency should take over the tariff and foreign trade functions now exercised by the tariff commission and the state department and become the administrative agent of the congress in carrying out the joint resolution's declared purpose of 'promoting the greatest possible trade with foreign nations' while at the same time protecting domestic producers 'from unfair foreign competition in the home market.'"

Make-Up of Committee.

Five senators appointed by the Vice President.

Five persons appointed by the President, subject to confirmation by the senate, "none of whom holds any office in the government of the United States or is engaged in the activities of any political party." At least one would represent agriculture, one labor, one industry, and one the consumers.

Also scheduled is an inventors' banquet, at which "aluminum nuts," "reaper rolls," "vacuum tubers" and "incandescent salad," will be among the dishes served—and possibly—eaten.

In the electrical industry exhibit will be a "beardoscope" which indicates the direction in which a man's beard grows.

Open Pollinated Corn.

April 7, 1940.

OLD fashioned corn of the open pollinated type will be grown on the Du Page county farm this year for the first time since 1937, when there was one small patch of yellow dent, an open pollinated variety. All other corn on the place that year was hybrid and only hybrid strains have been raised since.

A few acres of Ried's yellow dent, an open pollinated variety that was for years a favorite in the corn belt, will be planted this spring for comparison with hybrid strains.

The open pollinated corn and a high yielding grain hybrid are to be planted in the same field of 14 acres. This will make it easy to compare growth, as the soil is fairly uniform thruout the field. The men have not decided whether to plant seven acres of each kind of corn or divide the field in three equal parts and plant the middle third in soy beans to separate the corn and lessen the amount of cross-pollination in case both form tassels and silks at the same time.

Methods to Be Similar.

Both kinds of corn are to be planted the same day. Rows will be the same width. As nearly as possible, the same amount of seed per acre will be used.

Seed bed preparation will be the same for both and they will be cultivated alike unless a difference in the rate of growth should make it necessary to cultivate the two kinds of corn at different times or in different ways.

Comparisons are to be made on cost of seed, stand, rate of growth, date of ripening, proportion of standing stalks at picking time, yields of both silage and grain, amounts of moisture in the ears, and keeping quality in storage. Finally, feeding tests are to be made on two similar groups of beef steers and the comparative gains tabulated.

The manager hopes this simple comparative test of open pollinated hybrid corn will help to answer the question so often asked farmers in recent years as to just how superior is hybrid corn since it usually is less palatable to live stock than the open pollinated varieties.

Not Sure of Value.

Workers at the farm, like many other farmers in the corn belt, had accepted hybrid corn without much question because of the high yields of the better hybrid strains. Now they are not quite sure of the advisability of discarding open pollinated corn entirely in favor of hybrids.

Casual observations in feed lots during the last five or six years have led many farmers to believe that open pollinated corn is superior to hybrid, especially for feeding cattle. Most hybrid strains are harder than old fashioned corn. Many farmers have found it necessary to crack or grind hybrid corn before feeding it. Some have quit growing hybrids for this reason. Others say the extra yields of hybrid strains far offset the expense of grinding the corn.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

"Community Renewed"

COMMUNITY RENEWED used cars ARE different.

The now famous trade mark of "COMMUNITY RENEWED" guarantees a better used car than those usually offered anywhere near the same price.

Our renewing process, explained in detail in our free booklet "What Every Used Car Buyer Should Know" is only made possible because of extremely large facilities, experts devoted to this work exclusively, and a tremendous volume because of a very popular new car.

Our terms are liberal—your old car taken in trade. We invite you to write or come in for a copy of our booklet "What Every Used Car Buyer Should Know."
